Virginia Beach hosts the First Lady.

She's not sure if, and when the President is coming to Virginia Beach. So, just in case he doesn't make it here to campaign, at least Rosalynn Carter has graced the city for him. Mrs. Carter was at the Beach recently, making three political stops: In Huntersville; at the New Cavalier Hotel where she addressed the Virginia Federation of Democratic Women; and at the newly opened Pavilion.

Seatack teacher

Walke helps them learn, love

By GREG GOLDFARB, editor,
The Virginia Beach Sun

Marian Elaine Walke, a 26 year Seatack Elementary School teacher and 45 year Beach resident, teaches because she cherishes her students.

She refers to her 20 first graders as her "children," and she credits them for her many years of teaching.

"I love my children," Walke, 48, said.

"I get tears in my eyes when a little Beach child puts his arms around my neck at the end of the school year and tells me he loves me and has enjoyed being in my class."

Although Walke has taught music, second, and sixth graders, over the years, she prefers first graders and has taught them for 15 years.

"I like to watch their growth," Walke said, "it's so prominent in their early years; you can see it."

"I consider myself a foundation builder."

Beach children are eager to learn

Walke, who received her teaching degree from Virginia State College, Petersburg, said Virginia Beach children are eager to learn.

"Beach children are particularly bright," Walke said.

"They come from homes where the parents are interested in them. I receive very good cooperation from the parents. Some teachers might differ with me on this point, but I have no problems; I must be lucky."

"Beach children are particularly bright...they come from homes where parents are interested in them"—Walke

Walke's class consists of 20 students who travel to school by bus from the Seatack, London Bridge, and Lynnhaven sections of Virginia Beach.

She says the biggest problem she encounters is the young student's transition from kindergarten to the first grade.

"When a child finishes kindergarten," Walke explains, "they are only used to attending school for half a day. It takes a lot of work on behalf of the teachers, to plan new activities to keep the restless students interested in school for six hours."

Teaching can be taxing

Walke said the most taxing part of her job

involves research and paperwork, but her dedication to the job makes it worth while.

"I think teachers spend a great deal of time with a student's personal record, maybe too much time. We also have to fill out many papers for city and state educational agencies. But we do it because we're dedicated to our students. We want to do what's best for them."

"The children are on our mind all summer. Teaching is not just a 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. thing. It's a 24 hour a day job. Even when I go home I find myself looking for something that I might be able to use in the classroom later."

Up for early breakfast

Walke fixes breakfast for her husband around 4:30 a.m. everyday, and is in school to almost that hour most Mondays through Fridays. She says some mornings, she arrives at school with the janitor.

"It's a long day, sometimes," Walke said. "I get up at 4:30 a.m. to fix my husband's breakfast. Clarence is a group supervisor for Bon Appetit Bakeries, Ltd., in Norfolk. Every one knows that a baker gets up early to bake fresh bread."

"After he leaves, I get back into bed until about 5:15 a.m., at which time I get up, read the morning paper and have a cup of coffee. I'm usually at Seatack by 7 a.m., going in the door about the same time as the janitor. I usually leave in the afternoon around 4 p.m."

Will continue to teach

If Walke doesn't get "worn out" by then, she plans to teach until she is 55 years old. That would be 1985. She is eligible for retirement funds after 30 years of teaching service. When she does retire she wants to stay in Virginia Beach.

"I like Virginia Beach," the Windsor Woods resident said.

"The people are friendly, and that makes for a nice, quiet neighborhood. Virginia Beach, also, doesn't have a high crime rate compared to other cities of comparable size.

You see, these things are important, because, I'm in my 26th year of teaching. I want to retire some day. If I could I'd teach until I'm 85; after that, I think a younger person is needed to do the job."

Walke helps one of her 20 students.

Beach soccer players help spark VWC

Plummer (l) and Dohmann square off for a little one-on-one.

Greg Ockfurb—Sun

By GARY EDWARDS

Special to the Sun

It seems that more and more college soccer coaches are looking to import foreign players to lead their teams to glory. Soccer stars from around the world are lured to America by promises of scholarships and fame.

However, one coach, Lenny Long of Virginia Wesleyan College, has found that foreign does not necessarily mean better.

Two home grown players

Long recruited two home grown Virginia Beach players, Joe Dohmann from Kempsville H.S. and Greg Plummer from Princess Anne H.S., and couldn't be happier about their early season performances as freshmen.

"Both Joey and Greg have adapted to the college game very quickly," says Long. "They have become very valuable to our team in a short period of time."

"It's always nice to have local players on your team," adds Long. "Parents and friends can see them play and it helps the growth of soccer in the entire community. We are very fortunate to have two local players as talented as Joey and Greg."

"They (Greg and Joey) have become very valuable to our team in a short period of time."—Long

Plummer

Dohmann

Greg Plummer, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Plummer, was an All-Beach player at Princess Anne High School. A sweepback at Wesleyan, Greg was recently named to the All-Tournament team in the Salisbury State Invitational Soccer Tournament. As sweepback, he is responsible for setting the Wesleyan defense, a responsibility he has handled quite well.

"Greg is a tremendous player who has handled everything I've asked of him well," notes Long. "He has the ability to adapt to any type of attacking situation."

Joe Dohmann, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Dohmann, was another All-Beach selection his senior year at Kempsville.

"Joey has such determination and desire that he is a dangerous threat any time he is on a soccer field," Long says. "He is not afraid to take people on, and most of the time he wins."

No complaints

When you talk to Greg and Joe you'll hear no complaints about staying at home to play their college soccer.

"I was impressed by Coach Long and the soccer program at Wesleyan," Greg says. "I also wanted to play tennis and at Wesleyan I'll have the opportunity to do both."

Joe is equally pleased with his decision to attend Wesleyan. "I couldn't be happier. I talked to other people, but Wesleyan is the perfect place for me."

The adjustment from high school to college soccer has not been that tough for me," he adds, "and I'm really looking forward to the rest of the season."

So while other college soccer rosters are dotted with unpronounceable names, Virginia Wesleyan will go for the home town players. The Marlins' success on the soccer field this year will in no small way rest on the shoulders of two of these home town boys—Greg Plummer and Joe Dohmann.

Resisting arrest; or resisting the wall?

The Virginia Beach Sun

"The police called it resisting arrest," said Beach resident George Michael (Mick) Branyan, "but I call it resisting the wall."

Goldfarb

"The Virginia Beach police definitely overreacted when they shoved me against the wall and bloodied my face!"

Branyan's remarks refer back to one night last July when he and his brother, John, were standing outside Hansel and Greta's pancake house, 1912 Atlantic Avenue.

"My brother yelled back 'hello' to one of his friends in a passing car," Mick, 25, said, "and two passing officers on mopeds turned around and came back to us."

There were about a dozen people standing around outside; it was about 2:10 a.m. The officers went right to John and started giving him co-ordination tests to see if he was drunk.

"Some additional officers came, plus a paddy wagon. One officer came right up in my face, and no one else's, and told me to move on. I told him, no. I wanted to know what was going to happen to my brother, and I started to walk in his direction."

"An officer grabbed me by the arm to keep me from interfering with the arrest, but I yanked it away and kept walking. The next thing I know, about three of them had forced my hands up my back, and shoved me into the rough surfaced wall of the restaurant. My face was being cut and I was pushing back off the wall with my chest. The police then told me that I was being charged with resisting arrest. Hell, I didn't even know I had been arrested. No one said anything to me. If they had, I wouldn't have resisted."

"The police called it resisting arrest, I call it resisting the wall."

"Hell, I didn't even know I had been arrested. No one said anything to me. If they had, I wouldn't have resisted."—Branyan

Both Mick and John were taken into custody and sent to the second precinct. Mick said at the precinct, he didn't like the way he was treated.

"They acted real snotty in the jail room," Mick said. "The police saw that my face was cut and wanted me to see a staff medic. I told them that I wanted to see a mirror first. They said, 'no' real snotty like. So I decided I wouldn't let them clean me up because I was sure that I wanted to get a picture of my face the way it was. I don't know why, I just wanted to."

Eventually, Mick and John appeared in court to answer to the charges.

John, who was the first one arrested, was fined $25 and charged with being drunk in public.

Mick, who, according to him, was only attempting to find out information about his brother, was charged with the use of profanity, fined $35; charged with failure to move on, fined $75; charged with resisting arrest, fined $100; and was given 10 days in jail, but with suspended sentence.

The Branyans' filed an official complaint with the Virginia Beach Police Department's internal affairs division, against one of the officers who had Mick pressed against the wall that night.

But, according to Captain Clyde Hathaway, internal affairs, the officer was exonerated because John, who had been asked to come in for an interview and serve as a witness to support Mick's allegations, refused.

Brutality petitions circulated

Consequently, Mrs. Margaret Branyan, Mick's mother, has been circulating petitions in the resort area of the Beach, protesting the behavior of some of the Beach police officers, and accusing them of "harassment and (administering) unnecessary beatings."

She has 385 signatures on four petitions, with 10 other petitions outstanding.

"We want to be sure that everybody realizes," Mrs. Branyan said, "that this brutality problem happens much more than people report."

"There are already hundreds of Beach residents who know of examples where the same sort of thing that happened to Mick has happened to someone they know. It's unfair."

Captain Hathaway, dismisses the petitions as "385 peoples' opinions."

Was Mick placed under arrest?

Beach police brutality is an issue which has been publicized in local newspapers all summer long. Occasionally, the Sun gets a tip about such instances. This story indicates one such time.

Through investigating this story, the Sun fell across a technicality which could have spared Mick from charges and fines. By Mick's own admission, he was never told he had been technically placed under arrest. Does he have a witness?

Captain Hathaway said, attempting to explain the event, George Branyan was told to move on, and why he was charged with resisting arrest. "When Hathaway was asked whether Branyan had actually been verbally told he was being placed under arrest, Hathaway did not comment. Even after reviewing a summary of officer's report of the incident, he could not answer in the affirmative."

He should have been told

Lieutenant F. R. Scarborough, in a telephone interview with the Sun, attested to the fact that normally, subjects are verbally told when being placed under arrest.

"Under State law, it is accepted practice that all subjects be verbally told they are being placed under arrest," Scarborough said.

"Technically, if an officer merely places a hand on you it can be enough of a gesture to signify the act of arresting; but under normal circumstances, usually both is done: The officer touches the subject and verbally tells them."

"Could he have gotten off if he was not told? Sure. That would have been one of the first things I would have told the judge; that I had never been told that I had been placed under arrest."

Captain H. Capps of the investigative division said, "Yes. The subject should be told that he is being placed under arrest."

What does it all mean?

The story of Mick and John Branyan seems to one of being in the wrong place at the wrong time, but regardless, the early morning event back on July 22 has caused bad blood between some members of the community and some members of the police department.

If enough people sign the petitions, alleging that they know of what they think are police brutality incidents, internal affairs should make an investigation about the conduct of its officers.

If people didn't interfere with police work, such as Mick Branyan did when his brother was being arrested, more people would stay out of trouble.

But without a doubt, if more people were told that they were being placed under arrest, fewer people would be charged with resisting arrest.

Hundreds of people were on hand at 25th Street for King Neptune's coronation.

By GREG GOLDFARB, editor,
The Virginia Beach Sun

"This was the biggest and best Neptune festival ever held," said Stuart Cake, festival boardwalk and media co-ordinator.

"Not counting the pre, and post festival events, approximately 510,000 or over half a million people participated in this year's event."

Biggest event in city

This year's seventh annual Neptune festival, sponsored by the City of Virginia Beach, and the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce, is said to be the largest event ever held in the city.

Cake said the purpose of the festival is two-fold:

"It is to celebrate the end of the summer," he said, "and it's an event where citizens of Virginia Beach can come out and really enjoy themselves."

Festival director Star Shotwell echoes Cakes remarks.

SUNSHINE GIRL

Warnalis to be a CPA

Even though she's not old enough to vote, SUNshine Girl Suzan Warnalis has her own strong political beliefs.

"I don't want Carter and I don't want Regan," she said. "I'd like to see what Independent candidate John Anderson can do.

"I think a third party gives the voters a needed, extra choice of political parties so a person doesn't have to be a staunch Democrat or Republican. My father wouldn't agree with me, however, because he is a Republican."

Suzan's active political views seem to be in line with her active personality.

Daughter of Lawrence and Joan

The daughter of Lawrence J. Warnalis, sales manager for an industrial hose distributor in Norfolk, and Joan Warnalis, a receptionist for the Holy Family Parrish, Virginia Beach, Suzan has been active at First Colonial High School as a Student Co-operative Association (SCA) representative; and in the Drama Club, two years.

"I haven't acted in school," she said, "but I have performed in the Virginia Beach Recreation Center/Kempsville, production of "The Boyfriend." I also sing soprano in the church choir."

A one and a half year Beach resident, Suzan was born in West Virginia, but has lived since then in several cities.

"I moved away from Huntington, W. VA two years after I was born," she said. "After that, I lived in Atlanta, Boston, Philadelphia, and now, Virginia Beach.

"Of them all, I remember Philly the best. It was where I really grew up. I liked the big city life, and it is also where I began modeling. now I model for Models Inc., Virginia Beach."

Suzan will graduate from First Colonial High School next spring.

Suzan Warnalis

Suzan enjoys many activities

Suzan's hobbies include La Crosse, tennis, sailing, softball, water skiing and serving as a wrestlette; a cheerleader for wrestlers.

She says she likes Virginia Beach for several reasons.

"I like to be able to get in my car and drive to the beach," she said from her home in the Baycliff section of Virginia Beach, "and not have to spend four hours riding to it.

"Also, since I lived in Boston for a while, I was brought up on seafood; especially lobster. So, needless to say I like Virginia Beach for its supply of seafood.

"I like to watch the surfers; but as far as that goes, I like to watch the Virginia Beach men in general.

"I like to watch men from 18 to 24 years old, tall and intelligent, with good features. He must be a good communicator."

Will settle at Beach

Suzan likes the small town atmosphere of Virginia Beach in the winter, and the big city feeling of it in the summer. She predicts she'll settle here after college.

"I will probably settle for the rest of my life in Virginia Beach," she said. "There's an outside chance that I may go up to another big city like New York, but I like the small town atmosphere here. The Beach has real nice people, and they seem to offer plenty of southern hospitality."

Suzan likes Rock, and Classical music. Her favorite artists are Billy Joel, and Van Halen.

Her favorite Beach nightspots are, The Raven, and Duck Inn.

four city blocks of sandcastles; 38 ethnic groups sponsoring booths with wares for sale; plus concessions.

Too much food at feast

One of the highlights of the festival was the annual seafood feast.

This year it was held at the Ocean Island Motel on Shore Drive.

One of the criticisms of previous festivals is that there was never enough food to go around. This year, however, George Pappis, who co-sponsored the feast, bought more than enough food.

"It was a real good meal," Pappis said, "but I was disappointed that only 1,100 or 2,000 tickets were sold. I ended up with a lot more food than I needed."

Seafood for the feast included, 7,000 clams. Only 3 thousand were served; the same number of oysters. Bushels of steamed crabs numbered 23 to 24; only 10 were used. One hundred gallons of clam chowder were prepared; 50 were served. Forty gallons of cole slaw was prepared; only 20 were served.

But despite the losses, Pappis said he will try to hold the feast again next year.

"I feel that I will be able to hold the seafood feast again next year," he said, "but first I have to talk to my partner Harry."

"This was the first year for all the extras, though. In the past, the feast had been held on the Beach boardwalk, with people having to go to a number of booths to get the food they wanted."

"This year we centralized it all. We had a fried seafood buffet, plus clam, oyster, and crab bars. We also had live entertainment, and hayrides."

"I've received excellent reports from the people about this year's festival. The chamber of commerce has been real gracious, and the support up and down the line couldn't have been better."

To Every Thing There Is a Season

To every thing there is a season, and a time to every purpose under the heaven:

A time to be born, and a time to die; a time to plant, and a time to pluck up that which is planted; A time to kill, and a time to heal; a time to break down, and a time to build up;

A time to weep, and a time to laugh; a time to mourn, and a time to dance; a time to cast away stones, and a time to gather stones together; a time to embrace, and a time to refrain from embracing;

A time to get, and a time to lose; a time to keep, and a time to cast away; a time to rend, and a time to sew; a time to keep silence, and a time to speak;

A time to love, and a time to hate; a time of war, and a time of peace.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Council acts on wrong resolution; Smith blamed

Editor:

On Thursday, Sept. 25, at 1 p.m. in the Virginia Beach City Council Chambers, I attended the Eastern Virginia Health Systems Agency Public Hearing concerning the proposed urgent care health center to be built by Medical Center Hospitals to be located in the Green Run (Chimney Hill) section of our city.

Mr. Michael Barrett, assistant city manager, read into the official records of this hearing the resolution from the Virginia Beach City Council as voted on (so I thought) Monday, Sept. 22. He then handed the resolution to Mr. M. P. Gray, presiding officer of this hearing.

Next to speak was Dr. John A. Thomas, president-medical staff, General Hospital of Virginia Beach. At the conclusion of his opposing remarks, Dr. Thomas noted that part of the Virginia Beach City Council resolution, as read by Mr. Barrett, was left out. He stated he wished to make an 'addendum' to the resolution and added to what Mr. Barrett had read.

I sat and listened to eleven more speakers. The presiding officer asked if anyone else wished to speak, they had called all persons submitting requests. I raised my hand, supported the proposed facility, and made the comment that I had attended the Monday night Virginia Beach City Council meeting and recalled no 'addendum' to the resolution as passed having been made.

Not having a copy of the resolution, I was puzzled as to what Dr. Thomas was referring to. I felt compelled to make my concern known and in the official record of this Hearing, Dr. Robert Waddell immediately jumped in and stated that he to was present at the Monday night City Council meeting, and the additional wordage, as read by Dr. Thomas, was indeed a part of the resolution as passed. This ended the hearing!

I immediately cornered Mr. Barrett and asked him what the confusion seemed to be. He assured me that he had read the resolution as given to him by the city clerk. He was going to check and see what, if anything, had happened.

As I was leaving the council chambers, I walked by Mrs. Smith's office, looked in, and saw Mr. Barrett standing near Mrs. Smith as she was going through a stack of papers on the desk. I opened the door, stepped inside, and asked what the confusion seemed to be. Mrs. Smith never answered, just looked up.

Mr. Barrett stated that it appeared he had been given a copy of the resolution that was not voted on by the Council Monday night and that this was the one he had read into the official record of this hearing. With Mrs. Smith still looking through the stack of papers, I left!

To say I was upset would be the understatement of the year!

This morning, Sunday, Sept. 16, shortly after 9 a.m., I called Mr. Barrett's office to ascertain if, in fact, he had been given a copy of the wrong resolution to present at the hearing. He confirmed to me that this did, in fact, happen! He further stated that he had managed to give a copy of the correct resolution, as was actually voted on, to the presiding officer of this hearing.

He offered his apology to me. I told him that I did not feel he had anything to apologize for, this error should fall squarely on the shoulders of the city clerk, Mrs. Ruth Hodges Smith!

My feelings on this proposed medical facility are quite strong. Watching the politics involved as it has progressed has further piqued my interest. It was clear to me at Monday nights informal session, listening to comments made by several council members, that the original resolution would not have received unanimous support. Mrs. Smith was present at this meeting. Hearing the various comments at this time, she should have made extra sure that the proper resolution was given to Mr. Barrett Thursday afternoon!

When I got to the informal council session Monday evening, Dr. Holland was passing out another resolution, which proved more acceptable to council members, and was the one voted on during the council public session.

No fault for this error should be placed on Mr. Barrett or any member of Mrs. Smith's staff, she is the City Clerk and, as such, should have personally checked the resolution before it was given to Mr. Barrett to read. I cannot stress this point enough!

I realize that we're only mortal beings and, as such, subject to making mistakes. If I hadn't been present, this mistake would have gone uncovered. The person holding the position of city clerk should exercise the utmost caution and care in executing the duties of such an office.

You just can't comprehend my feelings concerning this whole affair, to me it is nothing more than gross negligence on the part of Mrs. Smith. Something needs to be done, and immediately, a letter of explanation from the city council to The Eastern Virginia Health Systems Agency would, possibly, suffice. The harm has been done, the wrong resolution appears on the tape of this public hearing.

To err is human, however, when it becomes the rule rather than the exception, immediate corrective measures should be taken.

"Born Again" means many things; what does it mean to me?

Dear Mr. Tripp,

So much is being said today about the "Born Again" experience. Exactly how does this experience take place in someone's life?

C.M.

Dear C.M.,

It is true that the phrase "Born Again" has become more popular within the past decade. This is exciting because now, more than ever before, people from all walks of life are tagging themselves as "Born Again." I am concerned that this phrase has been so overused that its real meaning has been diluted. The born again experience is much more than a passing fad.

Being Born Again simply means that you have made a commitment to Jesus Christ and have given Him control over your life. The first step in making this decision is realizing that you are a sinner. Romans 3:23 says, "For all have sinned and come short of the glory of God." This includes everybody. Secondly, you must realize that if you continue in your sin, eternal death will be your reward. Romans 6:23 tells us that "the wages of sin is death; but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord."

Weber, Leggett, wed

The marriage of Kathy Jo Leggett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Lee Leggett of Suffolk, to Gregg Kent Weber, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kent Jules Weber of Virginia Beach, took place at 4 p.m. October 4th, 1980 in Hillcrest Baptist Church.

The Rev. Ben Powers and Rev. Thomas Britton officiated at the double ring ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Art Sessoms sang "The Wedding Song" and "Born Again." Mr. Gregory Lawrence sang "Walk On In Faith."

Escorted by her father and given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a gown of white silk organza and chantilly lace. The bodice, covered with chantilly lace and seeded pearls, had a Queen Anne neckline and bishop sleeves trimmed in seeded pearls. An attached chapel train of chantilly lace was edged in matching lace, which encircled the hem of the entire skirt.

Her veil was along mantilla of imported illusion attached to a pill box headpiece. The entire veil was edged in chantilly lace. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses and baby's breath.

Mrs. Florence Beale of Richmond was matron of honor. Miss Glenna Durham of Woodbridge was maid of honor. Other attendants were Mrs. Belinda Jeffreys, Mrs.

Denise Adams, Miss Cathy Allbrook all of Suffolk, and Miss Kelly Ann Leggett of Suffolk, sister of the bride.

They wore full-length dresses of peach satin and pearls. They carried an arrangement of silk flowers in wicker baskets.

Miss Kelly Marie and JoAnna Hogge of Suffolk daughters of Dr. and Mrs. Allen Hogge were flower girls. Master Mathew Wallace of Virginia Beach, son of Dr. and Mrs. Duncan Mathews was ringbearer.

Ushers

Mr. Kent Jules Weber, father of the groom was best man. Ushers were Mr. Bernard F. Kornegay, Jr. of Chesapeake, Mr. Allen Anderson and Mr. Gary Smith of Virginia Beach, Mr. Mitchell Adams of Suffolk, Christopher John Paul of Rimrock, Arizona and Master John Gray of Franklin, cousin of the bride.

For her daughters wedding, Mrs. Leggett wore a full length gown of lavender with Juliet sleeves and a heart shape neck.

Mrs. Weber wore a full length gown of mint green, with a long-sleeve, open jacket. The high neckline had a roll collar, and the skirt was accented-pleated, topped by a belt with two rhinestone buttons.

Mrs. Weber

Reception

A reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church immediately following the wedding. Mistress of ceremony was Mrs. Karen Newton of Suffolk, sister of the bride.

Mrs. Eric Anderson of Virginia Beach acted as hostess at the reception. Floating hostesses were Miss Karen Steinbach, Miss Scotti Robertson and Miss Jeanie Smith, all of Suffolk.

Following a wedding trip to the Poconos the couple resides in Portsmouth.

The Virginia Beach Reading Council and Virginia Beach Library Association jointly present two workshops titled, "Creative Approaches for Motivating Good Readers."

The workshops will include, "Creative Outreaches of Storytelling" by folk tellers from North Carolina. "Challenging the Gifted Reader" (Junior and Senior levels) and "Expansion and Enrichment of Curriculum" (elementary level) will be presented by Mary Hughes and Nancy Hunt, teachers at Old Donation School for the Gifted and Talented.

The workshops will be held at Plaza Junior High, 3080 South Lynnhaven Road, Monday, Oct. 13 at 7:30 p.m.

The general public is invited. Call 428-3645 for more details.

Graduate tryouts announced

The Little Theatre of Virginia Beach will hold tryouts on Monday and Tuesday, Oct. 6 and 7, at 7:30 p.m., for its upcoming production "The Oldest Living Graduate."

The play is one of the Texas Trilogy by Preston Jones, is set in a small Texas town and revolves around the Kincaid family, in particular the Colonel—who is the oldest living graduate of his military academy; but this is the least of many complications.

All roles are open. Needed for the cast are six men and three women. The play will run on weekends from Nov. 21 through Dec. 6, with a matinee on Nov. 30. The director will be Pat Bernick.

The Theatre is located on 24th Street between Bird Neck Road and Artic Avenue.

Public hearing set on Beach expressway

Plans for a proposed interchange on the Virginia Beach-Norfolk Expressway (VA 44) at First Colonial Road in Virginia Beach will be discussed at public hearing at 7 p.m. on Thursday, Oct. 16, in Linkhorn Park Elementary School at 1413 Laskin Road.

Representatives of the state Department of Highways and Transportation will be at the school Oct. 14 between 5 p.m. and 8 p.m. for an informal review of information on the proposed interchange. Interested persons are encouraged to review the department's proposals before the hearing.

The department will propose a diamond type interchange, with an additional loop ramp in the southeast quadrant. The loop would provide eastbound traffic on the expressway with a northbound access to First Colonial Road.

To provide space for the loop, it would be necessary to lengthen the eastbound and westbound expressway bridges that cross the northbound lanes of First Colonial Road. Such a modification would accommodate four northbound lanes on this section of First Colonial Road.

It also would require replacement of the bridge piers and abutments east of First Colonial Road, as well as the replacement of the eastern half of the superstructure and modification of the center pier.

An additional eastbound outer lane on the expressway would be required to serve as a deceleration lane for the new loop, requiring widening of the eastbound expressway structure.

On First Colonial Road, some widening of both northbound and southbound roadways would be required to accommodate right and left turn lanes onto the expressway.

Estimated cost of the interchange is $9.7 million. Funding for the project would come from the Virginia Beach-Norfolk Expressway's toll revenues.

Maps, drawings and other information are available for public review in the Department of Highways and Transportation residency office at the intersection of Business Route U.S. 13 (Military Highway) and VA 168 in Chesapeake and at the district office at 1700 North Main Street in Suffolk.

Written or oral statements may be presented at the hearing. Written statements also may be submitted to the department within 10 days after the hearing.

Proposed roadways.

THERE ARE LOTS OF GOOD REASONS TO DRIVE 55. ONE WEARS A BADGE.

The maximum speed limit in Virginia is 55. Driving faster can cost you a lot more than just the extra gas you're burning.

Speeding violations can cost you your license.

Loss of control of your automobile at high speed can cost you your life. Or someone else's.

So please drive 55. And Virginia law enforcement officers will try to see to it that everyone else does, too.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this proceeding is the termination of the residual parental rights of Donald Williams and Rita Marie Lester to their child, Baby Boy Lester. The consequences of termination of residual parental rights are that a parent or parents forever relinquish all parental rights such as, but not limited to, the rights to companionship, association, religious training, education, discipline, guidance, maintenance and all decision making concerning the child's welfare. And further it is to commit said infant to the care and custody of the Virginia Beach Department of Social Services with the right to said agency to consent to the infant's adoption.

And an affidavit having been made and filed that Donald Williams is a proper party to this proceeding; but due diligence has been used to ascertain in what county or corporation he is, without effect, it is ORDERED that Donald Williams do appear here within ten days after due publication hereof, and do what may be necessary to protect his interest in this suit.

In re: Tashaun Mitchell
Sarah Virginia Mitchell

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this proceeding is the termination of the residual parental rights of Linda Mitchell and Father-Unknown to their children Tashaun Mitchell and Sarah Virginia Mitchell. The consequences of termination of residual parental rights are that a parent or parents forever relinquish all parental rights such as, but not limited to, the rights of companionship, association, religious training, education, discipline, guidance, maintenance and all decision making concerning the child's welfare. And further it is to commit said infant to the care and custody of the Virginia Beach Department of Social Services with the right of said agency to consent to the infant's adoption.

And an affidavit having been made and filed that Linda Mitchell and Father-Unknown is a proper party to this proceeding; but due diligence has been used to ascertain in what county or corporation he is, without effect, it is ORDERED that Linda Mitchell and Father-Unknown do appear here within 10 days after due publication hereof, and do what may be necessary to protect their interest in this suit.

For week of Oct. 1 - 7

ARIES: (March 21 to April 19) — Also Aries Ascendant) — You could turn a hobby into a second income now. Domestic problems might best be solved by going along with your partner's point of view. Share your ideas with youngsters — especially in regard to their education.

TAURUS: (April 20 to May 20) — Also Taurus Ascendant) — At work direct your efforts to routine matters and taking care of details — keep a low profile. Handle co-workers and superiors with kid gloves, waiting for a better time to present your new ideas. You have support at home.

GEMINI: (May 21 to June 20) — Also Gemini Ascendant) — Go over your plans and new ideas carefully before presenting them to superiors toward the end of the week. Past study and efforts could pay off for you now and the break you have been waiting for could finally come your way.

CANCER: (June 21 to July 22) — Also Cancer Ascendant) — Those involved in buying or selling real estate could get an attractive offer early in the week. Don't let domestic concerns interfere with your job performance.

Finances improve and your income could exceed your expectations.

LEO: (July 23 to Aug. 22) — Also Leo Ascendant) — Clear up the details of past projects before starting new ones. Guard against being over-sensitive to others' remarks — use your sense of humor. Use your common sense in business matters and deal with things over which you have control.

VIRGO: (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22) — Also Virgo Ascendant) — Good news in the mails is possible and an old project could turn out successfully. Curb tendency to be careless — drive "heads up." Give your attention to routine matters and clearing up details on the job. Take care of any health problem.

LIBRA: (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Also Libra Ascendant) — Get the advice of a professional in legal matters — it could save you money in the long run. Catch up on correspondence, pay bills and balance accounts. Be compromising with loved ones — let them have their own way for now.

SCORPIO: (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Also Scorpio Ascendant) — Concentrate on business and how you can increase your savings. Give touchy co-workers a wide berth and work completely on your own. Later in the week you can approach superiors with new plans and ideas.

SAGITTARIUS: (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Also Sagittarius Ascendant) — Dig in and get lots accomplished early in the week. A relationship could be dissolving and a new one forming. The advice of an older, wiser person could be helpful. Curb tendency to spend impulsively and extravagantly.

CAPRICORN: (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19) — Also Capricorn Ascendant) — Good time to approach superiors for a promotion or a raise. Changes occurring in your love life may make you moody, so try to avoid confrontation with loved ones. Resist making tactless remarks you'll later regret.

AQUARIUS: (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18) — Also Aquarius Ascendant) — Direct your creative talents toward increasing your income. Guard against depressive moods brought on by frustration. Matters that appear blocked or bogged down will open up soon — be optimistic.

PISCES: (Feb. 19 to March 20) — Also Pisces Ascendant) — Be sensitive to the needs of children and young people around you — encourage communication. Get help from family members in home beautification projects. New ideas could appeal to those who could give financial backing.

Cool Fall feelings from Beach resident

Virginia Beach resident Philene Gragnano says she likes Fall weather. "I think it's real moody," she said. "People at the Beach really seem to become slower paced, and laid back. I like it." For more information and pictures see Philene as this week's SUNshine Girl on page 4.

A conversation with:

Billy Douthat

Douthat fills musical missing link in Tidewater; discusses Whisper's move to the Beach; and himself.

BACKGROUND NOTES:

By Greg Goldfarb,
Sun editor

"By coming to the Beach, Billy Douthat is bringing to the city the last of a dying breed of true concert promoters," said Bill Reid, Whisper Concerts college booking agent.

"Many promoters around the country book large halls," Reid continues, "but Billy uses all sized halls; books diversified talent; and uses a variety of advertising promotional ideas with local record stores and radio stations to ensure the concert's success. He does it all."

A 10 year Virginia Beach resident and Pearisburg, Va, native, Billy Douthat is the president of Whisper Concerts, Inc., Virginia Beach.

Most people in the entertainment, or show business, locally and nationally, recognize Douthat as the 31 year old mastermind behind a young and highly successful concert company which began only four years ago in Norfolk.

Since then, Douthat and his staff have booked practically every top name rock and roll act performing today into the Tidewater area.

In addition, Douthat, and partners, have bought theatre houses in Hampton and Norfolk to host some of their shows; and also plan to open nightclubs in Virginia Beach, Hampton and Norfolk.

Douthat, who had been living in Virginia Beach and commuting to Norfolk to work, started moving the concert company from Norfolk to the Beach late last Spring. He moved from offices on the fourth floor of Holiday Inn Scope, to a large, old, restored three story house two blocks from the Atlantic Ocean.

But who is this quiet man, who after only a few years of booking national entertainment, now lives comfortably in an oceanfront condominium and drives a cadillac?

Recently, the Sun sat down with Douthat to find out more about him, his company, and the future:

THE INTERVIEW:

SUN: What are some details of your personal background?

DOUTHAT: I was born in Pearisburg, that's right, Pearisburg, VA. My father was a painter and my mother, a housewife. Our family moved to Newport News when I was 13 years old. I ran track and lettered in three events: The one mile run; two mile run, and cross country.

I graduated from Newport News High School in 1967 and went to work for a private company, selling stereos, televisions, appliances and the like. It was real high powered sales, and I really learned a lot from it, but I got tired of it and decided to try booking musical bands. Of course, having that pressure then helped me deal with the pressures of the concert business today. Everything helps.

SUN: Had you never booked any bands before this?

DOUTHAT: No. I started in the business cold around 1971-72, booking bands in Hampton at all the local clubs.

"I got to know a man named D. C. Auman, who was with a company then called Attractions Ltd. The name of that company changed several times before the 1975 merger with Norfolk entertainment agency Southern Orchestras, run by Bruce Becker.

I worked for about a year after the merger, but I had a direction in which I wanted to move that my bosses didn't like. I knew I had to move on.

I wanted to work with national bands, and fill a musical gap in the Tidewater area that no one was even noticing. The people I was working for wanted the guaranteed money of local entertainment and didn't want to take any risks by booking bands from out of the area. I was just getting into the national scene at that time, but I felt confident that I could make it.

SUN: What brought you from the Peninsula to Norfolk and Virginia Beach?

DOUTHAT: I had already moved to Virginia Beach about 1972-73 while I was still working for Southern.

I always liked Norfolk and enjoyed being mixed in with all the people, and the big city; I didn't mind working there.

But, I became tired of driving back and forth between Norfolk and the Beach to go home and go to work. I like the Beach because I think it's the most active city in the state.

SUN: You've booked Elton John, Earth Wind and Fire, The Who, and other superstar bands. Some people say one can't book a band, or a concert into the Tidewater area without going through your company. What's in the future for you now? Stay here or look for something bigger?

Douthat, a Newport News native and 10 year Virginia Beach resident.

DOUTHAT: Before I move from Virginia Beach, I would have to be offered an annual six digit pay figure; but no, I don't have any plans in the immediate future to leave this area unless the economy dries up and people stop going to concerts and don't want any entertainment.

I think the real challenge for me now is to see how far my partners and myself can extend the entertainment market from what we have amassed already.

"I think the real challenge for me now is to see how far (we) can extend the entertainment market..."—Douthat

I was fortunate, in that, I came into this business in the right place at the right time. I filled the musical need in the area that was not being served. And now, with the help of my partners, Joel Cooper and Gene Loving, we are looking for more theatre houses, nightclubs, and acts. I also owe a lot to my partners when Whisper first began, Luke Newman and Dwight Mitchum.

SUN: What about this house; your new office?

DOUTHAT: This is a 1926 house; one of the first one or two houses built at the Beach.

With its high ceilings, staircases, and stained glass windows, I think it should be a Virginia Beach landmark. I really like it. There's enough office space for us, with a little room to expand. It's a good working atmosphere and close to the beach and my home. It belonged to Virginia Beach Postmaster, Joe Crosswhite.

SUN: What has been the high points of Whisper Concerts' career?

DOUTHAT: The spinoffs of the company.

In addition to the concert promotions, now we also offer other services. Kathy Moore handles the local bookings; Reid Bill handles college acts; and I manage Whisper Productions, which manages our two theatre houses. The first one we bought was in Norfolk. It was built in 1922 and went into it in Oct., 1979. It was formerly the Lowe's. The second theatre we acquired was the Palace, in Newport News. We took that one over in Feb. 8, 1980.

SUN: What's in store for the future for Beach residents?

DOUTHAT: A big band series, beginning Nov. 2 at the Cavalier Hotel with Woody Herman. We'll eventually be using ballrooms of both the old, and the new Cavalier.

Ultimately, we want to open our own nightclubs in Virginia Beach, Norfolk, and Hampton. What entertainment we'll use will depend on when and where we open them.

We also plan to develop more acts in Rogue's and Peabody's at the Beach; as well as, more shows in the Premier and the Palace.

We're just developing until we saturate the area.

Douthat's office features stereo, very nice furniture, posters, and gold records.

Inside Whisper Concerts

Whispers on Whisper

How is it working for a fast paced, national booking agency with a president who is ranked with the best?

Whisper Concerts is run on a day to day basis by the combined efforts of Billy Douthat, his partners, and a staff of four:

Kathy Moore: "I've been booking bands for Billy for years, and I think he's great. He and I used to work for the same boss. I quit him to come to work for Whisper."

Bill Reid: "I've only been with Billy since last January. But I worked with him five years ago when I booked Poco at my college."

As an attorney, I want to work with Whisper to learn as much entertainment as I can, so I can combine my knowledge of law and entertainment as a career. Big promoters in New York told me this was the way to start, at the college level, and that if I could work with Billy Douthat and Whisper, I would be working with one of the best in the country."

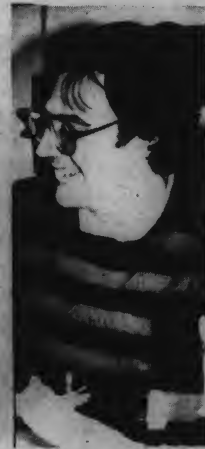

Kathy Koonce: "I've been Billy Douthat's secretary for two years. Some people think this job is glamorous, but it's really hard work; especially when a series of shows come up one after another."

"But Billy is very easy to work with. We keep a very casual office. The only time he gets angry is if he loses money; or sometimes when the pressures of big shows and working late, combined, get to him."

Carla Fussell: "I'm a receptionist/secretary, and like working here fine. I don't find Billy very demanding, and I've been here since June. He has never said anything to me out of the way, or unpolite. He even says thank you much of the time."

SUNSHINE GIRL

Gragnano sees stars

"My dream is to be a television movie star," said Philene Gragnano, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gragnano. "I envision myself as some sort of Shirley Temple."

A four year Beach resident, Gragnano, 15, was born in New York started school in Scotland, and is now here at the Beach.

"My dad is a master chief in the Navy," the Green Run High School junior said, "We moved around a lot."

"When I started school in Scotland, they had no kindergarten, so when everyone else my age was beginning the first grade, I was going into the second. I'll graduate at 17."

Art editor at Green Run

At Green Run High, Philene is active with the school's literary magazine, performing duties as art editor, but says there are other things in the works.

"I love working with the magazine," she said, "but later this year I'm going to be interviewed by the yearbook committee for a spread in the yearbook about my modeling."

"I've worked with Model's Inc. for the last

Philene Gragnano

Philene is a junior at Green Run High School.

18 months. I have made four national, and one local commercial; for this reason, I am not that active with a great number of other clubs. I spend a lot of time studying for my academic classes."

In the community, Philene enjoyed attending a recent workshop at the Kempsville recreation center.

Philene's hobbies include horseback riding, singing, acting, drawing, and swimming.

"Over the Summer," she recalls, "I participated on the Timberlake community swim team; it was a lot of fun."

"Drawing is something I also enjoy very much. I've drawn murals on people's walls for them."

Philene happy at Beach

Philene seems happy at the Beach, and said she would recommend it to anyone.

"Virginia Beach is my favorite place of everywhere I've ever lived," she said. "There's plenty to do and the people are real friendly."

"I also like the warmth here in the summer. When I used to live in Troy, New York, it was real cold."

Beach skiers prepare!

By Max Weinstein
Sun sports writer

"The money in this area is in Virginia Beach," said Beach Ski Center manager Michael McGinnis, "and this is where most of the area skiers live."

McGinnis made his remarks as Virginia Beach residents hurry to make accommodations for this year's ski season.

"It's not that most of the skiers are actually from this area," McGinnis continued, "but many of them have been skiing for years before they ever reached Virginia Beach. They're better than the average skier and buy a lot better equipment than those, let's say, our Hampton store."

McGinnis said his store, located at Hilltop, opened in 1977 with a record sales year in Virginia Beach.

"In 1977," he said, "we decided to open the Beach store in addition to the ones we have in Hampton and Norfolk; and our first year here has been our best so far. This Beach ski center is probably the biggest ski store in the area."

$250,000 worth of inventory

With $250,000 worth of inventory in the Hilltop store, McGinnis said his selling season lasts from August 1 to April, and that Beach residents who haven't made arrangements for rooms at ski lodges for this year should do so immediately.

"Skiing is huge in Tidewater," McGinnis said, "and already it's hard to get rooms at some of the ski resorts even though they don't have any snow yet. That's why most people book rooms through us because we offer ski trips and are a travel agency."

"Snowshoe, in West Virginia, is as big to Beach skiers as New England is to New York skiers."

40,000 Beach skiers

McGinnis estimates that there are tens of thousands of Beach skiers, with varying degrees of skiing knowledge. He says the ski center's role in the community is clear.

"The general public is not extremely knowledgeable of skiing," he said, "this includes with 30 to 40,000 Beach skiers."

"Many times they're intimidated, however, and feel they are being taken advantage of. But that's not true with us. We have a qualified sales team who is going to sell quality equipment to the customer, and what they need."

"We're not a discount shop, so we try to offer Virginia Beach residents all the assistance we can."

McGinnis said that because of the economy, many Beach skiers take advantage of "package deals."

"I think the economy is leveling off," McGinnis said, "and for that reason many people are driving less and spending less money. That's why ski trips, and packages, are popular. The people don't mind the bus trips at all." The packages run in cost from about $159 to $205.

McGinnis said some one can be completely suited up for skiing for about $400 to $800.

At Ferrum College

Beachers make squad

By Max Weinstein
Sun sports writer

Two Virginia Beach students and former rivals, at Ferrum College, Ferrum, have been selected as members of the 1980 Ferrum College football team, which currently stands 2-1-1.

They are, Robert Cornelius and Douglas Luther.

Robert Cornelius, First Colonial

Robert Cornelius, the son of Beach residents Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Cornelius, is 6'0" tall, 190 pounds, and will play the center position; a post he has held for the last seven years, including the years he played for First Colonial High School.

"Playing center is a lot of responsibility," he said, "with very little glory."

"I have been playing the center position since I first began playing football seven years ago. I'm really into it now, and hope to play in the future for a larger, major league school such as Virginia Tech. But for now I'll play here, and keep my grades up. I'm an engineering student and hope to eventually go into business."

Doug Luther, Princess Anne

Luther, a 1980 Princess Anne High School graduate, is the son of Beach residents Mr. and Mrs. James D. Luther.

At 5'9" and 165 pounds, Luther will play the linebacker role.

"I'm really happy here at Ferrum," he said. "I'm majoring in physical education and I think this college can help me a lot with my grades and with football."

A 14 year Beach resident, Luther said plans for the future definitely include football.

"What am I going to do in the future? I'm going to play more football," Luther said. "I'm not going to give up. I'm going to be a professional football player."

Miss the Beach

Neither Cornelius nor Luther know masses of people in Ferrum, and both said they miss Virginia Beach.

"I'm having a good time up here," Luther said, "but I miss my friends. There's no one up here I know. But things will work out; they always do."

Cornelius said about

Luther

Virginia Beach, "It's great. I already miss it, and my family, all the time. But most of all, I miss sitting on the Beach with my girlfriend."

Family here

Cornelius has one sister, Sherri Lynn, 17, a student at First Colonial High School.

How do the boys feel about each other now after being one time rivals? They said they had never really tangled.

Ferrum stats

Ferrum, in its opener this season, tied the Newport News Apprentice School, in the junior coastal college football conference, with a score of 0-0.

Ferrum beat Wesley College, from new Jersey in their second game 28- Ferrum won again when it beat the Virginia Tech jayvee squad, 31-0.

But, last week, the Panthers fell to Chowan College, 20-7.

Future games on the Ferrum schedule include battles with Nassau College of New York; Roanoke and Lees-McRae College Keyser, West Virginia; and Lees-McRae College of Banner Elk, N.C.

CITY COUNCIL NEWS

$20,000 set aside for plans

Atlantic Avenue parking to be settled?

By LEE CAHILL

Sun city council correspondent

A $20,000 Federal grant will be used to come up with a "once and for all" plan for parking on Atlantic Avenue and intersecting side streets along the Beach strip.

The study and recommendations will be made by the Southeastern Virginia Planning District Commission with the help of a steering committee including Virginia Beach people who have had a stake in parking along the strip.

City manager George L. Hanbury expressed hope that this plan would combine all the previous studies and plans—seven in all—into a workable plan.

All of plans on parking for the strip proposed previously have met with opposition from one quarter or another.

On the steering committee named by Hanbury at an informal meeting of Council Monday afternoon are Joe Hawa, Skip Hendricks, Harry Sandler, Ed Ruffin, Nancy Parker of Old Virginia Beach Civic League, and Jim Owens, who presented the last study to Council.

Councilwoman Barbara Henley noted that spending $20,000 to study the studies is ridiculous," while Councilwoman Meyera Oberndorf wanted to know, "What kind of miracle are we looking for?"

Councilman Patrick L. Standing said that "What they can do is tell Council to get off their duffs and do something."

No one spoke about $54 million

No one spoke at the public hearing Monday afternoon on the Fiscal Year 1981 Capital Budget of $54,125,475 for Virginia Beach.

The budget includes $5,273,796 for schools, $17,788,462 for engineering and highways; $8,310,988 for buildings; $2,075,221 for Parks and Recreation; $7,948,008 for water utility and $12,729,000 for sewer utility.

Pavilion sales deferred

Action on exemptions of which would permit Sunday sales at the pavilion was deferred until the requests could be studied further.

Mayor Patrick L. Standing told Council Monday afternoon that he knew that State law allows an exemption for the sale of merchandise on municipally-owned property on Sundays, but wondered whether people were using the provision as a way of getting around the Sunday closing law. He said that wasn't the intent of the law when he voted for it, that the sales were more in conjunction with a convention. Among the organizations requesting exemptions were flea markets, a dog show, a jewelry store and other trade shows.

City manager said that one criterion used by the city is the frequency of the event. That is if the sales became a regular thing, they would not be recommended for exemption.

Councilwoman Meyera Oberndorf said the sale of pet supplies was already exempted and Councilwoman Reba McClanan said that boat shows (one of the requests) also are exempted.

Council deferred action for a week to determine whether the some of the organizations needed an exemption and whether all were legitimate requests.

Fire volunteers included

An ordinance approved Monday afternoon by the Virginia Beach City Council makes it possible for volunteers to serve within the framework of the city Fire Division rather than in a separate volunteer corporation.

The changes were made to permit volunteers to serve in the Seatack Fire Station although the Seatack Volunteer Fire Company had to be dissolved because of lack of funds and a decrease in membership. All the other fire stations continue to have companies incorporated under the State Corporation Commission.

New provisions in the ordinance delete the office of volunteer fire chief and state that officers and members are provided for in their bylaws and the provisions of the law. The revision means that some volunteer fire companies may not have a volunteer chief as their top officer, according to city manager George L. Hanbury.

McCoy voted on no issues in this week's meeting; he was absent.

Mayor McCoy

Council approved the ordinance by a vote of 8 - 1 with Councilwoman Reba McClanan dissenting. She said that the State Code already makes provisions for volunteer companies which are dissolved and that the changes seem to be a move in the direction of an all professional, rather than volunteer, fire departments.

Mayor J. Henry McCoy, Jr. and Councilman Reid Ervin were absent.

In the same vote, Council approved another ordinance which adds the chief of fire protection or an investigator designated by him to the chief of police and members of the department acting in his name as authorized to conduct a field investigation of each applicant employed by the Fire Department.

Hanbury explained that the ordinance concerning volunteers permits the city to continue with those people who still want to be volunteers, namely at Seatack.

Pavilion notes approved

Rates for the use of facilities in Virginia Beach's pavilion were approved Monday afternoon by Virginia Beach City Council starting at two cents per gross square foot.

Thirty percent discounts will be offered civic and charitable organizations based in Virginia Beach and totally non-profit in purpose.

The Theater rate is based on a charge of 25 cents per seat per event day ($250 a day) and the Convention Hall and meeting room rates are based on a charge of two cents per gross square foot of rentable space. The total Convention Hall would rent for $1200 a day and a section for $240, and meeting rooms would rent for $150 a day and $20 a section. The Board room and Lounge would rent for $100 a day and $50 for a section.

Renters also will be given a 50 percent discount for move-in, move-out days, and conventions, other than trade shows, which meet a minimum overnight housing requirement of 1,000 rooms, involving the use of two or more Virginia Beach properties shall be exempt from base rent for all regular conference activities. Conventions not meeting the housing requirements will be subject to a 30 percent discount.

The city manager also is designated to suspend or amend rates for charitable organizations or under other special circumstances.

Science museum should wait

Virginia Beach Councilwoman Barbara Henley would rather wait until after the Nov. 4 referendum before making appropriations for some projects, like the Marine Science Museum.

Maybe she was pessimistic, she said, but after Nov. 4 City Council may have to reprioritize projects. She said that the Museum obviously was not of the same priority as the referendum items—water and sewer and roads. She added that it might be a good idea for the voters to know which projects would suffer, other than utilities and roads, if the referendum is not favorable.

However, by a vote of 8 - 1 Council appropriated $125,000 in State funds as the first year allocation for the Museum in the 1981-82 biennium with a like amount scheduled for the second year.

City manager George L. Hanbury said the appropriation would permit Mac Rawls, coordinator of the project, to continue his work.

Mrs. Henley voted against the appropriation and Mayor J. Henry McCoy, Jr. and Councilman Reid Ervin were absent.

Rudee dredging contract awarded

Cottrell Engineering Corporation has been awarded the contract for the Rudee Inlet sand trap dredging for $295,000. Cottrell was the low bidder of two. The engineer's estimate was $302,500.

The project will remove approximately 75,000 cubic yards of sand from the sand trap area adjacent to the Rudee Inlet channel which will lower the bottom elevation to its design depth.

Kempsville water main

The low bid for the Indian River Road Water main and the Kempsville Road Water Main was $345,682 lower than the engineer's estimate of $768,842.50.

Virginia Beach City Council awarded the contract to Utility Builders, Inc., the lower bidder of ten, Monday afternoon.

11,000 gallons

Water allocations

By Lee Cahill

Sun city council correspondent

Each residential dwelling unit in Virginia Beach will be allocated 11,000 gallons of water for each 60-month period at the current rate of $1.06 per 1000 gallons. Any consumption over that will cost dearly under an ordinance expected to be approved next Monday afternoon by City Council.

The 11,000 figure represents approximately 75 percent of the average consumption for a family unit of three over the past 12 months applied to a two-month billing period. That figures to approximately 60 gallons a day per person or 75 percent of the 80 gallons a day per person used over the past 12 months.

Penalties for water usage above the allocation are stiffer than those imposed by the Norfolk water system, but city manager George L. Hanbury said the Virginia Beach plan is more equitable in that people who have been conserving water are not penalized.

(See VIRGINIA page 7)

At an informal meeting of Council Monday afternoon, he said that this is the first time since he has been in office that he has had to make such recommendations but that the situation warranted strict action.

On Oct. 1 the city of Norfolk which supplies the water for the Virginia Beach system, imposed a 75 percent allocation on all its customers because of the severe drought conditions which have diminished the city's water reserves.

If Virginia Beach goes beyond that allocation it will have to pay as much as a half million dollars a month in penalties, Hanbury said.

Built into the new rate proposals are provisions for exemptions.

All customers consuming less than 4,000 gallons per 60-day period will not be subject to the allocation plan. All health care facilities must apply in writing to Michael J. Barrett, assistant to the city manager, for an exemption. Also, families with more than three members may apply for additional allocations provided the average water usage per member is 50 gallons a day or less. Families of less than three obviously should have no difficulty with the allocation.

The new rate structure will be effective on all billing periods beginning after Oct. 1, 1980 and will be reflected on bills after Dec. 1.

Norfolk's plan has applied penalties on the basis of the individual dwelling unit's average consumption which would tend to penalize people who already have been conserving water. The Beach plan, Hanbury pointed out, gives the benefit to the people who have been making a conscientious effort to conserve.

Norfolk currently charges Virginia Beach $.637 per 1000 gallons of water. This rate will be maintained for the first 75 percent of the average usage. For the next 25 percent a surcharge of $2.674 will be made bringing the price per gallon to $3.311 per 1000 gallons and for water over 100 percent of the average, the surcharge jumps to $13.369 a gallon for $14.006 a 1000-gallon-water.

Penalty for water use violation could amount up to $482,705 under new rationing guidelines

This means that if Virginia Beach uses the same amount of water in October of 1980 as it did in October of 1979 it will incur a penalty of $482,705 for the month. The average daily usage in October 1979 was 2.1 million gallons.

Councilman Patrick L. Standing pointed out that the penalties will pay for wells to furnish the city with its own water source quickly.

Hanbury said that if a more severe allocation is needed he will return to Council with another plan. "I don't know whether we should depend solely on Norfolk for water, he said, and added that the bond issue which will be decided by the people in a referendum on Nov. 4 includes an expenditure for shallow wells.

Councilman Clarence A. Holland said that the citizens have to be "impressed that this is a crisis situation."

Public Utilities director Aubrey Watts said that he believes the allocation system will be successful.

If Norfolk's plan were applied to Virginia Beach the penalties would be lower - $3.73 for the 25 percent usage over the average of and $13.37 per 1000 gallons for a usage above 100 percent of the average.

The Virginia Beach plan will charge each unit dwelling using 11,001 to 18,000 for a 60-day period $4.10 per 1000 gallons and for anything above 18,000 gallons, $14.70 per 1,000 gallons.

Commercial and non-taxable customers will be charged at the same rate based on their average consumption.

The average daily use during the last 12 months in Virginia Beach was 19,932 million gallons. That amount has to be lowered to 14,949 to meet the 75 percent daily allocation. Only on one day during the past ten did the water consumption reach that figure. It has to become an everyday goal, Hanbury said.

The city will mail allocation cards to all customers starting Oct. 15 and will include in the packet a brochure on water-saving tips. This week 60,000 of the brochures were distributed to the city's school students.

See new water rules, page 9

Hanbury said that modifications of the allocation plan will be made for larger families.

To get to the desired level of usage, Watts said, citizens will have to get below the usage during the 1977 drought.

He pointed out that during the last five days, the average consumption was 16.2 thousand gallons a day which would incur a $1300-a-day penalty for the city.

Hanbury also said that people who still have well, but are hooked up to city water, will be permitted to disconnect from the city water system and use well water in the home provided the well passes Health Department standards and there is no cross connection. These people will still have to pay the minimum water charge. He said that the Health Department expects about 60 percent of the wells would not be suitable.

The city will run ads in the newspapers to further inform its customers. Water customers will be encouraged to read their own meters so that they can monitor their water use and detect any leakage.

Watts said the city is also considering measures taken by California during its drought.

If the allocations are met, he said, there are 90 days of water left for the users of Norfolk's water.

He said there is no correct allocation system, but that "this was a crisis and none of us can live with the alternatives...none of this is pleasant."

On an optimistic note he said that long range forecasts predict a more than normal amount of rain for October.

VIRGO: (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22 — Also Virgo Ascendant) — Good time to make long financial plans. Be tolerant of co-workers who are not as meticulous and efficient as you. Don't get into arguments with mate or bosses just now. They could become serious. Be calm and quiet.

LIBRA: (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22 — Also Libra Ascendant) — Go over savings and security programs to check your progress. Some may get a financial windfall. Problems with a co-worker can be worked out now — let bygones be bygones. Career demands are heavy, so get lots of rest.

SCORPIO: (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21 — Also Scorpio Ascendant) — Domestic interests are accentuated and bring you much pressure. Don't be pushy in romance or think you can buy someone's love. Speculation is risky and you tend to feel extravagant. Get expert advice before investing.

SAGITTARIUS: (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21 — Also Sagittarius Ascendant) — Don't listen to gossip or pass it on. Guard against selfish attitudes especially with family members. If you've been goofing off on family responsibilities a showdown could come now. Don't be negative or defensive.

CAPRICORN: (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19 — Also Capricorn Ascendant) — Check up on your personal accounts. Pay bills and catch up on chores left undone. Not the time to gamble or speculate with money. Don't listen to friends about financial matters — get expert advice. Travel is not favored.

AQUARIUS: (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18 — Also Aquarius Ascendant) — Accent is on finances and you should curb tendency toward extravagance and speculation. People who are influential help in career and romance is rewarding. Continue working hard toward your goals.

PISCES: (Feb. 19 to March 20 — Also Pisces Ascendant) — You can push ahead in career now. Seek out information that is helpful and cultivate important people. Domestic demands can interfere with business affairs and affect your concentration. Settle marital problems calmly and rationally.

New water rules

The City of Virginia Beach has made the following changes relating to the use of the City water supply:

Effective immediately, all previously allowed exemptions from the water conservation program are rescinded. These exemptions related to non-recycling car washes, the nursery industry and several commercial cleaning industries.

In addition, school superintendent E. E. Brickell has agreed to stop the watering of all athletic fields.

All previously approved uses from City fire hydrants, except for the Fire Department and the department of Public Utilities, will be ceased. Currently these uses are mainly by the construction industry and for agriculture purposes.

The Department of Public Utilities is working with the Department of Data Processing to determine the alternatives available for the implementation of an allocation or rate adjustment policy. Recommendations are expected to be received by the early next week.

A public information program will be carried out through public advertisements, utility billings and the public school system to inform citizens of the restrictions and request their assistance in all water conservation measures.

Chamber announces leaders

Ten Virginia Beach business leaders were nominated recently to serve three year terms on the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors beginning Jan. 1, 1981, according to Clenton W. Shanks, Chamber President. They are:

Wylie R. Cooke, Jr., Oliver, Smith & Cooke, Ltd.; Van H. Cunningham, chairman of the board, Stewart Sandwiches; Edwin C. Kellam, Jr., Kellam-Eaton Insurance Company;

Thomas J. Lyons, owner/Operator, Holiday Inn-Oceanfront; and William R. Malbon, Jr., Malbon Brothers Farm.

BEACH LIBRARY NOTES

The Virginia Beach Department of Libraries have made the following announcement:

Battle for the Capes

Carolyn Caywood, children's coordinator for the Virginia Beach Public Library and author of the recently published booklet "The Battle off The Virginia Capes," discussed the famous battle, recently, with students of Mrs. Britton's fifth grade class at Cooke Elementary School.

The occasion marked the distribution of the booklet to all fifth grade students attending public school in Virginia Beach. The booklet was published by the Virginia Beach Bicentennial Commission as part of its celebration of the battle that occurred on Sept. 5, 1781 and secured the American victory in its war for independence.

Caywood wrote the booklet in order for children to involve themselves in the celebration of the battle. It describes the historical context of the battle, the personalities involved, the naval tactics exercised and the significance of the outcome. The booklet makes use of maps and illustrations to bring clarity to an often complex event.

The author relied heavily in her research upon the work of the Reference Division of the Virginia Beach Public Library. That division has been active since May, 1980 in the compilation of a selective bibliography of materials descriptive of the battle.

Its published bibliography, entitled "Prelude To Yorktown," includes a summary of the battle, tactical charts, and an exhaustive list of materials relating to the battle.

The bibliography is available free of charge in each of the branch libraries and on the bookmobile in Virginia Beach. A portion of the materials listed in the bibliography has been photocopied and placed in libraries in the junior and senior high schools in Virginia Beach.

Information about "The Battle Off The Virginia Capes," may be obtained by calling the author at 340-2987.

Fall floral arrangements

Wayne Jones, a local florist with a national reputation, will demonstrate Fall floral arrangements at the Great Neck Branch of the Virginia Beach Public Library on Thursday, Oct. 16, at 7:30 p.m. This one-hour program for adults is offered free of charge.

For more information about the Fall floral arranging workshop, call the Great Neck Branch Library at 481-6094. The library is located at 1251 Bayne Drive in the Hilltop area.

Halloween masks to be made

Children age 7 to twelve will make Halloween masks in a craft program to be held at the Great Neck Branch of the Virginia Beach Public Library on Friday, Oct. 24, at 3:30 p.m.

Participation in the one and a half hour program will be limited to 15 persons.

Registration for the class begins on Wednesday, Oct. 15, and will continue until the class is filled.

To register for the Halloween mask-making program, call the library at 481-6094. The Great Neck Branch Library is located at 1251 Bayne Drive.

Great Neck movies

"Hooray for the Bay" continues at the Great Neck Branch of the Virginia Beach Public Library with two film programs. "Commercial Fishing in The Chesapeake," and "Shellfishing In The Chesapeake," two movies that describe the Chesapeake Bay seafood industry, will be shown for persons of all ages on Tuesday, Oct. 14, at 7:30 p.m.

The program will last approximately one hour.

A program of movies for children six years of age and older will be shown on Saturday, Oct. 18, at 11 a.m. The one-hour program will include the movies, "How The Whale Got His Throat," "The Fisherman And His Wife," "The Conch Shell," and "The Little Mariner."

Governor declares 4-H week

John N. Dalton recently declared the week of Oct. 5 - 11 as Virginia 4-H Club Week by signing a certificate of recognition in the state's capitol.

The certificate states that "4-H Clubs put down firm foundations for good citizenship and good neighborliness for coming generations" and was made effective by Dalton recently.

According to state 4-H officials at Virginia Tech, 4-H Week will be a time to publicize the organization's programs at the local, district and state levels. This may take on the form of parades, exhibits, leaflet distributions, fundraising activities, shopping mall displays, talent shows, special banquets in appreciation of sponsor support, or a number of other activities.

5 million 4-Her's

Virginia 4-H Week will coincide with National 4-H Week when more than five million 4-H'ers will rededicate themselves to 4-H and its objectives. More than 186,000 youth, ages 9 - 19, are involved in 4-H programs in Virginia.

Virginia 4-H Week comes at the heels of the State Fair (which involves more parents, leaders and 4-H'ers than any one single state event), and will be a forerunner to National 4-H Congress held in November in Chicago. This upcoming event is held so that state 4-H achievement winners can be recognized for their accomplishments.

About 275 young people will receive educational scholarships at National Congress, valued at more than $250,000. Virginia will have one of the largest delegations in attendance at this annual event which is considered one of the outstanding national features in 4-H.

Learn by doing

4-H emphasizes learn-by-doing projects and activities that build character and leadership-citizenship skills. The youth organization has something for everyone—from projects that involve individual and family resources, leisure education and cultural arts to animals and poultry, energy, machines and equipment.

Approximately 40,000 Americans from all walks of life have been involved in 4-H at some point in their lives.

Beach kids complete course

4-Her's learn sign language

Several Beach 4-H members and leaders recently completed a 5 week special interest class in sign language.

Finger spelling and sign language seem to be in the "in" thing these days. Several 4-H members in the Great Neck Area wanted to learn.

Their 4-H area leader, Betty Jo Miklovic knew just the person to teach them, Peggy Harrison. Peggy, a Virginia Beach resident who has just returned to Gallaudet College in Washington, D.C., wants to be a teacher. A perfect match of need and resources.

4-H members David Derocher, Valerie Miklovic, Sean Smith, Frankie Gay, Leticia and Sonia Tamayo, and leaders Charli Derocher, Jo Miklovic, and Rosemary Smith first learned to fingerspell. This consists of spelling the letters of each word in the air. This was pretty easy.

The most difficult part is being able to read it back from another person. Then they learned many signs. Signing involves using manual symbols for words. Participants were also excited to learn to sign "Row, Row, Row your Boat" and especially the 4-H pledge.

It was an interesting experience for the 4-H'ers who had never before had a teacher that was hearing-impaired. Meeting several deaf adults was a new experience. They quickly learned that when talking with a deaf person you need to talk so your mouth can be seen!

Plans are underway to continue with other teachers this fall while Peggy is away at school.

It is hoped that through this program hearing youth and adults can better understand and appreciate the deaf as well as communicate more effectively and comfortably with them.

4-H clubs reorganizing at Beach

4-H clubs are just reorganizing for fall. Regular meeting places and times are listed for those confirmed. Information is not available yet for newly organizing clubs.

Want to join a club in your area, or help organize a club? Call the 4-H Office at 427-4617.

Virginia Beach 4-H members, and delegates, to the Southeastern 4-H Center ground breaking ceremonies, included Judith Anne Carman and Mark Wood.

Be a volunteer

4-Her's need adults too

More than 56,000 kids in Virginia Beach need adults who care. Many 4-H aged youth are anxious to try new things. Most are eager to grow up and be a part of the adult world. Youth just don't grow up and be a part of the adult world. Youth just don't grow up, they learn by doing. 4-H offers adults a chance to show they care about youth. Adult volunteers are the backbone of the 4-H program.

"We often get calls from youth (or their parents) who want to be in a community club, but the nearest club is not within a convenient distance to make active participation feasible", says Mary Lynn Perney, extension agent, 4-H. "We try our best to place them in a club but they either don't join at all or begin in a club and drop out because it's too far. Let's face it, Virginia Beach is a big city. We need more clubs throughout the city.

"To have more clubs we need volunteers for leadership. We know there are plenty of 4-H Alumni from around the country living in Va. Beach, not to mention others with talents to share." A team of adults working with a community club is essential to its success.

"The team approach works best. That way no one person has all the responsibility. If everyone gives a little time it's more enjoyable for all."

There are a variety of ways to get involved, such as: Organizing a club, leading a project or activity, serving on a committee, making phone calls, transporting, and many others.

What interest, hobbies, or talents do you have to share? Contact the 4-H Office for more information on how you can help.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Jaycees and Campbell say thank you

Dear Editor:

The Virginia Beach Jaycees have recently completed the East Coast Surfing Championship and, with your help, it turned out to be the best yet.

Ten thousand spectators viewed 270 surfers vying for top honors during the two day competition. Such a turnout enabled us to achieve a great success of a worthy project for the youth of Virginia Beach.

The Virginia Beach Jaycees extend a hearty thanks to you for a job well done.

Editor:

I just wanted to take the time out to say thank you for the article you did on me in your newspaper. I really did appreciate it a lot.

The Sun did a fantastic job. I wish your newspaper all the luck in the world.

Rosemary Marie Campbell,

Barcita

Martin announces promotions

Jose Barcita of Virginia Beach has been appointed art director for the Martin Agency/Tidewater.

Barcita, a native of Cuba, came to the United States in 1962 and attended Virginia Commonwealth University.

Vice-president and general manager Thomas B. Matthews also announced the appointment of Susan Kruse of Deltaville as administrative assistant. The agency has also promoted Debi Bennett, a long-time Beach city resident, from administrative assistant to office and traffic manager.

Goodwill opens new store

Goodwill Industries of Tidewater will open a new Beach store on Saturday, October 11 at 11 a.m. The location of the store is 876 Virginia Beach Boulevard, Virginia Beach, Virginia.

"This expansion program will afford us the opportunity to employ and train 15 to 20 additional handicapped individuals once the project is successful," a spokesman said.

Cacanindin

Cacanindin elected Miss Philippines

Rosalie Mae Cacanindin, 9, daughter of Beach residents Mr. and Mrs. Paul Cacanindin, has been crowned Little Miss Philippines of Tidewater, 1980.

She won the title during the recent pageant held at Brandon Junior High School.

It was sponsored by the Phil-American Veterans of Tidewater. Cacanindin competed with 10 other contestants. The selection was based on poise, personality, talent and gown competition.

Cacanindin presented talent selections from the famous Broadway musical film "Annie". She sang "Tomorrow" and tap danced "You'll never Fully Dressed Without A Smile."

Among the other contestants were: First runner-up Gail Nepomuceno, 6; second runner-up Pam Flores, 11; third runner-up Charlene Jimenez, 9; and fourth runner-up Maribel Tugade, 10.

Cacanindin raised $5,045 funds by selling candies. Proceeds were for the Kempsville Rescue Squad, American Cancer Society, Philippines Cultural Center, and the Philippine Heritage School and were handed to the recipients during the night of the pageant.

Robbin Thompson takes the stage

The Robbin Thompson Band recently appeared in concert at the Virginia Beach nightclub, Peabody's. Approximately 600 people viewed the first class performance, which included such FM hits as "Candy Apple Red," and "Bright Eyes." Thompson and the band came back for one encore. The show was produced by Whisper Concerts, Inc.

Overstreet and Carroll

The Beach goes Western

No, it's not J. R. and Sue Ellen from the television series Dallas.

It's Virginia Beach residents Jeff Carroll and Linda Overstreet dressed up like the two characters of the weekly drama.

"I wouldn't dress like this to work," said Carroll, an independent insurance salesman and Beach native, "it's just a fad that's passing through the Beach."

Recently, Rogue's Club on Virginia Beach Boulevard has been sponsoring "Dallas Night" and encouraging its customers to come in on Friday nights and watch "Dallas" on a television set, and also to dress up like its leading characters.

Carroll said she was at the club last weekend to participate in the "Dallas" boot contest, and that the Dallas trend is moving Eastward.

"The show was running a little late," he said, "so the boot contest was never held."

These special nights and contests are a trend coming from California," Carroll said, "and it's coming in on Virginia Beach fast. I was in Ohio a few months ago, and the western look is there also."

Carroll, 26, said his hat cost $60; suit, $300; and boots, $80.

See nightclub, concert, and in lounge listings, on next page.

After The Sun Goes Down

Travelers from across the nation flock to Virginia Beach annually. Some for the warm sun; some for the cool surf, some for both.

But whatever the reason for visiting the Beach, there is one thing everyone wants to know after they get here: Where to go After The Sun Goes Down...

VIRGINIA: In the Circuit Court of the City of Virginia Beach
City of Virginia Beach Development Authority,

Plaintiff,
v.
Taxpayers, property owners and citizens of Virginia Beach, including non-residents owning property or subject to taxation therein, and all other persons interested in or affected in any way by the issuance by the City of Virginia Beach Development Authority of approximately $1,500,000 Industrial Development Revenue Bond (P & R Enterprises, A Virginia General Partnership), series of 1980, Defendants.

ORDER

THIS DAY came the plaintiff, by counsel, and filed this Motion for Judgment seeking judicial determination, inter alia, of the legality of the proceedings taken regarding up to $1,500,000 Industrial Development Bonds (P & R Enterprises, a Virginia General Partnership) Series of 1980, the legality of the purposes for which such bonds are to be issued and the validity of such bonds when issued.

Upon consideration whereof, it is ORDERED that the Motion for Judgment having been filed, a certified copy thereof together with a certified copy of this Order, be published once a week for two consecutive weeks in the Virginia Beach Sun, a newspaper having general circulation in the City of Virginia Beach, that any party defendant desiring to reply to said Motion for Judgment shall do so within ten (10) days after the second publication thereof, and that this matter is set for hearing on November 5, 1980, at 9:30 a.m. in the Circuit Court of the City of Virginia Beach.

City of Virginia Beach Development Authority, Plaintiff,
v.

Taxpayers, property owners, and citizens of Virginia Beach, including non-residents owning property or subject to taxation therein, and all other persons interested in or affected in any way by the issuance by the City of Virginia Beach Development Authority of approximately $1,500,000 Industrial Development

Revenue Bond (P & R Enterprises, A Virginia General Partnership), Series of 1980, Defendants.

MOTION FOR JUDGMENT

Plaintiff, The City of Virginia Beach Development Authority, (the "Authority"), seeks judicial determination pursuant to Article 6, Chapter 5, Title 15.1 Code of Virginia of 1950, as amended, of the validity of up to One million Five Hundred Thousand Dollar ($1,500,000.00) Industrial Development Revenue Bonds (P & R Enterprises, a Virginia general partnership) Series of 1980 (the "Bonds"), to be issued to pay the cost of constructing and equipping amotel and related retail facilities (the "Facility") in the City of Virginia Beach, Virginia, to be leased or sold to — & R Enterprises, a Virginia general partnership, (the "Company") and states as follows:

1. The Authority was duly created by Chapter 643, 1964 Acts of Assembly 975, as amended, of the Commonwealth of Virginia (the "Act"), and is a political subdivision of the Commonwealth of Virginia. The Authority has been continuously organized and operating under the Act since its creation, and no dissolution proceedings pursuant to the Act have been adopted or instituted.

2. At a meeting called and held on August 5, 1980, the Authority adopted a resolution agreeing to undertake the issuance of the Bonds upon terms and conditions to be mutually agreed upon between the Authority and the Company, with the facility to be leased or sold to the Company upon terms designed to assure payment of the Bonds by the Company in accordance with their terms and to provide security for the repayment thereof. The proceeds of the Bonds, when issued, will be used to finance the costs of constructing and equipping the Facility and the issuance of the Bonds.

3. When issued, the Bonds will be valid, legal and binding limited obligations of the Authority, payable solely from the revenues and receipts received from the lease or sale of the Facility to the Company and other security therefor. The Bonds will not constitute a debt or a pledge of the faith and credit of the Commonwealth of Virginia or any political subdivision thereof, including the Authority and the City of Virginia Beach, no taxing power of any political subdivision will be pledged to the payment of the Bonds, and the Bonds will not constitute an indebtedness within the meaning of any debt limitation or restriction.

WHEREFORE, the City of Virginia Beach Development Authority, prays that the Court grant a prompt hearing and enter a decree with the least possible delay pursuant to Section 15.1-213 et. seq., including Section 15.1-217 of the Code of Virginia of 1950, as amended, and that (1) all proceedings heretofore taken in connection with the authorization or issuance of the Bonds are legal and valid; (2) the Bonds may be issued to finance the Facility? (3) assuming their due authorization, execution and delivery, the Bonds issued for the Facility will be valid, legal and binding limited obligations of the Authority, and (4) such additional matters as may be specially requested by the parties or as the Court may deem necessary or applicable to this proceeding.

In re: Tashaun Mitchell
Sarah Virginia Mitchell

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this proceeding is the termination of the residual parental rights of Linda Mitchell and Father-Unknown to their children Tashaun Mitchell and Sarah Virginia Mitchell. The consequences of termination of residual parental rights are that a parent or parents forever relinquish all parental rights such as, but not limited to, the rights of companionship, association, religious training, education, discipline, guidance, maintenance and all decision making concerning the child's welfare. And further it is to commit said infant to the care and custody of the Virginia Beach Department of Social Services with the right of said agency to consent to the infant's adoption.

And an affidavit having been made and filed that Linda Mitchell and Father-Unknown is a proper party to this proceeding; but due diligence has been used to ascertain in what county or corporation he is, without effect, it is ORDERED that Linda Mitchell and Father-Unknown do appear here within 10 days after due publication hereof, and do what may be necessary to protect their interest in this suit.

SUN PERSONALITY PROFILE

McCoy—Holding the Beach together

Mayor McCoy, a former Air Force Captain and college and university regent, talks about himself, and family; and how council has pulled together after last Summer's election.

By Greg Goldfarb,
Sun editor

"What I liked the best about the Air Force," said Former Air Force Captain, and current Virginia Beach Mayor J. Henry McCoy, Jr., "was all the social parties and playing golf.

"I disliked the regimentation of military service. A young, cocky doctor, fresh out of college, doesn't want anyone giving them orders!"

Now, however, most of McCoy's cocky days should be over. At 47, he has settled down to a steady dental practice, and to the serious job of effectively running city council, and the city, as its mayor. He succeeds at large councilman Pat Standing in the position.

After being initially elected to council in 1974, he assumed mayoral responsibilities for the first time last Summer after winning in a heated three-way race. The election eventually called for four ballots and several private council sessions during the election before a winner was named. The contest created dissension between council members, and critical allegations from the Press that council had hurt its public image badly.

Would do same thing again

But, according to McCoy, providing strong leadership to the council was not important than enduring adverse headlines.

"I wouldn't have cared if it had taken 14 ballots to win," McCoy said from his home in the Stratford Chase subdivision of Virginia Beach, "I still would have stuck it out to the end.

"I think personally, and professionally, I should not have run for the position; but I did what I did in the best interest of the city.

"I don't think there was anyone on council who could have pulled them together the way I did; I think I communicate pretty well with all the members.

"A unified council is absolutely necessary for the good of the city. If you don't have one, the residents will ultimately suffer."

McCoy, won last June against at large councilwoman Meyera Oberdorf and Lynnhaven councilman Donald Merrick, said the job of mayor is as hard as he always thought it would be, and for that reason, he takes special measures to do a good job.

"I think I've done a better job thus far than a lot of people realize," McCoy said, "but it's not all just because of me. The other council members are really trying, and working very hard.

"I make an effort to communicate with all the members over the telephone and discuss important issues with them.

"The job is every bit as hard as I envisioned it. Being mayor takes time, and forethought to deal efficiently with the issues, and with citizens of Virginia Beach; city government is really a people business, and very complex. Some people are very easily upset over the least little thing, and others are deep, and careful thinkers."

Diversified political background

McCoy makes his assessments of politicians, and the public not as a political newcomer, but as a 12 year veteran.

At one time, he was serving on two college governing boards at the same time; boards which usually have extensive dealings with the State General Assembly. He even once considered running as an Assembly delegate.

"In 1968," the Lynnhaven borough councilman recalls, "I had the honor of being asked by former Governor Miles Godwin to serve on Old Dominion University's Board of Visitors. I served on the board for eight years and enjoyed it very much.

"During the same time, I was also asked to serve on the board of directors of the local Tidewater Community Colleges; that was from 1970 to 1974. I served as chairman of that board in 1974.

"But, back in 1971, shortly after I had been serving on both boards for a while, I decided to run for the House of Delegates. Latent cockiness from my more youthful days was coming out in me, and I thought I was red hot, and riding in the fast lane at that time. But, wisely, I changed my mind and decided not to run for the state office. I think it would have cost me half my medical practice to carry through a political campaign at the state level, and to perform the duties if I had been elected.

"After my tenures with the colleges had expired, I decided to run for a city council seat in 1974. I opposed incumbent Garland Isdell, a Beach insurance agent who had been appointed for one year to fill the unexpired term of Donald Rhodes.

"I ran a very positive, and non-bitter campaign. I won the election running on the issues of education. I knew we had a good school system, and schools; but I advised Beach residents that we needed more schools to accommodate the increasing population at the Beach. I ran a sincere campaign, not calling attention to criticisms of the city; but rather, calling attention to how to make a good city better."

In 1978 McCoy had to run for reelection. He ran unopposed, but two weeks before election night, a surprise candidate entered the local political arena.

"I don't know why," McCoy said inquisitively, "but that year, after I followed the wishes of incumbent council members Pat Standing, Clarence Holland, John Griffin and Floyd Waterfield, and supported them, Beach businessman Arthur Riddell offered himself as a write-in candidate for the seat just two weeks before the election.

"I think that after I publically announced my support for the other candidates, he felt that I had weakened some of my political views and he could take advantage of it. But in the end, he received 2,500 votes and 1, 16,000. And, it cost me $1,000 to boot for last minute campaigning."

McCoy sees the 1980's a promising decade for Virginia Beach; although he has no plans to run for reelection in 1982.

"I think we are going into an era, in Virginia Beach, calling for positive approaches in city government, and strong leadership.

"I do not plan to run for reelection when my term comes up in 1982, but I will not now close the door completely on the prospect. But, I think that by then, one, of not several council members will stand out as a qualified candidates for the office."

A unified council is absolutely necessary for the good of the city; if you don't have one, the residents will ultimately suffer—McCoy

McCoy, born in Norfolk

McCoy, a 21 year Beach resident, was born in Norfolk. He is the son of Beach residents Mr. and Mrs. J. Henry McCoy, Sr., who live in the Pembroke Manor section of Virginia Beach. He is a retired businessman, and she, a housewife.

McCoy has one brother: Bill, 40, employed with the Phillip Morris Tobacco Company, Richmond.

McCoy attended Campostella Elementary School; Ruffner Junior High School; and Maury High School.

At Maury, McCoy was active in various clubs, including, the Spanish and Math Clubs. He also worked on the high school year book committee.

During the Summers, McCoy worked to earn extra money for his upcoming college career.

"As a supplement for my college expenses," McCoy said, "I worked for a private refrigerator business in Norfolk. But it wasn't enough to pay my total college expenses. If it hadn't been for my father helping me out, I wouldn't have made it."

Following high school graduation, McCoy attended the Norfolk Division of the College of William and Mary (now known as O.D.U.), from 1950 to 1953. He received his associate of arts degree in general science/pre-dental.

"I had pretty good grades all through high school and college," McCoy said. "Usually I had about a 94 average, but was only ranked 16 in my high school graduating class.

After receiving his A.A. degree, he attended the Medical College of Virginia (now known as Virginia Commonwealth University) for four years and graduated from that institution in 1957 after four intensive years of dental school.

McCoy said dental school then, is much the same as it is today.

"Dental school is really no different today than it was in the 1950's," McCoy said. "It was plenty hard then, and it is plenty hard today. In fact, it's probably harder to get into dental school now than it was then. The size of the introductory classes have increased from 50 to 150."

McCoy enlists in Air Force

After college, McCoy joined the Air Force.

"I might have preferred joining the Navy," McCoy said, "but I wanted to get in and get out as soon as I could; and the Air Force had more openings for dentists at that time than the Navy did.

"But the Navy was better because the dental corps were completely independent of the other medical corps, and that cut down on a lot of friction in the ranks."

McCoy was stationed for those two years in Biloxi, Miss., and was discharged in 1959 as a captain.

"I really liked it down South in Mississippi," McCoy said with a cocky smile. "The weather was usually great, the golf greens were breathtaking."

McCoy came back to Norfolk after the Air Force and worked for another dental practice already established. But, according to McCoy, "it was a blessing that it only lasted two months. Things were not working out well there at all.

"After that, I choose to open my own practice in the Aragona Shopping Center. That was January, 1960. I was happy there because it was a good location, and there was a need for my services.

"I spent 15 years in that location, before we outgrew the facility and had to move to the Pembroke office building where I am now located. My only complaint there is the lack of parking spaces for my patients."

McCoy first married in 1956 to a girl from Richmond, while he was a junior in dental school. But, after 16 years, the marriage didn't work out.

He married in 1973 to a girl from California. He and Dee have now been married 7½ years.

"Dee first came to me as a patient," McCoy said fondly. "I hired her to work in my office soon after that because she has had some dental training. Soon after that, we married."

McCoy and his wife have five children: Yvonne, 22, a senior at O.D.U.; Sheryl, 19, a student at Tidewater Community College, and employed with the Virginia Beach School Board; Kevin, 17, a senior at Kempsville High School; Kim, 15, a sophomore at Kempsville High School; and Joy 10, a fifth grader at Kempsville Elementary School.

McCoy likes Hawaii; Kempsville

McCoy's hobbies include golf, and a lot of traveling.

"I do an awful lot of traveling," he said with a smile.

"I have enjoyed Mexico City; Hawaii; all of the U.S.; Puerto Rico; and the Bahamas.

"In the future I will go to Europe and the Far East; but if I had to pick someplace I'd like to see again, it would be Hawaii.

"Hawaii is clean; the atmosphere is very relaxed; and the air is clean and fragrant. One of the great things about Hawaii is, there are no bugs; natives there don't even have screens on their windows. I don't know why Hawaii has no insects, maybe the distance is too great for them to swim from other countries."

Kempsville, unlike Hawaii, has bugs. But bugs notwithstanding, McCoy says Kempsville is his home and always will be.

"Even though I was born in Norfolk," McCoy said,

"I have lived in Kempsville 20 years. I consider it home.

"I remember coming over here to play, even when I was growing up in Southside Norfolk."

Coach Webster laments recent Kempsville Loss

By Greg Goldfarb,
Sun editor

Even though First Colonial High School lost one of its biggest game of the season recently against Kempsville, head coach Frank Webster said the team played well anyway.

"We played well," Webster said, "but Kempsville played better. What really hurt us was not being able to get across the goal line, and the number of turnovers: Four fumbles and one pass interception."

One team must excel

Webster knew going into the game that neither team had been defeated this season, and that the winning team would have to play splendidly.

"Kempsville played exceptionally well against us," Webster laments, "in fact, I don't think they could have possibly played any better than they did. Kempsville really gave an all-out performance, which the winning team of that game was under pressure to produce."

After that game, First Colonial went into a four way tie for first place with Princess Anne, and Cox High Schools.

Patriot players did well

Webster said several patriots played good games against Kempsville.

"Darryl Olds had a good game," Webster said about the senior player.

"He is the leading rusher in the district, and carried the ball against Kempsville for 95 yards; but he didn't score. Actually, we had more total yardage on the ground than they did; but we lost.

Senior defensive end Scott Fancher also had a good game.

"He stopped three goal line plays that were run right to his position," Webster said, "and Kempsville had to settle for a field goal.

"Steve Meetrey and Tray Russ also had good defensive games. But unusual circumstances really made the difference."

Circumstances cost game

"The unusual circumstances" Webster refers to includes the following:

"We only ran three plays in the first quarter," Webster said, "and they ran 18.

"Also, they had a very good kicking game going that night.

"The game had been originally scheduled for Friday night, so we suited up got on the bus and went to Kempsville only to have the game postponed after we got there because of rain.

"The players were pumped up for the game Friday night; but I'm afraid they lost a little gusto having to wait another day to play such an important game and on another school's field."

The cost of losing?

After losing such an important game, how does Webster get on the team at practice for not winning?

"Not at all," Webster said. "The team got pretty down on themselves without me having to say too much.

"We had prestige and position going into the game.

"The other team knew they would have to play extremely well to beat us, and I think they played the best they were capable of playing that night. And it's really hard for us, because we have to play 10 times better to meet the challenge.

"But one thing is for certain, we didn't play up to our level, and we sure would like a rematch against Kempsville."

Patriots now in 1st

By Greg Goldfarb,

"We hope to win," First Colonial head football coach Frank Webster said prior to last weekend's game with Cox. "The win will be important to keep us in this year's championship race.

"Cox has a real good football team; and when you play them, they're always tough."

But last Friday night, First Colonial was tougher. First Colonial squeezed by Cox, 24-22.

The win brings the Patriots into first place with a record of 4-1, in the Beach football district. The team's only loss came two weeks against Kempsville, 10-0.

First Colonial scored most of their points in the first half of the game played at Cox.

Billy McTyre scored in the early minutes of the game with a two yard, and a one yard touchdown run. Walter Drevitt scored later in the half from the three yard line.

In the second half, McTyre scored again; this time from the 11.

At Virginia Wesleyan

More Beach soccer players make the team

Two more Virginia Beach residents have made the team at Virginia Wesleyan College besides Joe Dohmann and Greg Plummer.

Marco DiFlorio

Marco DiFlorio, a freshman from Cox High School, and son of Mr. and Mrs. Remo DiFlorio, is a member of the 1980 Virginia Wesleyan College soccer team.

Marco is one of 22 players to make Coach Lenny Long's team. The Marlins currently have a 2-2 record after finishing second in last week's Salisbury State Invitational Tournament.

"Marco should add needed depth to our attacking positions," says Coach Long.

The Marlins hope to capture the Dixie Conference Championship, a crown they were unable to defend last year after holding it for three consecutive seasons.

"Our immediate goal is to win the Dixie conference," Long says. "Only after that can we look to any possible NCAA post-season bids.

"If we can score a few goals I think we can have a very successful season," Long adds. "I guess you can say I am cautiously optimistic."

Dave Bishop

Dave Bishop, a sophomore from Va. Beach, VA, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver R. Bishop is also a member of the 1980 Virginia Wesleyan College soccer team.

Dave led the team in scoring last year as he earned All-Conference and All-VISA honors as a freshman.

"Dave is certainly an exciting player," says Wesleyan Coach Lenny Long. "He had to carry our scoring last year, but is rapidly becoming a complete player this season.

Bishop, a business major at Wesleyan, is one of 22 players to make Coach Lenny Long's team. The Marlins currently have a 2-2 record after finishing second in last week's Salisbury State Invitational Tournament.

SUNSHINE GIRL

Carolyn Billy plans to open fashion classes at the Beach

A graduate of California State University, Long Beach, SUNshine Girl Carolyn Billy received her B.A. degree in dance and theatre.

A relatively new Beach resident, living in the city only four weeks, Billy hopes to become involved with local theatre and eventually begin her own fashion and make-up instruction classes.

"I really love the Beach," the Athens, Ohio native said, "and I hope my future plans will work out well here. I've had previous experience in both fields.

"I used to be an area representative for a fashion college and I really loved it. I studied theatre and dance, which includes make-up, lighting, and stage presence, at Ohio University, Athens, for three years before going to Cal State.

"I want to design my classes for very individualized instruction. I don't intend to appeal to the masses."

December at the Beach

Billy said she first became acquainted with Virginia Beach last December.

"It's funny," she said with a laugh, "the first time I ever saw the Beach, it was not as a vacationer. I came here for personal and business reasons. Most people come here for the fun and sun. But, anyway, I enjoyed myself here very much last year."

Billy said she may leave Virginia Beach in the future, but not within the next few years.

"I'm a Pisces," she said, "and I really love the water. So you can imagine that I really like Virginia Beach.

"I'm also a beach walker, no matter what time of the year it is, or how cold. I'm in the process now of making a Japanese garden out of the shells I have picked up. Beach walking is also good exercise.

"I am very interested in psychic phenomenon. I plan to do some research at the Edgar Cayce Foundation here."

Billy likes music "of all kinds," she said. Her favorite artists include, Billy Joel, and Styx.

Her hobbies include cooking (at her own leisure); reading; walking; and bicycling.

Just as Disco came on the Beach scene five or six years ago, (the biggest thing since Rock and Roll began in the 1950's), there are three new trends on the musical horizon.

First, is Reggae music; imported directly from the island of Jamaica, and its surrounding British West Indies islands, located 90 miles South of Cuba.

Reggae at the Beach

Jamaica's chief commerce ties are with Great Britain and the United States. Consequently, music has been able to filter into the States for years. Early Reggae artists like Jimmy Cliff became one of the first commercial Reggae artists in the U.S.; Bob Marley has recently followed.

At the Beach, Reggae music used to be performed by the now defunct "Tropix" band, from Norfolk. Last summer, however, some former members of "Tropix," got together to form "Steve Pegue, and the Winged Heart Band." "Winged Heart" played at The Crystal restaurant, Virginia Beach Boulevard, several times.

But even though the Latin American flavored Reggae music is even being championed by the City of Norfolk at its annual Harbourfest, it has not become as popular over the last 20 years as New Wave music has become in two years.

New Wave at the Beach

New Wave music is rock and roll roots, i.e. bass and drums, intensified.

In a quiet invasion from England, New Wave artist such as Elvis Costello and Tom Petty started arriving on the American music scene several years ago. New Wave music hit the Beach this past Summer with frequent appearances of the popular Portsmouth based New Wave band, The X-Raves, at Pequod's, Beach Mall. This high energy, accelerated rock and roll, not only gives its Beach listeners and "Pogo" dancers a musical sensation paralleling rock and roll's inception 25 years ago, it gives them much more.

New Wave bands encourages their audiences to dress like the band members do: Slicked back hair; sunglasses; skinny neckties; white shirts or T-shirts; and black pants.

An active New Wave bar looks like a costume party. It serves its purpose for a crowd ranging in age from 14 to 24.

Reggae, New Wave, and Western styles of music; all available at the Beach.

Western music at Beach

But most recently, the most interesting musical trend to hit Virginia Beach includes Western dress and "Cowboy bars."

The most popular Western bar at the Beach is Michael's, located in the Hilltop West Shopping Center.

Formerly known as "Bojangles," and the "Heavy Cowboy," Beach businessman Michael Christian has reopened the club, under his own name.

Inside, guys and girls, dressed in blue jeans; plaid shirts; and cowboy hats; drink, dance and watch a mechanical bull, which attempts to throw its riders.

Now that the tourist season is over, it is interesting to note that the already established Beach night clubs still have their own popular disco nights, but are basically less crowded on weekends.

It seems that now, on Friday and Saturday nights, many Beach residents are taking off the three piece suit, or high heels, and putting on boots and a scarf. And why not? There are just as many Beach people from the surrounding counties and countryside as there are from New York.

Collands

Beach says "Hello Dolly"

"I really love Virginia Beach," said Dolly Parton look-alike Marcia Collands. "The Beach people are very friendly, and very kind."

"This is my first trip to the Beach, but I'm sure it won't be my last."

Collands made her remarks last weekend at the Virginia Beach nightclub Michaels, recently opened in the Hilltop West shopping center.

Collands, and her theatrical act, "A Tribute to Dolly Parton," is in its second year, she said, and has toured the United States, including Hawaii.

Dougherty

"Beautiful People"

Beacher wins contest

Virginia Beach resident Anne Dougherty, placed first in the "Beautiful People Contest," held recently in Richmond by the Virginia Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association.

The contest, sponsored during the association's 33rd annual convention, featured eight contestants who were judged by representatives from Jingles International Hairstyles, London. Each girl was judged on her hairstyle, and her "total fashion look."

Purpose: Stimulate new ideas

The purpose of the competition, according to Dougherty, was to "stimulate new hair fashion ideas for clientele, and to encourage a greater fashion awareness."

Dougherty, the 19 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James M. Dougherty, said she competed in the competition because her hairstylist asked her to.

"My stylist is George Kirkpatrick," Dougherty, said. "It was the first competition he had ever entered, and he wanted me to model his hairdo. He said he got his idea from the cover of a fashion magazine."

Dougherty said the hairstyle took two hours to complete, and involved putting her hair into a series of ponytails, and applying gel and pipe-cleaners.

Kirkpatrick won $200 for the hair design and a gold medal.

Dougherty received $50 of Kirkpatrick's $200, and signed a release, allowing pictures of her and her award winning hairstyle to be published in national trade publications.

Most exciting day of her life

Was she excited about winning?

"Heck yeah," Dougherty said, "I couldn't believe it; it was the most exciting night of my life."

"It was a very competitive event, and I was ecstatic about winning it."

"If I'm here next year, and asked to, I hope to compete in it again."

The gown Dougherty wore for the contest cost $750 and was from J. J.'s Fashion Shop, Virginia Beach.

She will compete next week in a similar event to be held in North Carolina.

Kirkpatrick could not be reached for comments.

CITY COUNCIL NEWS

Water problems plague Beach

By Lee Cahill

Sun City Council correspondent

Water conservation has to become a way of life in Virginia Beach to stretch out the diminishing water reserves until it rains or until a new source is found.

The alternative is no water at all.

City manager George L. Hanbury Monday afternoon told Council that the citizens must be impressed with the seriousness of the situation.

As it is, even if all of Norfolk's water customers, including Virginia Beach, cut consumption down to 75 percent of normal, there is still only enough water to last until the early part of January.

Even if Norfolk digs wells for auxiliary water sources, it will take 100 days before the water can be run to the homes of its customers.

Virginia Beach Councilman Patrick L. Standing, at an informal meeting of Council Monday afternoon, said, it looks like everyone in the city is conserving....I haven't shaved with water in a week....This should be a community effort to save water, not to see who can cheat."

Later at the formal session, however, Council approved by a vote of 9-1 an ordinance setting allocations and imposing stiff penalties for water use above prescribed amounts.

Council also approved a resolution requesting Governor Dalton to declare a state of emergency on water resources for the City of Virginia Beach. Norfolk City Council was expected to consider a similar resolution Tuesday.

The resolution asks the governor to use powers of his office to make it possible for the city of Norfolk to install deep wells adjacent to Norfolk reservoirs in Suffolk and Isle of Wight. Suffolk and Isle of Wight are fighting Norfolk's efforts to sink wells there.

The resolution points out that as of Oct. 13, at current consumption rates, the Norfolk water supply system serving Norfolk, Virginia Beach, a portion of Chesapeake and the United States Navy had approximately 84 days' supply.

Without sufficient rainfall, further conservation measures will be necessary on Nov. 1, the resolution points out, and the only feasible solution is the installation of deep wells which will take 100 days to install and have operational. Since an emergency exists, the resolution states, there isn't time to explore a legal resolution of the rights of parties to subterranean water.

The ordinance allocating water is substantially the same one proposed by city manager George L. Hanbury last week, except for a provision which requires that penalties be imposed upon every user for the one billing period (or an equal number of billing periods), even if that period extends beyond the emergency. This was done in answer to complaints that half of the city would be paying the penalties sooner than the other half under the original proposal. Customers whose meters were read sooner would be subject to penalties over a longer period of time than those whose meters were read later.

Councilwoman Reba McClanan voted against the allocation rate ordinance. Councilman Donald Merrick was absent.

McClanan said later that she was in favor of allocating water. "I think we should practice it all the time." She said she voted against the ordinance because she wasn't sure exactly how the city arrived at its allocations and because money has become the focal point of the whole conservation effort.

"I would like to think there is another solution," she said, but did not have one. She said she was concerned about large families and had received numerous calls from residents. Many are upset because (under the city's mandatory hook-up ordinance) they were required to hook up to city water, she said.

She also questioned the authority of Norfolk in imposing surcharges upon the City of Virginia Beach for water consumption over 75 percent of last year's. It was this system of penalties which forced Virginia Beach to impose penalties on its customers to raise revenues for what could amount to a half million dollars a month in penalties.

McClanan said she had asked the administration for the calculations from which the charges were derived but had not received them. "I have some duty, to the people," she said, to base her vote on facts and figures. She also thought that the people were doing their part.

Mayor J. Henry McCoy Jr., at their formal session, had asked that all the meters be read at approximately the same time and that extra help be brought in if necessary to make the system more equitable.

Hanbury said that 60,000 meters would have to be read in one day.

Councilman Reid Ervin pointed out that if there were a heavy rain and the penalties were suspended, only the first group which had meters read would be penalized.

Virginia Beach ready to drill water wells in face of opposition from city, county

Hanbury said that if Norfolk does not improve penalties, he will refund all the penalties.

Public Utilities director Aubrey Watts said that with present personnel and additional workers, 17 working days would be needed to read all the meters.

Ervin suggested extending the penalties for one full cycle.

Councilwoman Meyera Oberndorf said, "We need to motivate people, to let them know it's for their own benefit." She suggested sending a card to each customer to be returned with their meter reading...a kind of do-it-yourself meter reading.

Hanbury said, "We've got a very serious problem. People are going to find out in 83 days that we're not joking. We want everybody to conserve."

He said the City of Norfolk is pushing money as a way to conserve and Virginia Beach has to follow suit. "Norfolk is generous enough to sell us the water it is now selling," he said, since Norfolk is required by its contract to sell only surplus water.

Hanbury said, as for going one full billing cycle, "We're not going to have the problem solved in the next 60 or 90 days. If we don't have to pay Norfolk we will rebate all penalties."

Standing said that "a lot of people will not be using the allocation. We shouldn't reward those who are not conserving by rebating."

Vice Mayor Harold Heischober said, "What we want is conservation now." He suggested taking every meter reading since Oct. 1 and "prorating if we can do it."

The ordinance is retroactive to Oct. 1.

At the formal session, Hanbury said, "It will be extremely difficult to try to make it as equitable as possible."

Standing said "Everybody should have the incentive to conserve." "We don't have any choice but to pass it," McCoy said.

"I believe we can impress sufficiently (on the users) what they do is part of the problem or part of the solution," Heischober said. "We may go through two or three billing cycles. We're All in the same emergency, but if we all conserve we will not have to impose the penalty."

The following rates will remain in effect until removed by City Council:

Residential and Multi-family (per dwelling unit): 0-11,000 gallons per bi-monthly billing period...$1.06 per 1,000 gallons; 11,000-18,000 gallons per bi-monthly billing period...$4.10 per 1,000 gallons; 18,000 or more gallons per bi-monthly billing period...$14.70 per 1,000 gallons.

Commercial and Non-taxable Customers: First 75 percent of average bi-monthly use (Based upon previous 12 month consumption)...$1.06 per 1,000 gallons; 75 percent-100 percent of average bi-monthly use...$4.10 per 1,000 gallons; Over 100 percent...$14.70 per 1,000 gallons.

In reference to the resolution to the Governor, Ervin said that the wells will be used only in emergencies. When Norfolk's reservoirs supply enough water to serve the Norfolk's water customers, the wells will be shut down.

The wells will be capable of producing 16 million gallons of water a day.

More pinball machines

The repeal of a shuffleboard-pinball machine ordinance will permit the operation of the machines in places like 7-11 stores at any time.

The ordinance had prohibited the operation of the machines in any restaurant, tavern or other business establishment during the hours when alcoholic beverages may not be dispensed.

The cut-off time for alcoholic beverages is 2 a.m. Some 7-11 stores are open 24 hours a day.

City manager George L. Hanbury told Council Monday afternoon that the Southland Corporation, operators of 7-11 stores, had asked for a repeal of the ordinance. He said that the Police Department decided that the law was no longer necessary because there was no connection between pinball and shuffleboard and alcohol.

Calvin Spain, attorney representing four amusement companies which, he said, represent 90 percent of the machines in Virginia Beach, said his clients wanted the ordinance retained. He said that the absence of such an ordinance in other areas led to less vigorous control. In Fairfax County, he said, things got so bad that pinball machines were outlawed all together.

Council approved the repeal by a vote of 7-3. Voting against repeal were Councilmen John A. Baum and Clarence A. Holland and Councilwoman Meyera Oberndorf.

Council approves A-2 zoning

Why have an A-3 (apartment) district, if nothing can be rezoned to A-3, Attorney Grover Wright asked Virginia Beach City Council Monday afternoon.

Wright was representing an applicant seeking a change of zoning from A-1 Apartment District to A-3 Apartment District, but the Planning Commission recommended, and the City Council approved Monday afternoon, a change to A-2, a less dense classification.

Wright said that of the nine study areas in the city, there are only three acres of land still undeveloped that are zoned A-3 - one acre at the beach and two in the Pembroke Mall area. The Comprehensive plan, he said, recommends only one A-3 - in the Pembroke Mall area.

Involved in the application, filed by Robert L. Simpson, is a 3.7 acre parcel at the northeast corner of Barberton Drive and E Street in the Lynnhaven Borough.

Wright said if A-3 is not appropriate here, where is it appropriate?

A-2 permits 89 apartment units on the property, while A-3 would permit 140 units.

Council approved the A-2 zoning by a vote of 7-3. Voting against approval were Councilmen John A. Baum, J. Henry McCoy Jr. and Patrick L. Standing. Councilman Donald Merrick was absent.

Neptune volunteers thanked

All the citizens who volunteered their services for the Seventh Annual Virginia Beach Neptune Festival were commended in a resolution approved Monday afternoon by Virginia Beach City Council.

The resolution stated that the Festival was a "resounding success."

Voluntary bicycle registration

Virginia Beach is substituting a voluntary bicycle registration program for the mandatory registration program which has been in effect.

Mandatory registration was questioned following an incident during the summer when police officers used what bystanders considered undue force to take into custody an unregistered bicycle rider.

City manager George L. Hanbury said that the registration program is valuable in apprehending bike thieves, but that it should be retained on a voluntary basis.

He said during 1979 there were a total of 607 bicycles recovered at a value of $18,737 out of 1,509 thefts reported to the Police Department at a value of $46,583. Many of the recoveries were made as a result of registration.

Council Monday afternoon approved the ordinance making registration voluntary.

Relocation payments

Virginia Beach City Council has approved an ordinance which establishes relocation payments in connection with property acquisition for city road projects.

Among the provisions:

Moving expenses, not to exceed $300.

A fixed payment for lost earnings for farms or businesses not less than $2,500 or more than $10,000.

Payments of not more than $15,000 for displaced persons to acquire a new dwelling.

A payment of $1,000 for displaced persons not included in other provisions.

The ordinance was approved Monday afternoon.

Share the water

In these days of drought and water conservation, members of City Council apparently will look anywhere for a drop of water.

Therefore, when Joseph P. Waldo, attorney for Solar Wash, Inc. told Council Monday afternoon that a well has been sunk on the site in Bayside Borough, Vice mayor Harold Heischob suggested sharing the water. Tongue in cheek, of course.

Council, however, did not require a supply of water as a condition when the application of Solar Wash, Inc. for a conditional use permit for a car wash was approved unanimously. The wash will be located on a .76 acre parcel located between Virginia Beach Boulevard and Holland Road, west of Brian Avenue in the Bayside Borough.

Council also approved the application of National Pride Equipment, for a conditional use permit for a car wash on a .63 acre parcel located on the south side of Laskin Road, west of Village Drive in the Lynnhaven Borough.

The city requires that water for car washes be recycled.

Lynnhaven request denied

Rezoning which would have tripled the number of units permitted on a 44.09 acre tract in Lynnhaven Borough was denied unanimously by Virginia Beach City Council Monday afternoon.

Developer David I. Levine had sought rezoning from A-1 Apartment District to A-4 Apartment District for the parcel located between Poinciana Drive and Lynnhaven Avenue, east of Great Neck Road.

$5.2 million set for schools, highways

The site had been approved in 1966 for a change of zoning from RD-2 Residence Duplex District 2 to R-M Multiple Family Residence District and a conditional use permit had been presented for 1,804 high rise apartment units. However, with the adoption of the Comprehensive Zoning Ordinance in 1973 the property was zoned A-1 because the conditional use permit was no longer valid. Existing zoning permits 529 apartment units while the requested zoning would permit 1,587 units.

Levine claimed that he merely wanted the zoning which would enable him to build approximately the same number of units he was permitted in 1966. He further told council that the administration's report on the rezoning was inaccurate and the petition should be remanded to the planning staff.

Edward T. Caton III, attorney for civic leagues in Cape Henry Shores, Lynnhaven and Great Neck, opposed the application because it was not compatible with the comprehensive plan. He added that Levine has benefited because the city has filled a major part of the property. The site has been used as a sandy hydraulic fill area; all wetlands have been filled.

Levine's original plan had included a civic center on the property.

Vice mayor Harold Heischober noted that what may have been good 14 to 16 years ago may not be good now.

By a vote of 10-0 Council upheld the recommendation of the Planning Commission for denial. Councilman Donald Merrick was absent.

Council also denied Lyle G. and Eunice M. Wermers their application for a change of zoning from R-5 Residential District to R-8 Residential District on a 2.375-acre parcel at the northeast corner of South Lynnhaven Road and Pritchard Road in the Lynnhaven Borough.

The Comprehensive Plan recommends that no rezonings be approved which would increase the density of the area.

Wermers said that the difference would be 12 units instead of nine, but that he would be able to spend $2,000 more per unit for a better constructed house on smaller lots. The property adjoins Doyletown which has 50-foot lots, he said.

Tom Broyles, attorney for the residents who opposed the petition, said that Doyletown is one of the better black communities and that most of the people bought two and three lots to build a home.

Lee Williams, president of the civic league, said the residents did not want to be locked in a situation where they could not improve. He said the higher density project would attract the wrong people.

Council upheld the recommendation of the Planning Commission for denial by a vote of 10-0.

Civic referendum

A seven member committee to disseminate information on the upcoming bond referendums is being formed on the recommendation of the Virginia Beach Council of Civic Organizations.

Councilwoman Meyera Oberndorf told City Council Monday afternoon that the CCO had agreed to support the highway and water and sewer bond referendums on Nov. 4 but only on condition that the bond information committee be formed. The CCO recommended the committee include three CCO members, one Council member and one member each from Public Utilities, Highways and Finance.

Mayor J. Henry McCoy Jr. said he would serve as the Council representative and the other city representatives would be Giles Dodd, Finance; Aubrey Watts, Utilities; and Oral Lambert, Public Works director, highways.

Oberndorf presented the letter from CCO president Jack Dewan requesting Council to pass a resolution to form the committee.

Councilwoman Reba McClanan pointed out that when she served on the CCO during the last bond referendum, "we could not get information. I was told by Watts that he was told not to give it to me."

Standing said the information should be made available to everybody.

Council already has a committee which is charged with informing the people, but Councilman John A. Baum said that "this meeting of the minds would relieve suspicions."

Voters will have before them on Nov. 4, $22.9 million in highway and $46 million in water and sewer bonds.

$5.2 million appropriated

Virginia Beach City Council Monday afternoon appropriated $5.2 million in Revenue Sharing funds for schools, highway and engineering, building and parks and recreation projects.

Councilwoman Reba McClanan cast the sole dissenting vote because she is still opposed to moving Fire Station #9 in Kempsville ahead of the fire station scheduled for Green Run. She said that she thought the Green Run Station was more important.

Councilman Donald Merrick was absent during the

For week of Oct. 16 - 23

ARIES: (March 21 to April 19 — Also Aries Ascendant) — Energy may be low and mental processes somewhat cobwebby. Stay with routine tasks and have health or diet checkups if indicated. If financial problems are at the root of your depression, go over budget and find solutions.

TAURUS: (April 20 to May 20 — Also Taurus Ascendant) — New projects may be hard to get off the ground, so attend to routine matters. Be diplomatic if tempers flare on the home front. Not the time to take chances of any kind with money — keep your wallet safely in your pocket!

GEMINI: (May 21 to June 20 — Also Gemini Ascendant) — Don't rely on others for help now — your own right arm is your best ally. Spend money on only the real necessities and don't let yourself be drawn into arguments. Use creative imagination in your project plans.

CANCER: (June 21 to July 22 — Also Cancer Ascendant) — Move ahead with confidence and keep on plugging whether others are cooperative or not. Take care of family responsibilities cheerfully. Not the time to ask for a raise or change jobs — hang in there a while longer.

LEO: (July 23 to Aug. 22 — Also Leo Ascendant) — A "quick money scheme" may look good, but have serious flaws. Check it out thoroughly. Concentrate on domestic harmony and finish up home repairs. Use your high energy to increase the value of what you already have.

VIRGO: (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22 — Also Virgo Ascendant) — If you have neglected your health a checkup may be wise. Delay signing contracts or papers if possible — if not, get good professional advice first. Financial matters could improve, but don't get over-confident and reckless.

LIBRA: (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22 — Also Libra Ascendant) — Travel is not particularly favored now. Be sure your car is in good repair and drive "heads up" on your daily rounds. In dealings with people who are new to your acquaintance get legal advice before making commitments.

SCORPIO: (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21 — Also Scorpio Ascendant) — Spend the holiday week at home with loved ones. Work on plans already in progress rather than starting anything new. Guard against hostile attitude when you meet delays. Financial speculation is not favored.

SAGITTARIUS: (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21 — Also Sagittarius Ascendant) — Your personality sparkles and you can have a marvelous social time on the holiday weekend. Romance could bloom for the unmarried. Over-indulgence may leave you feeling cranky and out of sorts. Don't inflict your mood on others.

CAPRICORN: (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19 — Also Capricorn Ascendant) — A major problem, possibly involving finance, could shake you up a bit. Seek advice from those with experience. A heavy workload could take its toll on health. Get plenty of rest and watch your diet.

AQUARIUS: (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18 — Also Aquarius Ascendant) — Money deals could be more complicated than they seem. Check everything out with an attorney. Be reasonable and discuss calmly any differences with superiors, mate or partner. Don't be stubborn or you may lose.

PISCES: (Feb. 19 to March 20 — Also Pisces Ascendant) — A new romance could blossom for the unmarried, and present relationships deepen for those already involved. Be careful of deception through others. Get all agreements in writing. Concentrate on career, and curb impulsiveness.

Orientation training has been scheduled for new 4-H volunteers in Virginia Beach.

The training workshops will be conducted in a series of 3 sessions. Each session will be 3 hours for a total of 9 hours.

The training series will be held 6 times during the 1980-81 4-H year. Persons unable to attend all 3 sessions of a series may attend the missed session (s) during any of the other offerings of the series in order to receive certificate.

All sessions will be held at the Extension Office, Department of Agriculture, at the Municipal Center. Day-time participants should bring a bag lunch. Call the 4-H office to pre-register.

Blowe convicted of unemployment fraud

Richmond-Martha Ann Blowe, a Virginia Beach resident, was convicted in Richmond General District Court today of making false statements or withholding material facts to obtain $153 in unemployment insurance benefits.

Blowe, 28, of the 700 block of Emerald Lake Drive was fined $75 for the misdemeanor conviction, given a 60 day suspended jail sentence and ordered to make restitution of the funds.

The charges were brought by C. B. Pierce an investigator with the Virginia Employment commission's fraud investigation unit.

Daylight

Beachers to view Indians

Larry Daylight, a member of the Shawnee Tribe and World Champion of Fancy Dancing for three succeeding years, demonstrates a ceremonial tribal dance for Beach residents as a part of Buffalo Bill's Wild West and Congress of Rough Riders of the World.

The original Buffalo Bill's Wild West first became a reality in 1883, toured England and the continent of Europe thrilling thousands of spectators with a throng of cowboys, Indians, horses and exotic animals. It set attendance records for touring shows which were never broken.

Members of the contemporary version of Buffalo Bill's Wild West will be appearing at Kings Dominion on Oct. 11 and 12 and 18 and 19. Kings Dominion is open weekends from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. from now until Nov. 2. For further information call (804) 876-5000.

"I believe Virginia Beach is a great city"—McCoy

Virginia Beach: A great city

McCoy is far from the cocky, hot-blooded kid he used to be. His main concerns are his family; council; Virginia Beach, and its continued good fortune.

"I believe Virginia Beach is a great city," he said without a doubt. "It's unfortunate, however, that its governing body sometimes finds itself picking at each other for various reasons; some reasons being important, but many of them not so important.

"But, I like the job of mayor. I only wish that there was more hours in the day, or days in the week in which to carry out my professional, civic, and personal duties.

"As mayor, my greatest concern, as it will always be, is that the city continue at the good, strong pace it has been on for many years."

Pavilion, Blue Laws under council's eye

Included in the appropriation are: Providence Elementary School and the new Cox Senior High School ($2,262,796); Pleasure House Road, Phase I, dredging Eastern Branch Lynnhaven River and Inlynnview Road ($1,260,170); Beach Borough parking lots, 30th Street, Restroom Mall, City Garage Expansion, Rose Hall site improvements, Bendix Road refuse facility, Little Neck Area library, Fire Station #9, building maintenance headquarters expansion, Parks and Recreation office renovation and landfill #2 ($1,531,185), and Bayville Farm Park and Woodstock Park ($145,849).

Sunday Pops and Blue laws

Virginia Beach City Council wants to be sure that sales on Sunday at the Pavilion are not just a way to get around the State's Sunday Blue Laws.

Council, therefore, Monday afternoon directed city manager George L. Hanbury, in the future, to study the applications for exemptions from the Blue Laws with the intent to permit only those sales which attract convention or trade-type shows.

In the meantime Council approved exemptions for 16 organizations by a vote of 8-2.

Councilman Reid Ervin said that the intent of the exemption was not "just to let everybody who wants to put on a flea market to get relief from the Blue Laws."

Ann Harp, whose Surfside Flea Market received four of the exemptions, explained that the flea markets are actually antique shows and that they do attract out-of-state dealers. She said that the market, in addition to antiques has crafts and collectibles and that garage sale items are not permitted. Although the shows are usually held over a three-day week-end, she said that Sunday is the best day.

City of Virginia Beach Development Authority, Plaintiff,

v.

Taxpayers, property owners, and citizens of Virginia Beach, including non-residents owning property or subject to taxation therein, and all other persons interested in or affected in any way by the issuance by the city of Virginia Beach Development Authority of Approximately $1,500,000 Industrial Development

Revenue Bond (P & R Enterprises, A Virginia General Partnership), Series of 1980, Defendants.

Plaintiff, The City of Virginia Beach Development Authority, (the "Authority") seeks judicial determination pursuant to Article 6, Chapter 5, Title 15.1 Code of Virginia of 1950, as amended, of the validity of up to One million Five Hundred Thousand Dollar ($1,500,000.00) Industrial Development Revenue Bonds (P & R Enterprises, a Virginia general partnership) Series of 1980 (the "Bonds"), to be issued to pay the cost of constructing and equipping amotel and related retail facilities (the "Facility") in the City of Virginia Beach, Virginia, to be leased or sold to — & R Enterprises, a Virginia general partnership, (the "Company") and states as follows:

1. The Authority was duly created by Chapter 643, 1964 Acts of Assembly 975, as amended, of the Commonwealth of Virginia (the "Act"), and is a political subdivision of the Commonwealth of Virginia. The Authority has been continuously organized and operating under the Act since its creation, and no dissolution proceedings pursuant to the Act have been adopted or instituted.

2. At a meeting called and held on August 5, 1980, the Authority adopted a resolution agreeing to undertake the issuance of the Bonds upon terms and conditions to be mutually agreed upon between the Authority and the Company, with the facility to be leased or sold to the Company upon terms designed to assure payment of the Bonds by the Company in accordance with their terms and to provide security for the repayment thereof. The proceeds of the Bonds, when issued, will be used to finance the costs of constructing and equipping the Facility and the issuance of the Bonds.

3. When issued, the Bonds will be valid, legal and binding limited obligations of the Authority, payable solely from the revenues and receipts received from the lease or sale of the Facility to the Company and other security therefor. The Bonds will not constitute a debt or a pledge of the faith and credit of the Commonwealth of

Virginia or any political subdivision thereof, including the Authority and the City of Virginia Beach, no taxing power of any political subdivision will be pledged to the payment of the Bonds, and the Bonds will not constitute an indebtedness within the meaning of any debt limitation or restriction.

WHEREFORE, the City of Virginia Beach Development Authority, prays that the Court grant a prompt hearing and enter a decree with the least possible delay pursuant to Section 15.1-213 et. seq., including Section 15.1-217 of the Code of Virginia of 1950, as amended, and that (1) all proceedings heretofore taken in connection with the authorization or issuance of the Bonds are legal and valid; (2) the Bonds may be issued to finance the Facility; (3) assuming their due authorization, execution and delivery, the Bonds issued for the Facility will be valid, legal and binding limited obligations of the Authority, and (4) such additional matters as may be specially requested by the parties or as the Court may deem necessary or applicable to this proceeding.

In re: Tashaun Mitchell

PUBLICATION

The object of this proceeding is the termination of the residual parental rights of Linda Mitchell and Father-Unknown to their children Tashaun Mitchell and Sarah Virginia Mitchell. The consequences of termination of residual parental rights are that a parent or parents forever relinquish all parental rights such as, but not limited to, the rights of companionship, association, religious training, education, discipline, guidance, maintenance and all decision making concerning the child's welfare. And further it is to commit said infant to the care and custody of the Virginia Beach Department of Social Services with the right of said agency to consent to the infant's adoption.

And an affidavit having been made and filed that Linda Mitchell and Father-Unknown is a proper party to this proceeding; but due diligence has been used to ascertain in what county or corporation he is, without effect, it is ORDERED that Linda Mitchell and Father-Unknown do appear here within 10 days after due publication hereof, and do what may be necessary to protect their interest in this suit.

Mishaps befall travelers

Virginia Beach residents hike to Appalachian Mountain cabin

By Greg Goldfarb,
Sun Editor

Fall has arrived in Virginia Beach.

By now, some Beach residents have quietly tucked their beach sandals away until next Spring, and are taking out their Winter hiking boots. They intend to climb, and conquer the nearby Appalachian and Allegheny mountains; the closest mountain ranges to Virginia Beach.

Getting to the mountains is simple and alot easier than getting up them. Interstate highways allow Beach residents, with strong legs, easy access to many campgrounds and hiking trails in the mountains west of Roanoke, Lynchburg, Charlottesville, and Front Royal.

The Appalachian, and Allegheny Mountains form an informal boundry between Virginia and West Virginia, with the major portion of them falling along Virginia's western backbone. The mountains, filled with camping areas and National Forests, serve thousands of visitors annually who wish to trade-in the comforts of home, and the headaches of a job or school, for some serene time with nature. This story concerns four such people.

Beacher's head for the hills

Last Friday, one of the nicest days thus far this year, was a perfect day to meet with some friends and head for the mountains of West Virginia for a weekend of camping.

White fleecy clouds, and bright blue skies prevailed as I, and another Beach resident and musician named Gary drove to Annandale, in Northern Virginia, to meet with an old college buddy, and grad student at GMU, named Fuller. We three drove up to the northern part of the Shenandoah Valley to a town called Wardensville, and met the fourth member of our party, Fall, who had driven in from Appamattox.

None of us were what you would call experienced campers, although we had all been camping before on numerous occasions. Fuller, however, had made reservations with a local trail club for the use of a former park ranger's cabin for a weekend. He had never been to Sugar Knob Cabin before, but had the keys to it and a map of how to get there provided by the trail club.

The cabin, located in the George Washington National Forest, and about 115 miles due West of Washington, D.C., was 10 square feet in size. It rested on the top, western side of the Northern end of the Appalachians at an elevation of 3,000 feet.

Two trails lead to this cabin, requiring hikes of 3.18 and 6.7 miles respectively. The longer hike is mostly on level land and considered the easier of the two hikes. The shorter one is considered the harder because the last one-third of the hike is steep. The trail club advises that hikers taking the shorter, steep hike do so before dark, so the path markings called Blue Blazes can be easily seen.

Camping party not prepared

Most people would assume that four college graduates would have enough common sense to know not to hike into unknown woods at night; and not to carry too many supplies so that the weight of them doesn't burden you down for a three mile trip. But, unfortunately, our party took off down the leaf covered, rocky path around 7 p.m. in the evening, with only one flashlight and enough supplies to tire out a pack mule.

The first third of the hike consisted of traveling through a large farm nestled in a valley surrounded by several large mountains. After cutting across two open fields, we came to the edge of the forest to begin the winding journey up the mountain to the cabin.

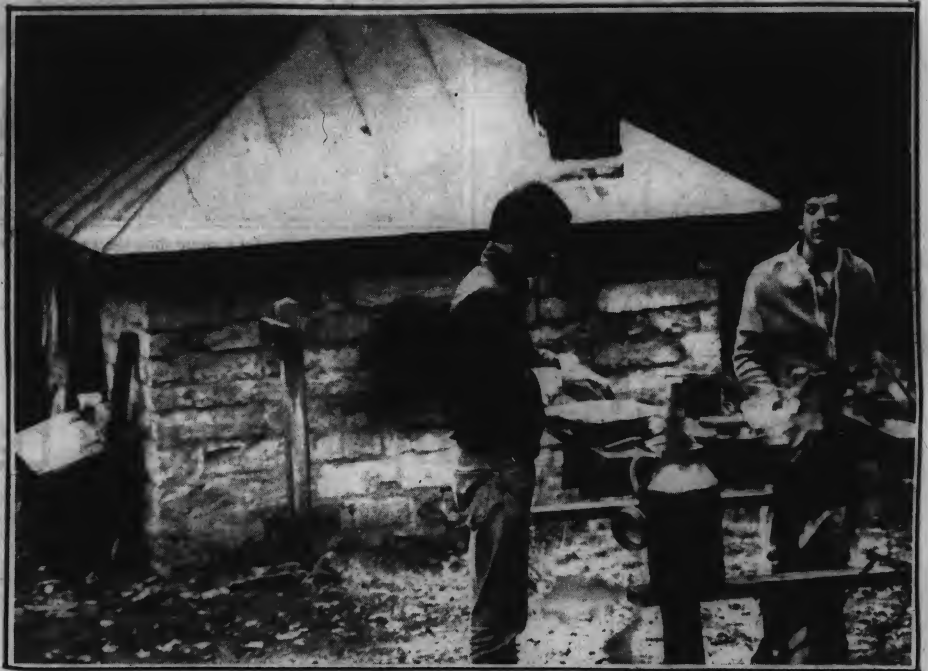

Even though we were all over-laden with gear, the best equipped of us was Fuller. He had a professional, lightweight, backpack which allowed him to keep his hands free to hold the flashlight. Gary and Fall carried jam packed napsacks, with sleeping bags tied to the top; Gary also carried a radio, and Bruce, a load of loose food. I carried two shoulderbags, a bag of food, and a sleeping bag around my waist.

After about a mile and one-half, we realized that the weight of the gear was too much, and we would be utter fools to try to reach the top in the dark without dumping some of the weight. Excluding Fuller, who took nothing from his pack, everything else that was not necessary for that night was displaced from our packs and placed off the trail, up in a tree; a regrettable decision, later, but unfortunately necessary.

By now, it was pitch black dark and we were only at the base of the particular mountain we were to climb.

The more we hiked, the steeper the incline became and the more we began thinking, "why are we doing this? Especially when no one knows where we're

Much of the preparation for the meals was done outdoors, including washing the dishes

Many hikers passed along the cabin's trail last weekend. Fuller chats with two visitors

Taking time for a group shot, the weary travelers are about to prepare for the return journey going!" But we had come this far and were still breathing, barely, so we knew if we persevered we should reach the cabin.

It was decided that since we did have the good sense to dump the extra weight, in order to complete the sojourn, that we exercise our intelligence again and plan to take many rest stops to prevent any members of the party from passing out. (If anyone did expire, it was agreed, the body would be left until the return trip that Sunday).

Chopped wood was a necessity for cooking; and heating the cabin.

Eventually, about two hours later, we reached the top of the mountain, and the cabin. Needless to say, it was a welcomed sight. As we stood there watching Fuller unlock the heavy padlock on the front door, our legs felt like rubber, our heads hurt, and sweat dripped from our faces.

It's not that the four members of our party were weak, or unhealthy as physical description would in-

Gary...took out a bottle of Brut and said he was going into the forest to look for some foxes dicade upon our arrival at the cabin, but the journey was hard; especially in the dark.

Our written instructions recommended that Sugar Knob newcomers hike to the cabin the first time over the 6.7 mile course. But we ignored the advice, tried to shoot up the mountain in the dark the hard way, and wore ourselves out. After a few minutes rest, we were ready to dig in, set up, and start cooking.

While some of us were busy boiling water and preparing the food, others were reading the cabin's log book. Most of the entries were about the same; with most campers getting to the cabin late, seeing a mouse after they arrived, and describing the food that was eaten during the stay. Our entries were a little more colorful.

The cabin featured four bunk beds suspended from the ceiling and walls; a cabinet; a shelf; two tables; and a wood burning stove.

We had plenty of food, and the bunk beds were comfortable. Blankets, as well as cooking utensils were provided by the trail club. Water was available at a spring a little ways away.

After dining Friday night, we played cards, went to sleep, and woke up Saturday to cloudy skies. Fuller was the first one up, and reminded me that we had to go back down the mountain to pick up the supplies that we had dumped. I woke the others and we went back down the steep path; only this time, during the daylight.

Our legs were already tired and this extra trip was taxing on our bodies. How we wished we hadn't brought so many supplies. We ended up back at the camp by noon, and fixed lunch.

After lunch, a light rain fell for about an hour, and we realized then, for the first time, that there were other campers and hikers nearby. At one time traffic was so bad, we considered erecting a toll gate. That afternoon, almost 10 people passed by our cabin on their way to other hiking and camping spots. They stopped, chatted, and went on their way.

After the rain let up, it was time to start fixing dinner. I had planned to read "The Washington Post" that I bought back in Annandale, before the meal, but it was used to start the fires.

Saturday night was spent in conversation, a little light drinking, and playing cards. We were asleep by Midnight.

Sunday morning we got up, ate, and began preparing for the return trip.

Bruce, who had chopped some wood the day before, went about preparing some food. Others busied themselves collecting personal items and cleaning up the cabin. Gary, who had one of the more troublesome packs, took out a bottle of Brut and said he was going out into the forest to look for some foxes. He denied remembering putting the bottle of cologne in his nap-sack.

After a few parting pictures, we were on our way downhill. It was a breeze compared to going uphill. We stopped in a field that we hadn't seen before because it had been dark. We took pictures and laid back for about 30 minutes.

But, we made it back to the car in good time, and afterwards we were on our way back to the Beach.

Everyone enjoyed themselves and began discussing plans for a future trip.

We all said we would recommend this type of camping for anyone; but added that every effort should be made to hit the trail long before dark, and not to overload themselves.

SUNSHINE GIRL

Wright interested in studying Communications

The 18 year old daughter of Beach residents Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wright, Karen is a 1980 graduate of Princess Anne High School.

Now a liberal arts student at Tidewater Community College, Karen both sang and acted in high school performances at Princess Anne.

"I was Annie Sullivan in 'Miracle Worker'," she said with a smile, "and was Peggy in 'Come Blow Your Horn'."

She was Miss Princess Anne High School, 1980, placed third and tied for Miss Congeniality in the contest in 1979. She also competed in the high school talent show.

Born in Patuxant, MD, Karen has two brothers: David, 20, a student at TCC planning to transfer to Virginia Tech to major in forestry; and Steven, 10, a student at Lynnhaven Elementary School.

Currently Karen is studying at TCC, working for her liberal arts degree; but plans to transfer later to another school.

"I think I'll either go into communications," she said, "or try to be a professional performer. Or, I may do both."

Wants to stay here

She says she wants to stay in the area, but may have to leave.

"I love Virginia Beach," she said, "but I'm afraid that later I may have to leave in order to further my career."

"I love it here, it's my home. There's so much to do, and plenty of opportunities for young people."

"I like to swim and I go to the United Way Family Center every chance I get."

"I also like to sew, and if there's something I want, I try to make it first, before I go and buy it."

She enjoys listening to contemporary music. Her favorite artists are Anne Murray and Olivia Newton John.

She wants Reagan in 1980, "but don't ask me why," she said.

PA boy named new coach

By Gary Edwards,
Special to the Sun

Rick Banta, a 1975 graduate of Princess Anne High School and a Virginia Beach native, has been named head coach of the Virginia Wesleyan College women's basketball team.

Banta replaces Susan Walthall who recently was named basketball coach and Women's Sports Coordinator at Christopher Newport College.

"We are very fortunate to get someone like Rick to lead our women's basketball program," said Wesleyan Athletic Director, Don Forsyth. "He certainly has had an outstanding career as a player and did quiet well as a coach last year."

All-Beach at Princess Anne

Banta is well-known to area sports fan from his playing days at Princess Anne. As a senior, Banta was named to the All-Beach and All-District teams and participated in the VHSL All-Star Game. More recently, he has been the leading rebounder in the tough Tidewater Summer Basketball League the past two summers.

Rick played his college basketball at Southeastern Louisiana University and led the Gulf South Conference in rebounding his junior and senior years. While he was there, SLU's women's team won the AIAW Division II National Basketball Championship.

Banta began his coaching career at Southwood Academy in Hammond, La. and led the boy's varsity to an impressive 22-4 record last year. For his efforts he was named District 4 AA Louisiana Independent School Association Coach of the Year.

First time coaching ladies

This will be Banta's first coaching experience with the ladies, though, but he is looking forward to the challenge.

"Virginia Wesleyan has established a fine women's basketball program in a short time," Banta says. "I want to keep that tradition going, and I feel I have the girls to do just that."

Banta inherits a team that went 20-3 last year under

Firestone recalls steel belted tires

The Virginia Beach Consumer Protection Division has been notified by the Department of Transportation that Firestone has extended its recall of steel-belted radial tires. They include certain Firestone 500's, Firestone TPC, and private brands (Union Radial Steel, KM Radial 40, Ward's Grappler II, Atlas Goldenaire II, and National Steel Belted Radial).

Beach customers are entitled to free replacement, mounting and balancing if the tires were purchased on or after June 1, 1977. If the tires were purchased before June 1, 1977, and have more than 2/32nds of an inch of tread design depth remaining, customers are entitled to replacement of the tires at half price or at a price prorated on the percentage of tread wear - whichever is to the customer's advantage. To determine whether your tires are involved in the recall, you should determine your tire size and your tire serial number.

Firestone's Consumer Affairs Department can be contacted at 1-800-321-9638 to determine whether your tires are involved in the recall.

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration can also provide information on the recall at 1-800-424-9393.

For information concerning a consumer complaint, contact the Virginia Beach Consumer Protection Division at 427-4421.

Journey to Milky Way

The Beach planetarium program for November will be "Beyond the Milky Way."

During this program, certain known facts about the Milky Way Galaxy will be discussed, as well as galaxies and nebulae discovered by the use of optical telescopes.

The various types of galaxies and classification will be reviewed with the aid of slides. A brief discussion of three theories of the origin of the universe will be presented.

Also, unusual pulsars, quasars, and mysterious black hole stars will be discussed.

Planetarium hours are:

Sunday, 7 to 8 p.m.,
Nov. 2, 9, 16, 23, and 30.
Tuesday, 7 to 8 p.m.,
Nov. 4, 11, 18, and 25.

The Planetarium is easily accessible from the 44 toll road by taking (See STAR page 10)

No Dome recycling fee

Editor:

In the August 20, 1980 issue of The Sun, you ran an editorial stating that apparently a number of recyclers who bring aluminum to the Reynolds Aluminum Recycling Company mobile unit at the Virginia Beach Dome parking lot were unaware that they could be reimbursed a 25-cent parking fee.

Well, I'm happy to report that this situation has been both changed and resolved. Individuals who come to the Dome parking lot are now asked if they've come to recycle aluminum.

If so, they received a stamped pass to enter. As a backup measure we've posted a sign on our mobile unit informing recyclers that they are entitled to a reimbursement if they have paid the 25-cent parking fee.

We want faithful customers such as Mr. Fiedler and others to keep bringing in their metal.

Vote no to Veto

Editor:

I pen this letter to Beach residents for no reason other than my sincere interest in the best possible government for Virginia. Government reflects the decisions we make in electing representatives and in voting on ballot issues. Too often we go to the polls without having prior information on constitutional amendments found on the ballot.

Most State constitutional amendments are merited, but I would caution you to carefully scrutinize the consequences of approving the Veto Amendment on the November 4th ballot. This Amendment, which requires a majority approval by voters in order to become law, provides for the General Assembly to return six weeks after the session each year to consider overriding any vetoes by the Governor.

The Virginia Constitution wisely limits its Governor already in one major way. He may not succeed himself. This policy should never be changed as it insulates Virginia's Governor from being tempted to take the expedient or popular course just to get re-elected. Because he is elected on his philosophy of government and on his stand on issues, by the collective wisdom of the majority of the entire state, he is also in a position to better serve the common good. He can thus more freely sign or veto, on their own merits, the Bills passed by the General Assembly.

When the Governor vetoes a Bill passed by a majority of the General Assembly there is usually a very good reason. By veto, he alerts citizens to the controversial and questionable piece of legislation. This affords opportunity for input on the matter before and during the next session of the General Assembly.

The Governor's veto power has served Virginia well in the past. Most Virginians agree, "If it isn't broken, don't fix it." I suggest there would be more opportunity for harm to the interests of Virginians from bad legislation passed over the Governor's veto than from delaying good legislation by the veto of a one-term Governor.

The General Assembly is limited by its being a part-time legislature as well as by constitutional restrictions, such as the Virginia Bill of Rights and the system of checks and balances, of which the Governor's strong veto power is an important part. Thomas Jefferson said that "The best government is that which governs least." If anything, perhaps we should be looking for ways to slow down, rather speed up, the passage of legislation. There is also a cost to the taxpayers every time the legislature convenes.

As written, this Amendment requires only two-thirds of those present and voting to override, not two-thirds of the elected membership, as understood by many citizens.

Reflect upon whether or not the Amendment is needed. Meeting each year as we do, corrective action can currently be taken legislatively within seven months by using existing procedures.

Even though it would not be admitted, I think that the original move several years ago toward approval of the mechanics to override was viewed by some as a possible means to secure passage of public employee collective bargaining.

As a legislator and as a private citizen, I feel it will erode the conservative philosophy of Virginia government and more power politics could be involved than merits of a given issue.

I repeatedly voted against this measure as an Independent in the General Assembly, so this is in no way party inspired.

On November 4th I will again vote NO. I invite you to join me.

Sen. Eva F. Scott
17th Senatorial District

Vets appreciate Sun's help

Editor:

The observance of National Newspaper Week—Oct. 12 - 18 — prompts us to gratefully acknowledge The Sun's assistance in helping us to disseminate information on veterans benefits throughout the State of Virginia.

Our continuing endeavor is to provide up-to-date information to the 661,000 veterans who reside in Virginia. By adding their families to this number we are attempting to reach well over two million people, or nearly half of the state population. Little of the Veterans Administration's mission and accomplishments would be apparent to the general public were it not for the vital assistance of public-spirited daily and weekly newspapers.

We sincerely appreciate the very valuable contributions you have made in keeping the public informed of the various programs administered by this regional office.

CITY COUNCIL NEWS

Beach water situation critical

Half million people face shortage

By Lee Cahill
Sun City Council correspondent

Virginia Beach City Council is considering a series of proposals which grew out of a day-long session on water Monday in Chesapeake.

Representatives of seven localities were represented at the meeting which started at 8 a.m. and was attended by Attorney General G. Marshall Coleman.

Councilman Reid Ervin, who, with city attorney Dale Bimson, attended the entire session, returned to the Beach at 4:30 p.m. toward the end of the Council meeting. He stated that at the conclusion of the water meeting a "series of proposals" were made which will require "some action of Council." He called for an executive session to discuss the proposals but apparently no action was to be taken Monday because Council also voted for the meeting to adjourn following the executive session.

Localities represented at the Chesapeake meeting were Norfolk, Virginia Beach, Portsmouth, Chesapeake, Suffolk and the counties of Isle of Wight and Southampton.

The issue concerned the intentions of Norfolk to drill three wells in Suffolk and one in Isle of Wight on Norfolk-owned property to furnish water for Norfolk system customers in times of emergency such as the present one.

Norfolk's right to do this is being hotly contested by Suffolk and Isle of Wight.

Mayor J. Henry McCoy Jr., who attended the early part of the meeting with city manager George L. Hanbury, said that the question is "complex and a lot of politics" are involved. "I didn't see any decision made," he told Council at an informal session Monday.

Hanbury said that Suffolk had hired an attorney to determine if any emergency existed. The water is intended only for emergencies because it costs more to treat well water than water in Norfolk system's needs for 300 years — if it never rained again.

He said that it was necessary to move rapidly because it would take 100 days to dig the wells and there is only enough water in the Norfolk reserves to last 83 days. Each day spent arguing may mean a half million people will be without water, he said.

Virginia Beach last week passed a resolution asking the Governor to use his emergency powers to get the Norfolk project started immediately. Suffolk has invoked ordinances which are causing the delay.

McCoy said that the two concerns have been the possible damage to private wells in the area and the possibility of salt water seeping into the aquifer (the layer from which the water would be drawn).

He said that experts have said the operation would dry up 40 to 60 wells and that the expected 30-foot westward movement of salt water each year is not serious. He added, "I think it'll end up in court."

Hanbury said that Norfolk is afraid that if it starts digging the wells, it will be stopped. "Suffolk is trying to regulate state water with a use permit," he said, although the attorney general said Suffolk cannot do that.

Hanbury said the city is continuing to conserve water and is now below the 14-million-gallons-a-day goal. He commended the citizens, but said it "looks like it's going to get worse instead of better."

He said many people are asking why Virginia Beach doesn't dig wells. The Nov. 4 referendum bonds will help the city do this, he said. He said that Virginia Beach will continue to be dependent on Norfolk water, but that it can be partially independent with the desalination project and the well projects planned with some of the bond referendum money.

Hanbury also said that a new water rate ordinance being considered eliminates minimum fees, so that water customers who use less than the minimum will have to pay for only what they use, and also eliminates volume discounts.

Councilman Patrick L. Standing asked whether residents were still required to hook up to water under the city's mandatory connection ordinance.

Hanbury said that the hookups are still being required because the bonds have to be paid. He said the city's ordinances do not mean the use of city water is mandatory, only that the residents must pay for connections.

As for people using city water who want to go back to their wells, Hanbury said that they should have the water checked by the Health Department first.

Councilman Clarence A. Holland suggested that the

"I suggest people read their own meters"— Oberndorf

Oberndorf

city provide citizens with information on how to hook up to their wells.

Standing pointed out that "people who have had wells until recently and (the water) hasn't killed them yet," should not have to go through the Health Department.

Hanbury explained that the drought has had some effect on surface wells.

Standing persisted, "We ought to do everything we can to encourage people to use wells instead of making problems." He said the city should be saying, "Look, come on; you have a well, use it! I understand our revenues are going to be down; we're going to have trouble selling bonds; but if this is a crisis, act crisis." The last time (1977) the city had a water crisis, he said, the mandatory hook-ups were suspended for the duration. "We don't want to be stuck with a half million dollar penalty at the end of the month," he said in reference to the penalties to which Virginia Beach will be subjected by Norfolk if water consumption is not reduced by 25 percent.

In answer to a question from Councilman W. H. Kitchens III, Hanbury said that if there is no sign of rain by Nov. 1, Norfolk will have to take drastic action: "We're at their mercy. Businesses will go first." It will be not only a water crisis but an economic crisis as well, he said. He said that Norfolk would like to increase the capacity of its reservoirs. "I wish them success because we will be dependent on Norfolk for years to come."

Standing also said that some people are confused about the rates. Hanbury said that a family of three or less has an allocation of 11,000 gallons a day (averaged over a 60-day period). That's 60 gallons a day per person for a family of three. Larger families should take their consumption and divide it by the number of people in the family. If the result shows that the members of the household average 50 gallons or less each day, the household would then receive an exemption for the 60 amount of water used over 11,000 gallons for the 60 day billing period.

That is, if a family of five shows that it has used 15,000 gallons during the 60-day period, he will not have to pay the penalty for the 4,000 gallons over the 11,000 gallons allocation because the daily use averages 50 gallons per person. A family of three that used the 15,000 gallons, however, would have to pay a penalty for the additional 4,000 gallons.

The 11,000 gallon allocation represents 75 percent of the average family use during the last 12 months.

The appeal cannot be made until the bill is received.

Hanbury feels that the Beach plan is more equitable than the Norfolk plan and rewards people who have been conserving. The Norfolk plan makes allocations on the basis of 75 percent of the respective household's consumption during the past year. This system tends to penalize those who have been conserving.

Bruce McCall, a Beach resident, presented Council with his own plan Monday. He said the city plan doesn't go far enough.

He suggested that water users who consume less than their allocation during one 60-month period be permitted to bank their savings by placing them at the front end of the next billing cycle. This way, even if the customer's water consumption is over 11,000 gallons for the second 60-day period, the previous savings would be deducted for the purposes of computing the penalty.

McCall also thinks all customers should read their own meters so they could all be read at the same time.

Beach residents faced with very little water, City trying best it can

"We have to assume each is honest," he said, "some can beat the system," he added. He said that meters which are read on the 60th day may show higher (or lower) average consumption.

Councilwoman Meyera Oberndorf last week suggested that the people read their own meters. McCall said that the question was evaded.

Hanbury said that McCall was correct in that he didn't come right out and recommend the reading of meters by the public. "We have to have orderly procedures if we're going to benefit those who are saving," he said.

"I certainly don't want to come across as being a dogmatic type," he said, "but the fact is we have very little water. I don't want to be the soothsayer of doom either." With 62,000 people to serve, he said, "we try the best we can."

McCoy said he didn't like the Beach system either, but he also didn't know whether banking water is a good idea. "If anyone will come up with a perfect plan we'll adopt it immediately."

Councilman Donald Merrick said that it was most important to get the public informed about what the rates are. "The public does not understand what we've done."

Coal ships at Beach

Once again it is a matter of provincial versus regional attitudes in Tidewater Virginia.

The problem isn't so pressing as who should dig wells and where to furnish water for the thirsty masses. But to the people involved, taxicab companies of Virginia Beach and Norfolk, it means more money or the loss of it.

For the past three or four months merchants ships ready to load coal at Norfolk, have been forced to wait their turn because of the sudden upsurge in the traffic. The overflow has been anchoring off Lynnhaven Inlet — that's Virginia Beach. The men assigned to the merchant ships have to come ashore to take care of their business — to board a plane for home, to check in at customs, to go to the United States Public Health Services Hospital, all of which are in Norfolk.

For the past 40 years, attorney Robert L. Simpson Jr. said his client, Brown Auto Services, has been furnishing transportation services for the crews of the ships. That was when all the ships were right outside of Norfolk.

Brickell selected to AASA

Dr. E. E. Brickell, Superintendent of Virginia Beach Public Schools, has been selected recently as a member of the American Association of School Administrators (AASA) Advisory Council. He will represent the Virginia Association of School Administrators (VASA) and the state's educational interests during his two-year term on the council.

The advisory council post is designed to keep communications channels between the state and national organizations open and functioning. Dr. Brickell will keep the national organization apprised and concerning educational legislation and programs in Virginia; AASA will deal with educational matters on the national level.

The council meets annually, in conjunction with AASA's winter convention. This winter's meeting will take place in Atlanta, Georgia.

The term will coincide with Dr. Brickell's year as president-elect of VASA and his year as president of the organization. He was chosen as president-elect at VASA's state convention at the Hotel Roanoke, October 9 - 10; he will assume the duties of president of the organization during the convention in Fredericksburg next fall.

VASA holds its convention jointly each year with the Virginia School Board Association. Virginia Beach School Board chairman Robert H. DeFord, Jr., is currently president of the VSBA.

Cab services discussed

Now that some are off Lynnhaven, Brown wants to continue to serve them, but needs a certificate of public convenience and necessity to operate the seven for-hire cars serving the merchant marine trade.

It's a no-no for Virginia Beach cabs to operate in Norfolk or for Norfolk cabs to operate in Virginia Beach. If one or the other has to cross city lines -- something like the Maginot line or the Berlin wall -- to take his fare out of town, he has to charge a fare-and-a-half to make up for going back empty. He is not permitted to pick up a fare in the neighboring city.

The Brown Company, the for-hire section of Yellow Cab of Norfolk, produced testimonials from various consulates and shipping agents before Virginia Beach city Council Monday afternoon. Generally the letters told about the skillfulness of the Brown drivers, how well they were informed about U. S. Customs laws, and how they could communicate with seaman who did not speak English.

Also, the destinations of the crews are generally in Norfolk. The Brown company is not interested in picking up local fares, just the seaman and in fact, the vehicles do not have meters, Simpson said.

Robert F. Apperson of the Capes Shipping Agency, said his company has developed a close liaison with Brown and would like to continue that relationship. Last week end 109 coal ships were in Hampton Roads of which 50 to 60 were off Lynnhaven, he said. Each ship has 20 to 25 crew members and each ship is delayed from 22 to 30 days. "We are responsible for everything that happens aboard the ship, he said."

Attorney John Hooker represented the five Virginia Beach taxi companies all owned by Herbert R. Dise or Melvin Dozier, who oppose the petition. He said the five taxi companies in Virginia Beach are certainly capable of providing the seaman with the same services and that there is no reason for the Norfolk company to come in. He said the company has disregarded the Virginia Beach ordinance.

City manager George L. Hanbury said that Brown has been picking up illegally passengers in the Lynnhaven Inlet area. Brown was advised it could not continue to pick up passengers in Virginia Beach without a certificate of public convenience and necessity.

Hanbury said that he authorized the establishment of a public taxi stand at Lynnhaven and recommended against awarding the certificate to Brown.

Simpson maintained that the service Brown offers is specialized, not merely a pick-up and delivery service. He explained that the Brown company has worked out an arrangement with the Beach companies. Now Virginia Beach cabs carry the fare to the city line where the passengers change over to Norfolk cabs. He said that Brown has a contract service with the shipping companies.

Langley Land, president of the Brown service, said that the charade, using both cab companies, is ridiculous.

To Councilman John A. Baum the whole affair had a "penny ante" ring to it. This is how the cities got into trouble over the water supply, he said, and moved to approve the certificate.

But the matter isn't penny ante to the cab companies. Dise said that as many as five cabs load up at one time. He claims that the passengers have a better deal with the cabs because five fares are charged one fare to Norfolk -- $24, while the Brown company charges $10 to $14 a fare.

first year coach Walthall. Only three players are returning from that team, but they were all starters and an impressive array of freshmen should make the Lady Marlins tough again this season.

"I'm really looking forward to working with the girls," Banta adds. I feel that a coach has to be more of a teacher in the women's game, and that's what I enjoy."

In addition to basketball, Banta will coach women's softball at Wesleyan. He is also currently working on a Master's Degree at Old Dominion University.

The Lady Marlins open a tough 20 game schedule on November 22 against Randolph-Macon College.

Lighthouse co-sponsor

"On Golden Pond" announced by VSC

Patrick Tovatt, Virginia Stage Company producing director announces The Lighthouse Restaurant of Virginia Beach is Co-Producer of VSC Season Two opening production, "On Golden Pond" by Ernest Thompson.

"The Lighthouse Restaurant demonstrates strong commitment to the cultural life of Eastern Virginia by joining us as a Co-Producer of 'On Golden Pond,'" states Tovatt. "It's wonderful play and terrific restaurant. They're a perfect match."

According to Tovatt, Co-Producing offers Tidewater businesses an opportunity to make their support of first rate performing arts visible and encourages other enlightened corporations and individuals to share in the work of developing cultural resources for the community.

Announces Tovatt, "We salute our Premiere Season Co-Producers and welcome the Lighthouse Restaurant to this very exclusive circle." Previous Virginia Stage Company Co-Producers include: First Virginia Bank of Tidewater; Dr. and Mrs. Charles S. Davis, Jr.; George and Frances Armour Foundation; and Jack Borden Taylor, M.D.

Long run on Broadway

"On Golden Pond" was a long running Broadway hit and is a glorious, warm portrait of enduring love and family values. It is a new American play with rare simplicity and beauty which is currently being filmed as a major motion picture with Henry Fonda, Katharine Hepburn and Jane Fonda.

"On Golden Pond" plays Oct. 14 through Nov. 2 at the historic Wells Theatre at Tazewell and Monticello in downtown Norfolk. For details and ticket information, phone 627-1234.

Fares under fire

He added that if the Norfolk firm wants to pick up fares in Virginia Beach it should support efforts to tear down the barrier which forces the companies to charge fare-and-a-half for intercity passengers. He said Land is opposed to any change in this direction. He pointed out, "They have the Airport, the bus stations, the Navy Base," the destination or origin for Virginia Beach residents or visitors. As a result, a Virginia Beach resident has to pay $24 instead of $16 for a ride to the Norfolk International Airport, and Hanbury said that tourists headed for Virginia Beach hotels often have to pay $24 to $27 for the trip.

Disse said he has been fighting this situation for eight years and now it is under discussion before the Tidewater Regional Transportation District Commission.

Councilman Patrick L. Standing said there was nothing to prevent the shipping agencies from working out an arrangement with the Virginia Beach cab companies. Norfolk also should remove the fare-and-a-half charge.

BEACH BULLETIN BOARD

False Cape phase finished

Virginia State Parks Commissioner, Ben H. Bolen, has announced the completion of the second phase of development at False Cape State Park near the city of Virginia Beach.

"Now Beach residents who arrive at False Cape by boat across Back Bay, the body of water that forms the park's western boundary, may use the recently repaired dock facility located at False Cape landing", Commissioner Bolen said.

Near the dock are three newly established primitive camping areas that can accommodate six campers each. A pit toilet and non-potable water from a pitcher pump are adjacent to the new campsites.

Permits and additional information are available at the Seashore State Park Visitor Center, 2300 General Drive, Virginia Beach, Virginia 23451, (804) 481-2131.

VIRGINIA: In the Circuit Court of the City of Virginia Beach

v.
Taxpayers, property owners, and citizens of Virginia Beach, including non-residents owning property or subject to taxation therein, and all other persons interested in or affected in any way by the issuance by the City of approximately $1,850,000 industrial development revenue bond (Colonial Mill Associates, A Virginia Limited Partnership), Series of 1980, Defendants.

MOTION FOR JUDGMENT

Plaintiff, the City of Virginia Beach Development Authority (the "Authority"), seeks judicial determination pursuant to Article 6, Chapter 5, Title 15.1, Code of Virginia of 1950, as amended, of the validity of up to One Million Eight Hundred Fifty Thousand Dollar ($1,850,000.00) Industrial Development Revenue Bonds (Colonial Mill Associates, A Virginia limited partnership) Series of 1980 (the "Bonds") to be issued to pay the cost of constructing and equipping a building to be jointly a medical facility and general office building (the "Facility"), in the City of Virginia Beach, Virginia, to be leased or sold to Colonial Mill Associates, a Virginia limited partnership (the "Company") and states as follows:

1. The Authority was duly created by Chapter 643, 1964 Acts of Assembly 975, as amended, of the Commonwealth of Virginia (the "Act"), and is a political subdivision of the Commonwealth of Virginia. The Authority has been continuously organized and operating under the Act since its creation, and no dissolution proceedings pursuant to the Act have been adopted or instituted.

2. At a meeting called and held on December 14, 1979, and amended at a meeting held on August 5, 1980, the Authority adopted a resolution agreeing to undertake the issuance of the Bonds upon terms and conditions to be mutually agreed upon between the Authority and the Company, with the Facility to be leased or sold to the Company upon terms designed to assure payment of the Bonds by the Company in accordance with their terms and to provide security for the repayment thereof. The proceeds of the Bonds, when issued, will be used to finance the costs of constructing and equipping the Facility and the issuance of the Bonds.

3. When issued, the Bonds will be valid, legal and binding limited obligations of the Authority, payable solely from the revenues and receipts received from the lease or sale of the Facility to the Company and other security therefor. The Bonds will not constitute a debt or a pledge of the faith and credit of the Commonwealth of Virginia or any political subdivision thereof, including the Authority and the City of Virginia Beach, no taxing power of any political subdivision will be pledged to the payment of the Bonds, and the Bonds will not constitute an indebtedness within the meaning of any debt limitation or restriction.

WHEREFORE, the City of Virginia Beach Development Authority, prays that the Court grant a prompt hearing and enter a decree with the least possible delay pursuant to Section 15.1-213 et seq., including Section 15.1-217 of the Code of Virginia of 1950, as amended, and that (1) all proceedings heretofore taken in connection with the authorization or issuance of the Bonds are legal and valid; (2) the Bonds may be issued to finance the Facility; (3) assuming their due authorization, execution and delivery, the Bonds issued for the Facility will be valid, legal and binding limited obligations of the Authority; and (4) such additional matters as may be specially requested by the parties or as the Court may deem necessary to be applicable to this proceeding.

Attorneys for Plaintiff
Virginia: In the Circuit Court for the City of Virginia Beach
City of Virginia Beach Development Authority, Plaintiff,

v.
Taxpayers, property owners, and citizens of Virginia Beach, including non-residents owning property or subject to taxation therein, and all other persons interested in or affected in any way by the issuance by the city of approximately $1,850,000 Industrial Development Revenue Bond (Colonial Mill Associates, A Virginia Limited Partnership), Series of 1980, Defendants.

ORDER

THIS DAY came the Plaintiff, by counsel, and filed its Motion for Judgment seeking judicial determination, inter alia, of the legality of the proceedings taken regarding up to $1,850,000 Industrial Development Bonds (Colonial Mill Associates, a Virginia limited partnership) Series of 1980, the legality of the purpose for which such bonds are to be issued and the validity of such bonds when issued.

Upon consideration whereof, it is ORDERED that the Motion for Judgment having been filed, a certified copy thereof together with a certified copy of this Order, be published once a week for two consecutive weeks in the Virginia Beach Sun, A newspaper having general circulation in the City of Virginia Beach, that any party defendant desiring to reply to said Motion for Judgment shall do so within ten (10) days after the second publication thereof, and that this matter is set for hearing on November 17, 1980, at 9:30 a.m. in the Circuit Court of the City of Virginia Beach.

Library programs set

Beach children of grade school age are invited by the Virginia Beach Public Library to submit pictures of "Chessie", the sea monster of the Chesapeake Bay, for display in each of its branch libraries and on the bookmobile during the week of Oct. 20-25.

Entry forms will be available at each library location beginning Oct. 20. The pictures are being solicited as a part of "Hooray for the Bay", the annual celebration of the Chesapeake Bay sponsored by the Friends of the Virginia Beach Public Library.

A recent newspaper account indicated that on September 13, 1980, several persons sighted "a six to eight foot swimming object with skin like thin rubber, slick, shiny, perhaps even slimy." Children who have not actually seen "Chessie" are urged to check out library books depicting sea creatures and to draw their own sea monster.

For more information about how to draw the beast in the bay contact the library at 340-2987.

Photographer to speak

An evening with photographer John Hurt Whitehead III on Monday, Oct. 27, at 7:30 p.m. in the Oceanfront Branch of the Virginia Beach Public Library will culminate "Hooray for the Bay," the Friends of the Library's second annual celebration of the Chesapeake Bay.

Author of "The Watermen of the Chesapeake Bay", Whitehead will show a slide presentation of his work and techniques. Also the author of "Rural Virginia," another pictorial book, Whitehead owns an advertising photography studio in Richmond.

The program and following reception is free and open to the public. Interested persons may register for the program by calling at the oceanfront branch at 428-4113.

Antique stocks and bonds

George Haley Harrison will exhibit portions of his collection of antique stocks, bonds and warrants at the oceanfront branch of the Virginia Beach Public Library from Saturday, Oct. 11 through Saturday, Oct. 25.

Harrison's collection offers a unique perspective on the financial and commercial history of Europe and the United States, and each of his antique securities represents a high achievement in printing and engraving.

Harrison lives in Williamsburg and has exhibited his collection throughout Virginia.

The Oceanfront Branch Library is located at 1811 Arctic Avenue.

Money management discussed

Anne Gilmer, Extension Home Economist with the Department of Agriculture, will discuss "Managing the Money Muddle" at the Oceanfront Branch of the Virginia Beach Public Library on Tuesday, Oct. 28, at 10 a.m.

The two-hour program will explain how financial goal-setting can lessen the effect of inflation on family and individual income.

The program is free and intended for adults. Interested individuals are asked to register for the program by calling the library by Oct. 27 at 428-4113.

The Oceanfront Library is located at 1811 Arctic Avenue.

Trick, or treat?

Beach resident Lisa Meyers says she's looking forward to this Halloween weekend and all the tricks and treats that go along with it. Meyers, a Beach land developer, has lived in the city 21 years. Her future plans include entertainment and modeling. For more pictures and information see SUNshine Girl, page 7.

Witches On The Beach?

Kept undercover

Beach witches hidden

By Greg Goldfarb,
Sun editor

Are there witches in Virginia Beach?

"I know of several witch covens in Virginia Beach," said Jimmy Auman, a Beach resident and psychic therapist active in sorcery, Wicca and high magic.

"Most of the serious covens, however, are out of public sight; although I have many Beach customers come to my occult shop in Granby Mall."

On this Hallow's Eve, Auman reports that witchcraft including ESP, fortune telling and other occult forms are active in Tidewater and experiencing a popularity boom.

"There has been an occult boom on the East Coast for the last five years," Auman said. "The boom began on the West Coast 20 years ago."

"Now, I've heard of a professor at Tidewater Community College, Virginia Beach, associated with the occult. Some of the students at that school are also into it."

"I don't know specifically who at the Beach is involved with the occult, or where they practice it. All I know is what I hear, and I hear there's plenty of occult action in Virginia Beach."

Auman different since young

Auman, a North Carolina native, said he realized he was a little different from other children since he was a kid.

"When I was a kid," Auman said, "what was unusual to other kids was natural for me. I've never seen a ghost but I've communicated with them before."

"I also have an ability to understand the thoughts of people without them saying anything."

"I can make a headache come, and go away at least 90% of the time. I can't prove it, but I can explain it. I used to do things like that for kicks; but I stopped playing around after I started understanding what was going on."

Auman said that even though he is familiar with many of the occult sciences in the area, he has never been actually initiated as a witch.

"I am wise," he said, "which is what the word witch means: Wise one. But I have never been initiated into a coven."

"I can direct a certain amount of energy, but may spiritual guides have not inducted me, or chosen me as a special one. Usually you do not move into spiritual forces, they seek you out if you are worthy. The initiation, symbolically, is like a Baptism in the church."

Jimmy Auman with a high priests' necklace.

Occult sciences not for all

Auman sells various occult items in his store, necessary for the exercises, prayers, and rituals involved with the occult. But, Auman said he will not sell some items to particular individuals unless he is sure they are able to use them effectively and safely.

"In my position," he said, "I let people know what is real and not real; true and not true. I try to open psychic doorways so that energy levels, if they are there, can grow. I will not sell things to people who are not ready, and I do not really recommend anybody to any big groups. People can not pick a coven or a spirit; the spirit picks them."

"A candidate for initiation must go through many tests; sometimes the person is watched for as much as a year before even being contacted by an occult group."

Auman said true witches are not bred.

"If a male and a female witch marry, and have offspring," Auman said, "that does not at all mean that the child will be a witch."

"By the same token, two natural parents can give birth to a child with very strong psychic energy levels. There is no way to predict how, or when, witches are born."

Wicca becoming popular

Auman said that besides Yoga, ESP, spiritualism, and magic, Wicca craft is one of the more popular occult waves in Tidewater and Virginia Beach. In an attempt to allow Sun readers more enlightenment into this mysterious and often misunderstood craft, the following questions and answers are based on Auman's readings, and study of the subject:

Q's and A's

Sun: What is Wicca Craft?

Auman: Wicca Craft means the "Craft of the Wise", and is the term used to describe both the Pagan religion as well as the associated "magical" practices. There are many different forms of Wicca practiced in the different parts of the world...the common bond in a general sense is that almost all Wiccans believe in and worship a God and Goddess; the rites and times of worship may differ, but the dual deity is basic.

SUN: Who and what is a Wicca or Witch?

Auman: All sorts of people from all levels of life can be of the Wicca Craft, for the Craft is essentially a Pagan religion and almost anyone who believes in its basic tenets can claim to be of the Wicca Craft. However, there is a world of difference between being a self-professed "Witch" and one who has been genuinely Initiated into the Craft. Some people are born into the Craft, while others are drawn to it for different reasons. Not all Witches possess psychic ability, or even the minimal magical talents, but this does not mean that they cannot be members of a Coven.

Sun: How does one become a Wicca?

Auman: There are many Paths of the Temple of the Mysteries: those who are lucky enough to be able to join a Coven take their training from the Priest or Priestess, while those who are not near a Coven must content themselves with books or mail order courses. At this point I must make it perfectly clear that a mail order course (and mine included) cannot replace personal instruction and Initiation...that is why I offer the earned privilege of my students, the right to come to me and study with me prior to full and proper Initiation.

Sun: Why do some "Witches" meet naked?

Auman: There are many reasons for this...some people feel that it gives them a feeling of greater freedom and mobility, but mostly the tradition sprung up around Leland's "Aradia-The Gospel of the Witches".

Auman says covens and witches are numerous in Virginia Beach.

The book states that this was the practice of the ancient Italian "Witches", and perhaps this is so, but it is not true of the Celtic Wiccans of old, for the moors were cold and damp, and maidens did not dare go waltzing around in the all-together unless they wanted to lose their "maidenhood" or, more likely, their lives (either to the Inquisition or pneumonia).

There are also those who say that clothes impeded the flow of energy, but when asked if they work outside when it's raining they usually reply that in instances of bad weather they work indoors...now, if the energy can flow through walls, mortar, roofing, brick, etc. it is probably safe to assume that a mere cotton robe would impede nothing whatsoever.

Mrs. D. lives on

Not all household ghosts are unwanted, unfriendly

By Greg Goldfarb,
Sun Editor

Most Virginia Beach residents think all ghosts are unknown and unfriendly; but this is not always true. Infact, some ghosts at the North end of the Beach are welcomed in some peoples' homes and are known by name.

"We don't want Mrs. D. to leave our house," said Felicia, a North end Beach resident who requested not to be identified, "It was Mrs. D's house before we moved in and she's welcome to stay here now."

Felicia said Mrs. D. has been in her family's house now for 15 years. If Mrs. D. was still alive today, she would be 80. She died 15 years ago of a heart attack. But even at that age, Mrs. D. seems to get around pretty well.

"Mrs. D. is usually more active in the Winter than in the Summer," Felicia said. "She goes around the house late at night and turns on the lights on the first floor. Usually she leaves the hallway light on; I guess so she can see where she's going. My family and I will hear her and go downstairs to investigate. But we have never seen her.

"I know Mrs. D. died in this house. She was a nice old lady that my family knew, and from what I can understand, Mrs. D. was very fond of my family.

"Now, neither I nor my family want her to leave her house. We feel safe here with her."

Felicia said Mrs. D. is nice but she has a bad habit of leaving doors open.

"Not only does Mrs. D. cut the lights on," Felicia said, "she also leaves the doors open behind her. I know it's not the wind because we don't leave any doors or windows open.

"But in general, Mrs. D. is nice. I mean, she doesn't scream, cry or wail or do anything real scary."

Gabrel

Pente comes to Beach

There's a new old game in Virginia Beach, and the name of the game is Pente.

Pente, a fast, simple board game of skill, is being played in the most fashionable clubs from coast to coast, from Pip's in Los Angeles to the Tobacco Company in Richmond. And it's fast replacing the backgammon craze that swept the market only a few years ago.

According to 28 year-old Pente master Gary Gabrel, who developed the game in 1977, the object of Pente (pronounced pen-tay) is to win by placing five consecutive stones in a row on the board's grid-like intersections or by making captures of five pairs of the opponent's brilliantly colored glass playing stones.

Play begins by a player placing one of his stones on the center of the board. Then, taking turns, each player places a stone on any intersection of lines on the board (preferable the one most strategic to his game). A capture takes place when two, and only two, adjacent stones of one player are bracketed on the ends by the stones of the other.

"That's the beauty of Pente," says Gabrel. "Fiendish strategies can be devised to keep it challenging; and the players, whether there are two or more, must be very alert."

Gabrel chose the Greek word pente for the name of his game. Pente means five in Greek; and the object of the game is to get five stones in a row on the board or make five captures, he explains.

Pente, available in Richmond at Thalheimer's, now has the marks of success. It has been along road for Gabrel; however, the game's success, he believes, is due to three things.

Children's puppets perform

"The Dragon's Secret," a puppet show for children who are three years of age and older, will be staged at the Oceanfront Branch of the Virginia Beach Public Library on Saturday, Nov. 8, at 10:30 a.m.

The 15 minute show will be followed by a program of movies for the children at 11 a.m.

The Oceanfront Branch Library is located at 1811 Arctic Avenue.

Virginia Wesleyan College announces cultural calendar for semester

The fall schedule of cultural events for this semester at Virginia Wesleyan College has been announced by Dr. Stephen S. Mansfield, chairman of the Special Events Committee.

These events are open to the public and are free unless otherwise indicated. Reservations are required for the fall drama production and there is an admission fee.

Further details about individual events will be released later in the semester.

Beach performing arts

"Le Corps d'Esprit" set in Kempsville

The Performing Arts Unit of the Virginia Beach Department of Parks and Recreation announces the Fall performance of the Esprit Modern Dance Company: "Le Corps d'Esprit", on Oct. 29, 30, 31 and Nov. 1 at 8 p.m. and on Nov. 2 at 3 p.m. at the Virginia Beach Recreation Center/Kempsville Theatre.

Besides the innovative choreography of company director Susan Long, Esprit boasts some new pieces inspired by dancers Lora-jean Jones and Steve Schmitter who attended the American Dance Festival at Duke University in Durham.

Jones is displaying her studies in European Modern Dance under Pam Sofras in a piece entitled "Lovingkindness".

Schmitter studied choreography for Jazz styles and Afro-American dance and these new techniques will be displayed in "Traditions".

Other dances for the program include "Clownin' Around", "Ondine" and "The Body Electric".

Reservations for performances are suggested and may be made by contacting the VBRC/Kempsville at 495-1892.

Teri Owens, assistant company director of Esprit Modern Dance Company rehearses for the Fall performance, "Le Corps d'Esprit."

Radford selects Lawler

Andi Lawler of Virginia Beach is a member of the 1980 Radford University women's volleyball team.

Lawler was the recipient of the first scholarship ever awarded in women's volleyball at Radford last year and she helped lead the team to a third place finish in the AIAW Region II, Division III tournament. Her efforts earned her the best hitter award at the end of the season.

This year, Lawler is again a starter for the Highlanders and has been instrumental in helping lead the team to an overall record of 15-7 and a conference record of 6-1 so far this season.

Lawler is a 1979 graduate of Kempsville High School but she spent most of her high school career at Naples High School in Naples, Italy, where she helped lead the girl's volleyball team to two consecutive American Schools in Italy championships and to a two-year record of 34-2. She also was a standout in basketball, softball and track.

Lawler

Lawler is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Lawler of 1721 Christopher Drive in Virginia Beach.

50¢ per call

Beachers gets sports line

Virginia Beach telephone customers can now hear up-to-the minute national and international sports scores and results by dialing (900) 976-1313.

"Dial-It National Sports" is a new, telephone sports information service offered nationally by the Bell System.

Callers from any place in the United States, including Alaska and Hawaii, can dial the number for national sports highlights. Each call will cost 50 cents.

The one-minute Dial-It National Sports Report will present scores that are updated as frequently as every 15 minutes each evening and on weekends. During weekdays, callers can hear scores plus a wide variety of features about teams, players, coaches, and the worldwide sports scene. Weekday segments will be updated every half hour.

Dial-It National Sports is being offered through a new "900" network. Served by sophisticated electronic switching offices located in Los Angeles, Denver, Chicago, Philadelphia, Newark, Atlanta and Dallas, thousands of callers can dial these "900" numbers simultaneously.

The new "900" numbers also make possible another Dial-It mass calling service called media stimulated calling (MSC). This will permit mass telephone response to product or market research, or even national straw polls. For example, a TV network or newspaper could conduct a call-in poll to pick the most valuable player in each of the world series games. These MSC calls also will cost 50 cents each.

The Dial-It National Sports Program will feature a "Super Score Board," which will update the scores of major sporting events as frequently as every 15 minutes each evening, starting at 7:30 p.m. (Eastern Time). On Saturdays and Sundays updates will be made every 15 minutes during busy sports periods.

During weekdays, specific hour segments start at noon (Eastern Time) and will offer regular features daily. For example, each day's 1 p.m. segment features comments from or about a sports star of the day. Subsequent hour segments will feature insights on baseball, college football, professional football and other major sports, depending upon the season.

The content of Dial-It National Sports is produced by phone programs, Inc., a New York based sports information concern.

Each 50 cent call to Dial-It National Sports will be billed by the local telephone company at the call's originating point. Initially, calls to Dial-It National Sports cannot be placed from coin telephones.

The tariff for Dial-It services was filed with the Federal Communications Commission on June 26, 1980 and was approved on August 27, 1980.

Beachers make soccer team at James Madison

Two former scholastic soccer players from Virginia Beach are members of the 1980 James Madison University soccer team.

Chris Ettel, a junior from Virginia Beach, is one of the Dukes' reserve backs. He is a graduate of First Colonial High School where he played on the 1977 Beach District Championship team.

He is majoring in mathematics at JMU and is the son of Mrs. Carol Ettel of Virginia Beach.

David McKenney of Virginia Beach is one of JMU's freshman forwards. He is a graduate of Bayside High School where he was a member of the state finalist soccer team in 1979. McKenney was a two-time All-Tidewater soccer selection and was named the Bayside soccer team's MVP as a freshman, junior and senior.

He is an accounting major and is the son of Reb and Nancy McKenney of Virginia Beach.

The JMU team has a 4-4-1 record and is coming off a 2-1 win over North Carolina State on Saturday (Oct. 18).

Youth volleyball set

The Virginia Beach Department of Parks and Recreation in conjunction with the Virginia Beach Youth Volleyball Association, will sponsor volleyball clinics for Beach boys and girls ages 8 - 18.

The clinics will be held on Saturday, November 15th and Saturday, Nov 22 from 10 a.m. - 1 p.m. at the Virginia Beach Recreation Center/Kempville. Registration is at 9:30 a.m. The clinics are free to the public.

There will be demonstrations and instructions by members of the 1980 Women's Virginia State and Regional Championship Team, 1980 Men's Virginia State Finalist Team and the Tidewater Volleyball Association.

For further information, call Athletic Services, Virginia Beach Recreation Center/Kempville at 495-1892.

Blame current problems on Carter

Reagan to turn country around

By HANES BYERLY

"Trust me," said Jimmy Carter when he was running for President four years ago, "I am one politician who will keep his promises." No other candidate in modern times has talked so much about the importance of keeping promises, and has broken so many. "I'll never lie to you," he declared. This may be the biggest lie of them all.

Carter campaigned on morality and purity, saying that even the appearance of impropriety cannot be tolerated. For example, he called for the firing of FBI director Clarence Kelley because FBI carpenters had built $300 worth of curtain valances for their chief. A year later, to Bert any doubt that we will have a balanced budget in 1981." Two months ago, as Carter offered his seventh economic program in four years, the President's economists guessed that the budget deficit will be $36 billion!

Did you believe Jimmy Carter when he said he would cut inflation? "The Republicans have become six percenters on inflation," he protested. "They ask us to accept that rate, to think of six percent as normal. But the fact is that it is a terrible rate and that their own mismanagement has caused it." He said he would concentrate on cutting unemployment to stop inflation. "Until we get to the neighborhood of four percent in the unemployment rate, we won't have to worry about inflation," he explained. Inflation is now in double digits and unemployment has climbed to over seven percent.

Did you depend on Jimmy Carter when he said he would trim big government? "We have now about 1900 different agencies and departments in the Federal government. I think 200 agencies and departments would be a gracious plenty. We need to abolish about 1700 of them," he said. "If you don't want me to reorganize the federal government, don't vote for me." The voters did, he didn't.

Did you put your faith in Jimmy Carter when he said he would not increase taxes? "I will never increase taxes for the working people of our country," he promised. Yet the Social Security tax hike he bulldozed through Congress makes an absolute mockery of that promise. "The income tax deduction for home mortgage interest payments will be among those I would like to do away with," he told us. In Virginia alone, over a half million families use this income tax deduction. If he was able to keep this pledge, is there any doubt about higher tax bills? And the cruellest tax of them all is the savage Carter inflation. It is an undeclared tax on your earnings, and it also reaches out to take whatever you've managed to save.

Did you rely on Jimmy Carter when he said he would build a stronger national defense? "I'll cut defense spending," he promised, "and have a better military deterrent." Now Carter is trying to win votes by suggesting that Ronald Reagan will get us into war. On the contrary, the greatest risk of war comes when a weak President decides to act tough for political purposes. Jimmy speaks loudly and carries a little stick. The sworn testimony of the nation's top military leaders clearly shows that U.S. armed forces, under Carter, are crumbling.

Did you love Jimmy Carter when he made all those other promises? "I will achieve a national health insurance program by the end of 1977." Are you waiting? "I will reform the welfare program by the end of 1978." Are you laughing? "I will whip Teddy Kennedy's ass." This seems to be the only promise he has kept.

Now Jimmy Carter calls Reagan a racist and a bomb-thrower. But what's new? Carter called Ted Kennedy a "demagogue" whose campaigning is "very dangerous to our country". He called Hubert Humphrey a "loser", and Lyndon Johnson a "liar". Is this purity?

You must be weary with all the talk about "love me" when there is no love, and all the emphasis on "trust me", when there is no trust. But you should not forget the incontestable Carter challenge: "If I ever tell a lie, if I ever mislead you, if I ever betray a trust or a confidence, I want you to come and take me out of the White House."

RONALD REAGAN

JIMMY CARTER

And you should not forget that four years ago Jimmy Carter said, "Anything you don't like about Washington, I suggest you blame it on Gerald Ford." If that made any sense to you then we suggest that anything you don't like about Washington now you blame it on Jimmy Carter.

Campaign talk of lies and blame, however, is not constructive. It is what has been. What is needed in the 1980s is straight talk from Washington, a stronger leader in the White House and greater international respect for the United States. It is Ronald Reagan who offers the best hope in returning this country to the proper directions.

Lance, in the face of $450,000 in overdrafts to himself and his inlaws, Carter said, "Bert, I'm proud of you." To Billy Carter, who took $220,000 from Libya to peddle influence in the U.S. government, Carter said, "I love Billy, Billy loves me. We've done nothing wrong."

Don't get sidetracked with talk of pride, love and trust. The real issue is that these last four years have been among the most devastating in our history.

Did you trust Jimmy Carter when he said he would balance the budget? "If you elect me President," he promised, "before this term is over we're going to have a balanced budget in Washington and you can depend on that." He said it again just six months ago, "I don't have

Comedy: Meyers' ball of fun

"I don't want to be a performer like Shirley McLain," said Lisa Meyers, "I want to be like Lucille Ball."

A 21 year Virginia Beach resident, Lisa is the 23 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Meyers. She has been dancing since the age of six, and hopes to become more involved with Beach, and regional theatre.

"I used to perform in the 'Theatre in the Round' in Virginia Beach," she said, "but that was early in high school and before I became interested in boys."

"I enjoy doing comedy. I mean, pies in the face and stuff like that really kill me. I also use acting in my retail job. You always have to be ready to change your disposition and appearance to work better with other people."

Born in Roanoke

Born in Roanoke, Lisa has one other brother: Chuck, 31, a merchandise representative in Northern Florida.

at First Colonial, and graduated high school from White Haven, in Florida, in 1975.

She went South because her friends had left the Beach.

"Most of my friends had moved away or gone off to college," Lisa recalls, "so I decided to move away too. I had no reason to stay around, so I headed for some warmer weather."

She spent two years at Brevard, College, Cocoa Beach, and studied English, acting, and accounting.

"I couldn't make my mind up about what to do," Lisa said. "so I studied several things."

"I came back to the Beach in 1977 because I missed some of my friends who had come back here."

Lisa now works for a private land developer. Her hobbies include tennis, sun bathing (in season); sailing; writing poetry; shopping, spending money, and traveling.

She enjoys New Wave music. Her favorite artist is Elvis Costello.

Her favorite Beach nightclub is the Crystal; and restaurant is Blue Pete's.

For president, she prefers A.B.C. (Anybody but Carter); and in sports, she likes the Dallas Cowboys better than the Washington Redskins.

BEACH BULLETIN BOARD

Halloween hangout planned

The Virginia Beach Department of Parks and Recreation for the first time ever is planning a special Halloween Hangout just for children at the Virginia Beach Dome on Friday, Oct. 31.

Beginning at 5 p.m. and lasting until 8:30 p.m., a carnival for children will be in progress at the 19th Street and Pacific Avenue Civic Center. All activities at the Li'l Spooks Hangout are free to the public.

Expect not only a carnival, but funny haunted movies, spooky tales and a costume contest. Parents will be allowed in with their children. If you miss this special evening, you'll be howling in sadness!

For further information contact the Youth Activities Unit at 467-4884 or come by 4700 Recreation Drive.

Halloween programs held

Special Halloween programs for children are on tap this week at the Great Neck and Oceanfront branches of the Virginia Beach Public Library. The Great Neck Branch puppeteers will stage "The Fifth Witch," a puppet show for children of all ages, on Friday, Oct. 31, at 10:30 a.m. The show will follow the regularly scheduled story time held at 10 a.m.

The Oceanfront Branch Library will present a special Halloween story hour for children age three to five at 10 a.m. on Wednesday, Oct. 29, and at 3:30 p.m. on Thursday, Oct. 30.

The program will be devoted to Halloween stories, games and treats. Children are invited to come to the story hour in their Halloween costume. Although the story hour will be presented twice, the library asks that parents choose to bring their children to one of the programs.

The Great Neck Branch Library is located at 1251 Bayne Drive. The Oceanfront Branch Library is located at 1811 Arctic Avenue.

Bike rodeo announced

The Virginia Cooperative Extension Service, the Great Neck Area 4-H Leaders Committee and the Great Neck Branch of Virginia Beach Public Library are sponsoring a bike rodeo at the library on Saturday, Nov. 1 at 10 a.m.

The two hour bicycle safety program is intended for children of all ages. The program will include films and lectures, and participants who have bicycles will be able to practice riding through an obstacle course. A Virginia Beach police officer will be present to discuss bicycle safety.

The Great Neck Library is located at 1251 Bayne Drive in the Hilltop area.

CPR taught at Bayside

The Tidewater Chapter of the American Heart Association will present a class in Cardio Pulmonary Resuscitation (CPR) at the Bayside Branch of the Virginia Beach Public Library on Wednesday, Nov. 12, from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m.

The instruction is being sponsored by the Junior League of Norfolk and Virginia Beach. It is free and open to all adults. Interested persons may register by calling the library at 464-9280.

The class will be limited to 25 participants. The Bayside Library is located at 936 Independence Boulevard.

Teen books discussed

A book talk describing new books for Beach teenagers will be held at the Bayside Branch of the Virginia Beach Public Library on Thursday, Nov. 6 at 7 p.m.

"Tex," by teen author S. E. Hinton, and "The Young Landlords," by the recently acclaimed black author Walter Dean Myers, will be featured among the books discussed by Carolyn Caywood, a librarian and a specialist in young adult literature.

The book talk will be the second in a series of monthly programs designed for teenagers who like to read. The half-hour program is free.

The Bayside Branch Library is located at 936 Independence Boulevard.

PAHS presents Matchmaker

Princess Anne High School will present "The Matchmaker," a full length play, on Friday and Saturday, Nov. 14 and 15 in the school auditorium at 8 p.m. Tickets will be on sale at the door.

Disabled institute set

A Regional Information Utilization Institute concerning the nation's disabled citizens will be held Oct. 29-31, at the Ocean Beach Holiday Inn, 39th Street and Atlantic Avenue.

"Independent Living Rehabilitation: Selected Concerns" is the topic for this year's institute.

The Virginia Beach Chapter of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority presents, "Unlimited Motion: A Potpourri of the Arts."

It will feature: The Motion Unlimited Dance Ensemble; The Lambda Gamma Omega Chorale Ensemble; and The Rellas and Fellas of Ivyland.

The program will be presented on Saturday, Nov. 1 at First Colonial High School at 7:30 p.m.

For further information call 420-3063 or 486-3455.

Marines celebrate

The United States Marine Corps will celebrate its 205th Birthday this year.

In observance of the occasion, the Virginia Beach Detachment of the Marine Corps League, will hold its Birthday Ball on Nov. 8, at the Ramada Inn-Mariner, 57th and Oceanfront, with a banquet and dance.

All Marines, past and present, are invited to attend. Call 340-9137 or write: Marine Corps League, P. O. Box 62553, Virginia Beach, Va., 23462, for information.

Trampoline demo set

Ray Shackelford, physical education teacher at Woodstock Elementary School, will introduce the Round Trampoline to Virginia Beach area residents at two days of free clinics, Nov. 7 and 8, at Dixie Sporting Goods Company, 403 South Witheduck Road, Virginia Beach.

The public is invited from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. on Friday and from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Sunday.

CITY COUNCIL NEWS

"Don't sell Norfolk short"—McCoy

Beach sides with Norfolk on water

By Lee Cahill
Sun City Council correspondent

Virginia Beach is continuing its support of Norfolk's proposals to dig four wells in Suffolk and Isle of Wight County but still sees the long range answer to its water problem in a regional water authority.

Monday evening, City Council endorsed a resolution supporting Norfolk in the well projects but made no commitment toward any possible litigation in which Norfolk may become involved.

At the earlier informal session, Mayor J. Henry McCoy Jr., said that concerning the short-range solution to the water problem, "Do we support Norfolk in litigation or do we not, if Norfolk gets into deep litigation, are we helping ourselves (by helping Norfolk)? I don't think we should sell Norfolk short."

City manager George L. Hanbury recommended going on record again (another resolution was approved on Oct. 13) in encouraging Norfolk to start the wells. Suffolk and Isle of Wight have refused to issue Norfolk permits to dig the wells which are on Norfolk property but in the neighboring jurisdictions.

Hanbury said that the wells which the Navy is permitting Norfolk to dig on land owned by the Coast Guard in Driver to meet Navy's needs, still would not make up for the water needed to serve the rest of the Norfolk system including Virginia Beach. Other wells have to be constructed, he said.

He said that he thanked the people of Virginia Beach who have brought water consumption down to 13 million gallons a day when the goal was 15 million a day.

Hanbury said the long range plans involve amendment of the water contract Virginia Beach has with Norfolk.

Councilman Reid Ervin said that in terms of what it will cost Virginia Beach, it is less expensive if Norfolk increases its system even if Virginia Beach has to pay or help pay the cost of digging the wells.

Hanbury said the long range answer is a regional water authority. The drought has been a visual exercise, he said, on how much we're at the mercy of another system. He urged getting on with the desalting project. He said environmental restrictions are becoming more severe on methods of treating water.

McCoy said the public wants to know, "Why aren't you doing something?" He recommended that a water authority be created including the four jurisdictions with similar problems — Chesapeake, Virginia Beach, Norfolk and Portsmouth. He said the other communities in the Southeastern Virginia Planning District, such as Suffolk, Southampton and Isle of Wight Counties and Holland, have different problems.

The four-city authority should explore the possibility for enw water pooling resources we have such as lakes, the Northwest River, deep wells.

The water discussion will be continued by Council at 11 a.m. Monday.

Councilman Reid Ervin said that until the recent governor-prescribed meeting in Chesapeake, the region has never had a joint meeting of knowledgeable officials from each city. He said that effecting a regional system will require statesmanship... Somebody's going to do it behind the scenes... We'll get regional when there's no other choice." He said he thought Chesapeake was willing.

McCoy said he did not believe it. "Norfolk and Portsmouth won't, he said, and Suffolk and Isle of Wight don't see it now."

Councilman Clarence A. Holland said that co-operation came close in 1972 with Southampton Company.

Ervin said the trouble with that plan was that it took a lot of farm land. Ervin suggested waiting for a report with recommendations being prepared by Public Utilities director Aubrey Watts before making any decisions.

Councilwoman Meyera Oberndorf said she supported a regional authority, but she noticed Councilman Robert E. Summers was quoted as saying Virginia Beach would have to pay the $2 million cost of digging the wells. "Before it's over we can become the victims rather than the persecuted."

Hanbury said that when Norfolk makes changes the whole rate system will be revamped. Virginia Beach has to pay its share, and all we can ask is an equitable rate. He said that the majority of Norfolk's Council supports this. So far the cost has been equitable — on a cost basis plus four percent profit.

He said that the drought is "the worse we have ever had. We are using less water now than in 1977 and we have 27,000 more people." The idea that Virginia Beach growth is causing the problem is wrong.

Ervin said that wells in times of extreme drought may be Norfolk's only source. He said that Summers did not think that Virginia Beach should pay the total cost.

Councilman John A. Baum said, "We have to get around to regional cooperation. Who ever heard that every city has to have its own water? It doesn't make sense. We need more support from the state."

Ervin said of the wells, "We're talking about a fresh water aquifer, but the saline line is moving westward (because Union Camp wells and other wells). That's why I think desalting will be our answer."

Councilman Patrick L. Standing said that the situation is not going to change. He said there had been plans to develop surface sources in Isle of Wight and Southampton County, but they were stopped by the State Water Authority. "We can't get anyone to agree to commit sources. We need a water dictator. That's what we need. The governor abdicated his authority. I don't think wells will be the answer to long-range plans." The State Water Study Commission meets on Nov. 3, he said but this body has no authority.

Oberndorf said there seemed to be "no way to go except to support Norfolk and the cost will be cranked into the rate system."

Ervin pointed out that if Virginia Beach paid the entire cost it would still amount to one or to two cents per 1000 gallons of water.

Merrick figured that with Norfolk's current wholesale price at 67 cents per 1000 gallons, the additional cost would still leave it below the cost of developing local sources at 80 to 86 cents a 1000 gallons and desalting at $1.63 a 1000 gallons. "So it behooves us to develop Norfolk's water system because it's still the cheapest water."

Ervin said that impounded water is still the cheapest. It costs more to treat well water.

SALEM CIVIC LEAGUE

At the formal meeting of council, Charles Emerson, representing the Salem Village Civic League, said the members were concerned about the water problem. He suggested the city look to different sources for water and questioned why Norfolk should go out and buy water from someone else and sell it to us. "Why can't we look to another supplier...so this won't happen again."

Emerson turned in a petition signed by most of the residents, he said.

CABS AND SEAMEN

What happens at a Nov. 17 Tidewater Regional Transit District meeting may have some bearing on whether or not a Norfolk cab company will be permitted to pick up merchant seaman at Lynnhaven inlet in Virginia Beach.

Mayor J. Henry McCoy Jr., who has served on the TRT Commission doesn't expect anything to happen to promote regional cooperation in the area of cab service. He said the TRT has been studying the problem for three years and nothing has changed. Brown Auto Services, the for-hire branch of

Yellow Cab of Norfolk, wants a certificate of public convenience to permit the company to serve the merchant seamen entering at Lynnhaven Inlet. Ordinarily, the merchant seamen would enter at Norfolk, but the backup of coal ships on Hampton Roads has made it necessary for a number of the ships to anchor off Lynnhaven.

Brown claims that it offers a specialized service to the Merchant seamen.

Under respective city ordinances, however, Norfolk companies are not permitted to pick up fares in Virginia Beach and Virginia Beach companies are not permitted to pick up fares in Norfolk. As a result, cabs charge passengers a fare-and-a-half if crossing the city line is involved because the driver has to return empty.

The Virginia Beach companies want to change all that because a fare both ways is more profitable than a fare-and-a-half one way and the passenger would benefit, too. Norfolk companies, apparently, have resisted the change.

Virginia Beach City Council seems agreeable to granting the certificate of public convenience if Norfolk cab companies support regional, rather than local, taxi service.

Cab companies are expected to discuss this at the Nov. 17 meeting. At that time a consultant hired by the Norfolk companies, will present his report on the subject.

Mayor McCoy, who has a copy of the report, said the recommendation of the consultant is to leave things as they are.

ney for Brown, said the consultant based his recommendations on the density of the cities and the number of people per transit miles.

City manager George L. Hanbury, who had recommended against granting the certificate, said that in the summer, the population is more dense at the Beach.

McCoy asked Nick Cohen, attorney for the Virginia cab companies, "Do you think this meeting will change anything?"

Cohen said, "No."

Council deferred action until after the Nov. 17 meeting by a vote of 7-4. Voting against deferment were Vice Mayor Harold Heischouer, Mayor McCoy, Councilwoman Reba McClanahan and Councilman Donald Merrick.

Council, however, did approve an ordinance change which deletes the requirements that certificates be issued from the May 1 of each year and that the application be filed on March 1 of each year. Hanbury said the changes, which would have permitted Council to approve the Brown application, would allow for more flexibility in other cases as well. Opposing this amendment were Councilwomen Barbara Henley and Meyera Oberndorf, Mayor McCoy and W. H. Kitchin III. Kitchin said that the ordinance was "special legislation. He's asking for a permit and right away we're going to pass an ordinance."

Brown had requested the certificate for seven limousines.

Councilwomen Meyera Oberndorf asked Langley Land, President of Brown, if he were willing to appeal to Norfolk City Council to drop the fare-and-a-half stipulation.

Land said he was not opposed to regional cooperation and that he would be willing to go to Council to state the case.

Councilman John A. Baum said the city was "looking for a breakthrough in this parochial interest."

Simpson said that a fare-and-a-half is a complicated issue and that there may be another way to answer the problems.

Kitchin said there should be some meeting of the minds before Council grants the certificate.

Cohen pointed out that no individual businessman can guarantee that Norfolk can do anything for Virginia Beach. He said the problem is more than regionalism. He said it was a waste of gas for a cab to return without a fare.

He added that Virginia Beach companies have turned in 27 permits this year because of failing business.

Heischouer said that the seamen on the coal freighters need special services and last week Brown showed it was supplying these special services. He said that the seamen were becoming the pawns in the controversy.

Henley said she read two letters submitted in support of Brown last week and she figured they were form letters because they said the same thing. She said she felt the Virginia Beach companies could serve the seaman just as well.

Collection point announced

Lynnhaven Colony United Church of Christ, North Great Neck Road, will serve as the collection depot for the Church World Service clothing drive currently being conducted by many Virginia Beach congregations.

Clothing collected should be brought to the depot between noon and 5:30 p.m. on Sunday, Nov. 16. On Monday, Nov. 17, a Church World Service truck will pick up the clothing for delivery to the processing center at New Windsor, Maryland.

THERE ARE LOTS OF GOOD REASONS TO DRIVE 55. ONE WEARS A BADGE.

The maximum speed limit in Virginia is 55. Driving faster can cost you a lot more than just the extra gas you're burning.

Speeding violations can cost you your license.

Loss of control of your automobile at high speed can cost you your life. Or someone else's.

So please drive 55. And Virginia law enforcement officers will try to see to it that everyone else does, too.

Beach Jaycees Porkfest attracts 250

By Greg Goldfarb,

Porkfest and politics

Badly needed rain last week didn't dampen the spirits of those on hand for the recently held Virginia Beach Jaycees fourth annual Porkfest.

"This year's Porkfest was the best one to date," said Jaycee president Ed Taylor.

"Despite the rain we had plenty of food and beverages for everyone; and we were delighted with the turnout of local politicians."

According to Porkfest chairman Al Craig, in addition to the local politicians who attended the function held at Jungle Falls, approximately 240 others participated.

"We had about 250 people at the event," Craig said, "and raised $1,500 for our Jaycee chapter which will be used to fund such activities as our talent show for the handicapped and our outstanding young citizen award, which will be given next month."

"I think in general this year's feast was pretty successful. Our ultimate goal is to have 1,000 people at it."

Craig said the concept behind the porkfest includes presenting the politicians to the public.

"The whole concept behind the porkfest," Craig said, "is to bring the community and the politicians together at an event where they both can be exposed to each other. All the politicians we invited either showed up, or sent a letter of regret. Those who attended included: Virginia Beach Commonwealth's attorney, Andre Evans; Virginia General Assembly delegates Buster O'Brien, Owen Pickett, and Glen McClanan; Assembly candidate Julie Smith; city councilwoman Reba McClanan; former councilmen Buddy Riggs; and Beach clerk of court, Curtis Fruit.

Craig said he also appreciated the work of the sponsors who contributed time and energy to the success of the Jaycee event.

"I would like to thank the sponsors," Craig said, "who contributed at least $1,500 in beverages at the feast. Those who participated include: Lone Star Industries, Norfolk and Virginia Beach; The Republican Party; Concordia Enterprises; Budget Car Rental; and Worrell Brothers."

That's a lot of pork!

Food consumed at the feast, according to Prices Catering, Virginia Beach, included: 200 pounds of boneless Boston pork butts; 117 pounds of Boston baked beans; 77 pounds of coleslaw; and 60 dozen sweet potato rolls.

Students study Indians

Bobby "Black Eagle" Perez, a fifth grader at Fairfield Elementary, peers over an Indian shield he made during his art class. Under the direction of art teacher Kandice Lucas, Bobby and his fourth and fifth grade schoolmates made shields, bows, spears, and costumes, and each chose an appropriate Indian name to match the art work on their shield.

Lucas involved the students in Indian art work during a time when most of them were studying the American Plains Indians as part of their social studies curriculum.

VIRGINIA: In the Circuit Court of the City of Virginia Beach City of Virginia Beach Development Authority, Plaintiff,

v. Taxpayers, property owners, and citizens of Virginia Beach, including non-residents owning property or subject to taxation therein, and all other persons interested in or affected in any way by the issuance by the City of approximately $1,850,000 industrial development revenue bond (Colonial Mill Associates, A Virginia Limited Partnership), Series of 1980, Defendants.

MOTION FOR JUDGMENT

Plaintiff, the City of Virginia Beach Development Authority (the "Authority"), seeks judicial determination pursuant to Article 6, Chapter 5, Title 15.1, Code of Virginia of 1950, as amended, of the validity of up to One Million Eight Hundred Fifty Thousand Dollar ($1,850,000.00) Industrial Development Revenue Bonds (Colonial Mill Associates, a Virginia limited partnership) Series of 1980 (the "Bonds") to be issued to pay the cost of constructing and equipping a building to be jointly a medical facility and general office building (the "Facility"), in the City of Virginia Beach, Virginia, to be leased or sold to Colonial Mill Associates, a Virginia limited partnership (the "Company") and states as follows:

1. The Authority was duly created by Chapter 643, 1964 Acts of Assembly 975, as amended, of the Commonwealth of Virginia (the "Act"), and is a political subdivision of the Commonwealth of Virginia. The Authority has been continuously organized and operating under the Act since its creation, and no dissolution proceedings pursuant to the Act have been adopted or instituted.

2. At a meeting called and held on December 14, 1979, and amended at a meeting held on August 5, 1980, the Authority adopted a resolution agreeing to undertake the issuance of the Bonds upon terms and conditions to be mutually agreed upon between the Authority and the Company, with the Facility to be leased or sold to the Company upon terms designed to assure payment of the Bonds by the Company in accord-dance with their terms and to provide security for the repayment thereof. The proceeds of the Bonds, when issued, will be used to finance the costs of constructing and equipping the Facility and the issuance of the Bonds.

3. When issued, the Bonds will be valid, legal and binding limited obligations of the Authority, payable solely from the revenues and receipts received from the lease or sale of the Facility to the Company and other security therefor. The Bonds will not constitute a debt or a pledge of the faith and credit of the Commonwealth of Virginia or any political subdivision thereof, including the Authority and the City of Virginia Beach, no taxing power of any political subdivision will be pledged to the payment of the Bonds, and the Bonds will not constitute an indebtedness within the meaning of any debt limitation or restriction.

WHEREFORE, the City of Virginia Beach Development Authority, prays that the Court grant a prompt hearing and enter a decree with the least possible delay pursuant to Section 15.1-213 et seq., including Section 15.1-217 of the Code of Virginia of 1950, as amended, and that (1) all proceedings heretofore taken in connection with the authorization or issuance of the Bonds are legal and valid; (2) the Bonds may be issued to finance the Facility; (3) assuming their due authorization, execution and delivery, the Bonds issued for the Facility will be valid, legal and binding limited obligations of the Authority; and (4) such additional matters as may be specially requested by the parties or as the Court may deem necessary to be applicable to this proceeding.

VIRGINIA BEACH PUBLIC NOTICES

v.

Taxpayers, property owners and citizens of the City of Virginia Beach, including non-residents owning property or subject to taxation therein, and all other persons interested in or affected in any way by the issuance by the City of Virginia Beach Development Authority of approximately $450,000 Industrial Development Revenue Bonds for the Benefit of Inslaw Associates, A Virginia Partnership

MOTION FOR JUDGMENT

Plaintiff, the City of Virginia Beach Development Authority (the "Authority") seeks judicial determination pursuant to Article 6, Chapter 5, Title 15.1, Code of Virginia 1950, as amended, of the validity of the Authority's Industrial Development Revenue Bonds (the "Bonds"), in an amount now estimated at $450,000, for the benefit of Inslaw Associates, a Virginia partnership, to be issued to pay the costs of the construction and installation of an office building for commercial tenants (the "Facility") to be located in the City of Virginia Beach, Virginia to be owned by Inslaw Associates, a Virginia partnership (the "Company") and states as follows:

1. The Authority was duly created in July, 1964 by an Act of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Virginia in Chapter 643 (S372) Acts of Assembly, 1964 Session, and is a political subdivision of the Commonwealth of Virginia. The Authority has been continuously organized and operating under the Act, as the same has been amended from time to time, since its creation, and no dissolution proceeding pursuant to the Act has been adopted or instituted.

2. At a meeting duly called and held on May 6, 1980, the Authority adopted a resolution, a copy of which is attached hereto and made a part hereof by reference as Exhibit A, agreeing to undertake the issuance of the Bonds upon terms and conditions therein contained, with the Facility to be constructed by the Company upon terms designed to assure payment of the Bonds by the Company in accordance with their terms and to provide security for the repayment thereof. The proceeds of the Bonds when issued will be used to finance the costs of constructing and installing the Facility and costs and expenses in connection with the issuance of the Bonds.

3. When issued, the Bonds will be valid, legal, and binding limited obligations of the Authority, payable solely from the revenues and receipts received from the lease or sale of the Facility to the Company and other security therefor. The Bond will not constitute a debt or a pledge of the faith and credit of the Commonwealth of Virginia or any political subdivision thereof, including the Authority and the City of Virginia Beach, no taxing power of any political subdivision will be pledged to the payment of the Bonds, and the Bonds will not constitute an indebtedness within the meaning of any debt limitation or restriction.

WHEREFORE, the City of Virginia Beach Development Authority prays that the Court grant a prompt hearing and enter a decree with the least possible delay pursuant to Section 15.1-213 et seq., including (1) all proceedings theretofore taken in connection with the authorization or issuance of the Bonds are legal and valid; (2) the project constitutes an Authority facility under the provisions of the Act; (3) the Bonds may be issued to finance the Facility; (4) assuming their due authorization, execution, and delivery, the Bonds issued for the Facility will be valid, legal, and binding limited obligations of the Authority; and, (5) such additional matters as may be specially requested by the parties or as the Court may deem meet.

City of Virginia Beach Development Authority,
Plaintiff,

v.
Taxpayers, property owners, and citizens of Virginia Beach, including non-residents owning property or subject to taxation therein, and all other persons interested in or affected in any way by the issuance by the City of approximately $200,000.00 Industrial Development Revenue Bond (Fairchild Associates, a Virginia General Partnership), series of 1980, Defendants.

MOTION FOR JUDGMENT

Plaintiff, the City of Virginia Beach Development Authority (the "Authority"); seeks judicial determination pursuant to Article 6, Chapter 5, Title 15.1, Code of Virginia of 1950, as amended, of the validity of up to Two Hundred Thousand Dollar ($200,000.00) Industrial Development Revenue Bonds (Fairchild Associates, a Virginia general partnership) Series of 1980 (the "Bonds") to be issued to pay the cost of constructing and equipping a building for use as an upholstering and retail furniture repair and manufacturing business (the "Facility") in the City of Virginia Beach, Virginia, to be leased or sold to Fairchild Associates, a Virginia general partnership (the "Company") and in part operated by Fairchild's Custom Upholstering and states as follows:

1. The Authority was duly created by Chapter 643, 1964 Acts of Assembly 975, as amended, of the Commonwealth of Virginia (the "Act"), and is a political subdivision of the Commonwealth of Virginia. The Authority has been continuously organized and operating under the Act since its creation, and no dissolution proceedings pursuant to the Act have been adopted or instituted.

2. At a meeting called and held on August 5, 1980, the Authority adopted a resolution agreeing to undertake the issuance of the Bonds upon terms and conditions to be mutually agreed upon between the Authority and the Company, with the Facility to be leased or sold to the Company upon terms designed to assure payment of the Bonds by the Company in accordance with their terms and to provide security for the repayment thereof. The proceeds of the Bonds, when issued, will be used to finance the costs of constructing and equipping the Facility and the issuance of the Bonds.

3. When issued, the Bonds will be valid, legal and binding limited obligations of the Authority, payable solely from the revenues and receipts received from the lease or sale of the Facility to the Company and other security therefor. The Bonds will not constitute a debt or a pledge of the faith and credit of the Commonwealth of Virginia or any political subdivision thereof, including the Authority and the City of Virginia Beach, no taxing power of any political subdivision will be pledged to the payment of the Bonds, and the Bonds will not constitute an indebtedness within the meaning of any debt limitation or restriction.

WHEREFORE, the City of Virginia Beach Development Authority, prays that the Court grant a prompt hearing and enter a decree with the least possible delay pursuant to Section 15.1-213 et seq., including Section 15.1-217 of the Code of Virginia of 1950, as amended, and that (1) all proceedings heretofore taken in connection with the authorization or issuance of the Bonds are legal and valid; (2) the Bonds may be issued to finance the Facility; (3) assuming their due authorization, execution and delivery, the Bonds issued for the Facility will be valid, legal and binding limited obligations of the Authority; and (4) such additional matters as may be specially requested by the parties or as the Court may deem necessary or applicable to this proceeding.

Haynes Haynes Haynes

"More" can mean bigger, better, greater or even nicer or easier. At Haynes, the largest furniture showroom on the East Coast, we fit every category ... 5 acres of furniture, carpet and accessories, each in individual room settings to help you visualize the look in your home. And most items are in stock, ready to go.

But there's more than a tremendous selection ... a free nursery for your young ones, coffee shop to think over your purchase and even free decorating service to ensure you're happy with your selection.

What does Haynes have that's less? Price.

Virginia Beach Showroom: 5324 Va. Beach Boulevard, Daily 10 am to 9:30 pm; Hampton Showroom: 4113 W. Mercury Boulevard, Daily 12 noon to 9:30 pm, Saturday 10 am to 9:30 pm.
